HIS HONOR THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR.

PROSPECTUS.

THE Committee appointed by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, in the Government Resolution dated the 9th December 1875, for the temporary management of the Zoological Gardens, desire to lay before the public the following statement.

In January 1867 Dr. Fayrer, C.S.I., proposed a scheme for the establishment of such an institution, which was considered by the Natural History Committee of the Asiatic Society of Bengal. In February 1873 Mr. L. Schwendler again addressed the Council of the Asiatic Society on the same subject, and his suggestions were carefully discussed by Sub-Committees of the Asiatic Society and of the Agri-Horticultural Society. On both occasions unanimous opinions were expressed in favour of the schemes submitted, and they were only abandoned for want of a suitable site.

The principal features of the scheme now proposed are—

(1.)—To provide recreation, instruction, and amusement for all classes of the community.

(2.)—To facilitate scientific observations of the habits of animals, more especially those peculiar to tropical climates.

(3.)—To encourage the acclimatization, domestication, and breeding of animals, and to improve the indigenous breed of cattle and farm stock.

(4.)—To promote the science of zoology by the interchange, import, and export of animals.

After laying out the ground, the Committee propose to construct deer paddocks, aviaries for pheasants and fancy fowls, houses for aquatic birds, and as soon as possible, a bear-pit, a substantial building for carnivora, iron enclosures for birds of prey, a large monkey-house, a snake-rockery, and an aquarium on the most approved plan; it is also proposed to devote some money to the adaptation of part of the grounds for the requirements of the acclimatization and agency branches. After the attainment of these objects the Committee would enclose the Garden by an ornamental iron railing, and build a bandstand, an entrance lodge for keeper, servants' houses, a refreshment room, and finally a hall to be devoted to lectures, with accommodation for a zoological library and museum. Places for picnic parties will be prepared as soon as possible.

The site having been presented by the local Government, the Committee have estimated that to establish the Gardens on an adequate and attractive scale the sum of Rs. 3,00,000 will be required. This amount they confidently expect can be raised by donations and the sale of tickets. They rely on the liberality of the public for support.

Donors.—Donors of Rs. 10,000 and upwards will be Life Governors of the Gardens. They will belong to the General Council of the Gardens, and large donations will be spent as far as possible on the erection of a complete building in honour of the donor.

Donors of Rs. 5,000 and upwards will be Life Members of the General Council of the Gardens, i.e., will have a voice in their management.

Donors of Rs. 1,000 and upwards will be Honorary Members of the Gardens, and their names will be enrolled on the list.

Donations may be made by instalments.

All donors will, with their families, have—(i) free admission on all days except those set apart for the zenanas; (ii) privilege of entrance in private carriages; (iii) the right to introduce two friends on Members' days; (iv) facilities for the export and import of animals; (v) use of the hall, zoological library, and museum.

Members.—Membership can also be obtained by the purchase of tickets according to the following scale:—

Personal life tickets, and not transferable, Rs. 100. Personal life tickets Rs. 150, transferable when the holder leaves India or Calcutta permanently, on payment of a registration fee of Rs. 25 for transfer.

Privileges of Members.—All Members will have—(i) free admission on all days except those set apart for the zenanas; (ii) privilege of entrance in private carriages; (iii) one day a week exclusively for Members; (iv) the right to elect annually from among themselves three Members to belong to the General Council; (v) facilities for the export and import of animals; (vi) use of the hall, zoological library, and museum.

Fees for admission (subject to revision if thought advisable).

Sunday	... ...	4 annas.
Monday	... ...	½ anna (intended for the poorer classes only).
Tuesday	... ...	1 anna.
Wednesday	... ...	For members only.
Thursday	... ...	8 annas (the 1st and 3rd Thursday in each month for zenanas, at 8 annas for each native lady in a palanquin and 2 annas for each native woman on foot).
Friday	... ...	2 annas.
Saturday	... ...	4 annas (band will play).

Tikka gharries and carriages not belonging to members will be charged one rupee for admission, in addition to the entrance fee.

Palanquins 8 annas additional.

The Gardens will be open from half an hour before sunrise to an hour after sunset.

The Committee now trust that they may obtain the cordial support of all classes. Donations have been received, and more have been promised: all will be duly notified. At the same time the Committee are fully aware of the difficulties which beset a novel undertaking, and, being anxious to meet the wishes of the public, will be glad to receive and take into consideration any suggestion that may be offered.

Applicants for Membership, either by donations or by tickets, would oblige the Committee by now addressing the Honorary Secretary.

C. E. BUCKLAND,
Honorary Secretary, Zoological Gardens.

The mean barometer, as likewise the dry and wet bulb thermometer means, are derived from the twenty-four hourly observations made during the day.

The dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants. The figures in column 10 represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity. The receiver of the lower rain gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the anemometer 70 feet 10 inches, above the level of the ground. The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

No. 2367, dated Fort William, the 16th November 1875.

From—R. B. CHAPMAN, ESQ., Secy. to the Government of India, Financial Dept.,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department.

I AM directed by the Hon'ble the President in Council to invite the attention of the Government of Bengal to the subject of the expenditure incurred for the purchase of books published in India, and to suggest the expediency of some restrictions upon the discretion now exercised by heads of offices in this matter.

2. It appears to the Government of India that, as a rule, books should not be bought at the public expense without the previous sanction of the local Government, or, under its instructions, of certain responsible heads of departments, and further that such sanction should not, except for special reasons, be given to the purchase of any books, except law books.

3. Moreover, the Government, as a rule, should not undertake to supply, at the public cost, commentaries or annotations on Acts of the legislature: such works ordinarily form part of an officer's private library.

4. Directories and such like works should only be allowed under special circumstances, where there may be evident inconvenience to the public service if they are not at hand for reference. The local Government should decide to what offices books published by the Government should be supplied, such as the Postal Guide, the Civil Lists, the Codes of the Financial or Public Works Departments, the Army Lists, &c. In future, indents for such books should not be complied with unless received through the local Government, or authorised by some general or special order of the local Government. No payment should be required for books of this class.

5. The suggestions in this letter have reference only to books published in India. The purchase of newspapers and other periodicals, and of books published in Europe or America, is subject to separate regulations.

6. The Government of India will be glad to see in due course any instructions which may be issued in consequence of these orders.

Circular No. 19.

COPY forwarded to all officers and departments of this Government for information, with an intimation that no books, except those mentioned by the Government of India, are in future to be purchased without the sanction of Government.

2. Nothing, however, in this notification shall pledge the Resident at Hyderabad to provide the exact sums estimated to be available in the months specified, and such tenders as are approved will be registered for final acceptance, to the extent to which money may be actually available. As a guide, however, to Bankers, Capitalists, and others, to tender for the probable surplus during the year above quoted, it is hereby intimated that the surplus cash balances available annually for the preceding three years amounted to Rs. 1,57,00,000, or an average per annum of Rs. 52,33,333, and that the probable surplus for the ensuing season, it is estimated, will be about Rs. 40,00,000, as shown in statement below.

3. All tenders should be submitted in sealed envelopes, addressed as follows:—

WITHDRAWAL OF BERAR SURPLUS FOR SEASON 1876.

Tender for Bills on (Akola or Oomraottee, as the case may be) for the month of (February or March, as the case may be).

TO THE FIRST ASSISTANT RESIDENT,
HYDERABAD DECCAN.

4. Tenders must on no account be written in the vernacular, and should specify the month or months for which the tenders are made. Separate tenders must be submitted for each month for bills on Akola, and separate tenders must also be submitted for each month for bills on Oomraottee. Infringement of this rule will involve rejection of the tender. For the convenience of intending purchasers, printed forms of tenders will be kept in stock by the Extra Assistant Commissioner, Hyderabad, and will be issued to applicants.

5. The name and address of the person tendering should be clearly written at foot of the tender in English (in addition to vernacular, if signature is in vernacular).

6. Tenders may be for the whole or any portion, in even thousands, of the amount advertised.

7. Tenders must specify the rate of exchange at which the tender is made, the par or assay value of 100 Government Rupees being equivalent to 116-14-6 in Halli Sicca Currency.

8. Each tender must be accompanied by a deposit of Rupees 5,000 in Halli Sicca coin, or Government Securities, as a guarantee of good faith; which deposit will be returned in the event of non-acceptance of tender, but the tender itself will not be returned.

9. Tenders will be opened at the Hyderabad Residency at noon on Tuesday, the 8th day of February 1876; and persons tendering are invited to be present, or to be represented by their Agents.

10. The Resident will not bind himself to accept the highest or any tender, nor will any reas onbe assigned for rejection of tenders.

11. Persons whose tenders may be finally accepted in whole or in part will be required, at the option of the Resident, to deposit 10 per cent. of the amount of their tenders on acceptance, and no portion of the deposit will be refunded till the full amount of bills is received into the treasury. This deposit will be forfeited in whole or in part, at the option of the Resident, in the event of non-compliance with the terms of the tender.

12. Persons whose tenders may be finally accepted, will be required to pay the amount of their tenders into the Resident's Treasury between the 15th of the month to which the tenders refer and the 14th of the month following. No larger amount will be received on any one day into the Government Treasury than can be conveniently shroffed by the establishment entertained for that purpose.

13. Persons whose tenders may be finally accepted, will be required to pay the equivalent into the Resident's Treasury at Hyderabad in new Halli Sicca Rupees prior to the issue of bills.

14. The bills will be drawn at sight, in even thousands, and paid in Government Rupees at the treasuries drawn upon. No bill will be drawn for less than 5,000 Government Rupees, but bills for sums not less than this amount, in even thousands, will be issued to suit the convenience of purchasers.

N.B.—If, when the last instalment of land revenue has been paid up, the state of the collections should warrant such a course, a supplementary notification will be issued stating whether any and what further limited amount will be available for withdrawal.

Actual surplus available for withdrawal from Berar annually for the three years 1873 to 1875 and that estimated to be available for the year 1876.

Act of the Legislative Council of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication.]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 4th January 1876, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

Act No. I of 1876.

THE INDIAN TELEGRAPH ACT, 1876.

CONTENTS.

An Act to amend the law relating to Telegraphs in India.

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to Telegraphs in India; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

I.—Preliminary.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Indian Telegraph Act, 1876":

Local extent. It extends to the whole of British India, and, so far as regards subjects of Her Majesty, to the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her Majesty;

Commencement. And it shall come into force at once.

Repeal of Acts. 2. Act No. XXXIV of 1854 (for regulating the establishment and management of Electric Telegraphs in India) and Act No. VIII of 1860 (for regulating the establishment and management of Electric Telegraphs in India) are hereby repealed:

Saving of existing licenses and rules. But all licenses granted, declarations made and rules framed under either of the said Acts and now in force, shall be deemed to have been respectively granted, made, and framed under this Act.

Interpretation-clause. 3. In this Act—

"Telegraph." "Telegraph" means an electric or magnetic Telegraph:

"Telegraph officer." "Telegraph officer" means any person employed either permanently or temporarily in connection with a telegraph established or maintained and worked by the Government, or by a company or person licensed under this Act; and

"Message." "Message," means any communication sent by telegraph, or given to a telegraph officer to be sent by telegraph or to be delivered.

II.—Privileges and Powers of Government.

Exclusive privilege of establishing telegraphs. 4. Within British India the Governor-General in Council shall have the exclusive privilege of establishing lines of telegraph:

Proviso as to licenses. Provided that the Governor-General in Council may grant a license to any person or Company to establish or to maintain a line of telegraph within any part of British India, which license shall be revocable on the breach of any of the conditions therein contained.

Power to take possession of telegraphs established by license. 5. On the occurrence of any public emergency, or in the interest of the public safety, the Governor-General in Council or the Local Government may take temporary possession of any line of telegraph established or maintained by any Company or person licensed under this Act, or may order that any message to or from any person or relating to any specified subject, shall be intercepted or communicated to the Government or any officer thereof mentioned in such order.

If any doubt arises as to the existence of a public emergency or whether any act done under this section was in the interest of the public safety, a certificate signed by a Secretary to the Government of India or to the Local Government shall be conclusive evidence on the point.

Power to establish telegraphs on land of railway company. 6. Any railway company, on being required so to do by the Governor-General in Council, shall permit the Government to establish upon the land of such company, whether within or without the railway fence as the Governor-General in Council may in each case determine, a line of telegraph, and shall give every reasonable facility for establishing, maintaining and using the same.

Power to frame rules for the conduct of Government telegraphs. 7. The Governor-General in Council may, from time to time, frame rules consistent with this Act, for the conduct of telegraphs heretofore or hereafter established by Government, and may therein prescribe the regulations, conditions and restrictions according to which all messages and signals shall be transmitted by such telegraphs.

Power to frame rules for telegraphs established by license, 8. The Governor-General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India,

(a) prescribe rules for the conduct of any telegraph established or maintained by any Company or person licensed under this Act;

(b) declare what portions of this Act shall be applicable to such telegraph and to persons using the same, or employed in connexion therewith;

and to declare Act applicable to telegraphs established within British India by Foreign Powers. (c) declare that this Act, or such portions thereof as may be specified in the notification, shall be applicable to any telegraph established or to be established within British India by any Foreign Prince or State with the consent of the Government of India, and to persons using such telegraph or employed in connexion therewith.

All rules prescribed under this section shall have the force of law.

Government not responsible for loss or damage. 9. The Government of India shall not be responsible for any loss or damage which may occur in consequence of any telegraph officer failing to transmit with accuracy or to deliver any message given to him for transmission or delivery; and no such officer shall be responsible for any such loss or damage, unless he causes the same negligently, maliciously or fraudulently.

III.—Penalties.

Whoever, otherwise than under a license duly granted as aforesaid, establishes, or after revocation of such license maintains, a line of telegraph within British India, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one thousand rupees, and for every week during which such line shall be maintained, shall be liable to a further fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

A's. under the restoration. The Baboo offers this prize as a humble token of the gratitude felt throughout this district to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor for the restoration of this college to its old status, and would be glad if His Honor would allow the prize to be called the Temple Prize.

I think it very likely that we shall get subscriptions enough to make the prize a permanent endowment of the college. I have promises of other prizes also for our first batch of B. A's. I should like to notify these prizes at once in the public papers.

COOCH BEHAR DIVN.	16	Darjeeling, Jan. 7, '76	·21	Weather—very cold and misty. A slight fall of snow on Monday, the 3rd instant. In the Terai the harvesting of the winter rice crop is nearly completed. The young crops of barley and wheat are suffering for want of rain. In the hills wheat and barley are progressing well.
	17	Julpigoree, " 8, "	.06	The early part of the week was unusually cold. Sometimes cloudy and slight rain on Monday. Cold weather crops promise well. Hoemunte harvest operations nearly completed. Ploughing for bhadoi dhan has commenced.
		Cooch Behar, " 6, "	Nil.	Weather—very cold. Days cloudy. A few drops of rain only on the 3rd. Harvest almost reaped. Winter crops are promising. Rain is wanted. Health of the people is generally good.
		Eastern Districts.
DACCA DIVN.*	18	Dacca, Jan. 10,* '76	Nil.	Weather—seasonable. State and prospects of the crops are good.
	19	Fureedpore, " 8, "	Nil.	Weather—seasonable. The prospects of the rubbee crops continue favorable. There is a little cholera in the Goalundo sub-division.
	20	Backergunge, " 6, "	Nil.	Weather—cold and fair. The usual Christmas rains have not come down yet. The harvesting of the paddy crops is nearly over. The ravages of insects are reported to have ceased. Winter crops promise fair returns. Cholera and fever are still prevalent.
	21	Mymensingh, " 7, "	Nil.	Weather—fair and cold. No rain has fallen in any part of the district. State and prospects of the crops are favorable. The planting out of the boro crop in the east of the district is nearly concluded.
	22	Tipperah, " 7, "	Nil.	Weather—cool and seasonable. The reaping of the amun, or the late rice crop, is nearly brought to a close, and the outturn will, it is believed, be about 12 annas on the whole. The winter crops are in fair condition, but rain is much wanted. Cholera is abating.
CHITTAGONG DIVN.	23	Chittagong, " 6, "	Nil.	Weather—cool. Rain is wanted for the cold weather crops. General health of the district is good, but cholera is still prevailing at Futtekcherri.
	24	Noakholly, " 6, "	Nil.	Weather—cold and clear. The reaping of the amun, or the late rice crop, is not yet finished. Pulses, chillies, linseed, sesamum, &c., are moderately progressing. Cholera is abating.
	25	Chittagong Hill Tracts, " 4, "	Nil.	Weather—seasonable; very cold at night and foggy up to 9 o'clock in the morning. Mustard is in flower. Owing to the want of moisture in the soil a poor outturn is anticipated. Tobacco and chilli are being sown.
		Hill Tipperah, " 5, "	Nil.	No change to report in the weather or of the prospects of the crops. Cholera still prevails in the neighbourhood of Udaypore.
BEHAR.
PATNA DIVN.	26	Patna, Jan. 10,* '76	Nil.	No change since last report, that is, the rice crop is now being reaped, and the Collector does not think, on the whole, it will be a bad one. No rain, but heavy dews, which would seem to be sufficient moisture for the spring crops, as they look remarkably well. Health of the district is good.
	27	Gya, " 8, "	Nil.	Weather—cold and clear, with heavy dews at night. The rice crop is almost entirely reaped and stored. The prospects of the rubbee are fair: where there is irrigation it will do well. Rain is much wanted in other parts.
	28	Shahabad, " 8, "	Nil.	Weather—clear and cold. Paddy crops are harvested. Prospects of the rubbee crops are good.
	29	Durbhunga, " 8, "	·21	Weather—cloudy up to the 4th; since then fine and very cold. There was a slight shower on the morning of the 3rd instant. 0·39 inch of rain was registered at Mudhoobunnee. The report from Tajpore has not been received. The rubbee crops have been benefited by the rain considerably. The prices of food-grains are falling throughout the district. Large importations into Mudhoobunnee from Sarun and other districts are reported.
	30	Mozufferpore, " 8, "	0·9	Weather—cold and clear. Prospects of the crops in Mozufferpore and Hajeepore sub-divisions remain unchanged. In Seetamurhee sub-division the crops have been much benefited by a fall of 0·52 inches of rain.
	31	Sarun, " 8, "	Nil.	Weather—cold and foggy in the early part of the week; clear and seasonable for the last three days. Both east and west wind. The prospects of the cold weather crops are generally favorable. There was a slight fall of rain on the night of the 2nd and 3rd instants, in almost all parts of the Sewan sub-division, which has done some good. Peas are bearing fruit. Indigo fields are still being prepared for the next year's crops. Poppy everywhere forward. Prices have fallen. General health of the district is good.
	32	Chumparun, " 7, "	0·37	Weather—nice and cool. The sky is overcast now and then. There is nothing new to report regarding the state of the late rice crop. The general shower of the long looked for rain fell on Sunday night. It has much improved the condition of the rubbee and poppy crops.

* Telegrams of the 10th January, received on the same day, show rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

No.	District and date of return.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather, state and prospects of the crops, and state of health at date.
BEHAR.—(Contd.)
BHAGULPORE DIVN. 33	Monghyr, Jan. 8, '76	Nil.	Weather—cold and seasonable. The paddy crop is nearly all cut and harvested; the outturn for the district, as anticipated, being nearly an average one. The rubbee is going on well.
34	Bhagulpore, " 10,* "	Nil.	At Soopole ·38 inch and at Mudehpoora ·10 inch rain fell. The rain has fallen where it was most wanted. Rubbee prospects are still very good. Condition of the people is good. General health of the district is very good.
35	Purneah, " 8, "	0·13	Weather.—Very heavy fog in the morning. The aghany rice has been reaped, and the outturn is quite up to expectations. Rain is wanted for the rubbee, the prospects of which have hitherto been very favorable.
36	Sonthal Pergha. " 9, "	Nil.	Weather—extremely variable, sometimes close and sometimes bracing. The harvesting of the paddy crop is nearly over. The rubbee is no worse than anticipated. The mustard is beginning to be got in.
ORISSA.
ORISSA DIVN. 37	Cuttack, " 1, "	Nil.	No change since last report. Crops are doing well. There is still a little cholera and some cattle disease.
38	Pooree, " ...., "	Nil.	Weather—clear and a little cold. The sarud, or the main rice crop, is being harvested with good outturn. Some pulses are being gathered, and others are progressing. Cotton is being sown. Sugarcane is being cut. In Khoordah the prospects of winter crops are good, and the paddy crop is being harvested. Cholera still lingers at some places.
39	Balasore, " 7, "	Nil.	There was an appearance of rain towards the end of the week. The sky became clouded and the barometer fell. No rain has fallen, but the cloudiness has not passed away. Main harvest nearly concluded. Yield is excellent. Cholera cases not so frequent, but still severe in the south of the district.
CHOTA NAGPORE.
	South-Western Frontier Agency.
40	Hazareebagh, Jan. 7, '76	Nil.	Weather—occasionally cloudy. The prospects of the winter crops are very bad for want of rain. Not half the usual quantity has been sown, and only about half of what has been laid down has germinated; and what is growing is very backward, and will soon perish if rain hold off.
41	Lohardugga, " 8, "	Nil.	Weather—seasonable; no rain in this week. The rice harvest seems to have been very good everywhere. The prospects of the cold weather crops are also reported to be very fair, but rain is required.
42	Singbhoom, " 7, "	Nil.	Weather seasonable. No rain, but still there are no unfavorable reports of the rubbee crops. The district is healthy.
43	Manbhoom, " 8, "	Nil.	Weather very dry; the dew is very slight. All crops are promising well.

* Telegram of the 10th January, received on the same day, shows rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

The mean barometer, as likewise the dry and wet bulb thermometer means, are derived from the twenty-four hourly observations made during the day.

The dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants. The figures in column 10 represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity. The receiver of the lower rain gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the anemometer 70 feet 10 inches, above the level of the ground. The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

RESOLUTION.

The 17th January 1876.—The notifications referred to on the margin showed from time to time, the number of appointments in the several grades of Magistrates and Collectors and of Judges at different periods, since the introduction, in 1873, of the scheme of parallel lines of promotion in the executive and judicial branches of the Covenanted Civil Service. But consequent on the arrangements necessitated by the constitution of the Chief Commissionership of Assam, and by the transfer to that administration of the district of Sylhet, there has been a reduction, as regards appointments under the Government of Bengal, of one first grade and of one second grade Judgeship. On the other hand, two additional Judgeships on Rs. 1,200 each have been created, one in the districts of Darjeeling and Julpigoree, and one in the district of Chittagong. The number of appointments, therefore, in the judicial and executive branches of the service is now as follows:—

Dated the 15th April 1873.

No. 2367, dated Fort William, the 16th November 1875.

From—R. B. CHAPMAN, ESQ., Secy. to the Government of India, Financial Dept.,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department.

I AM directed by the Hon'ble the President in Council to invite the attention of the Government of Bengal to the subject of the expenditure incurred for the purchase of books published in India, and to suggest the expediency of some restrictions upon the discretion now exercised by heads of offices in this matter.

2. It appears to the Government of India that, as a rule, books should not be bought at the public expense without the previous sanction of the local Government, or, under its instructions, of certain responsible heads of departments, and further that such sanction should not, except for special reasons, be given to the purchase of any books, except law books.

3. Moreover, the Government, as a rule, should not undertake to supply, at the public cost, commentaries or annotations on Acts of the legislature: such works ordinarily form part of an officer's private library.

4. Directories and such like works should only be allowed under special circumstances, where there may be evident inconvenience to the public service if they are not at hand for reference. The local Government should decide to what offices books published by the Government should be supplied, such as the Postal Guide, the Civil Lists, the Codes of the Financial or Public Works Departments, the Army Lists, &c. In future, indents for such books should not be complied with unless received through the local Government, or authorised by some general or special order of the local Government. No payment should be required for books of this class.

5. The suggestions in this letter have reference only to books published in India. The purchase of newspapers and other periodicals, and of books published in Europe or America, is subject to separate regulations.

6. The Government of India will be glad to see in due course any instructions which may be issued in consequence of these orders.

Circular No. 19.

COPY forwarded to all officers and departments of this Government for information, with an intimation that no books, except those mentioned by the Government of India, are in future to be purchased without the sanction of Government.

The following order, issued by the Government of India, Financial Department, is republished for general information :—

No. 214.—The 14*th January* 1876.—Expenditure.—Education, Science, and Art.—Ordered that the following despatch from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, No. 7 (Educational), dated 14th October 1875, be published in the Gazette of India, with the remark that the day on which an examination is passed is the day on which the examination which an officer passes is held, or the last day of such examination if the examination last more than one day :—

"With reference to the despatch from your Excellency in Council in the Financial Department of the 9th of August last, No. 269, I have to inform you that I approve of the recommendation therein made that the first increase of pay to be given to an educational officer is to date in future from the day on which he may pass the prescribed examination, namely, the Higher Standard, whether that examination is passed before or after the completion of the first year of service.

"Care will be taken to make this point clear in the terms of agreement entered into by gentlemen nominated hereafter by the Secretary of State."

No. 274.—The 14*th January* 1876.—Leave and Allowances.—The Governor-General in Council directs that the following be substituted for the first para. of Rule 2(b) of Section 28 of the Civil Leave Code :—

We (or I) do hereby certify that according to the best of our (or my) professional judgment, after careful personal examination of the case, we (or I) consider the health of C. D. to be such as to render leave of absence for a period of———absolutely necessary for his recovery.

Notice to transferor.

58. If the application alleges that the applicant has acquired the right by transfer from any living person, a copy of such notice shall be served on the alleged transferor by delivering or tendering to the person to whom it may be directed a copy thereof attested by the Collector, or by delivering such copy at the usual place of abode of such person, or to some adult male member of his family, or, in case it cannot be so served, by posting such copy upon some conspicuous part of the usual or last known place of abode of such person.

In case such notice cannot be served in any of the ways hereinbefore mentioned, it shall be served in such way as the Collector issuing such notice may direct.

Provided that it shall not be necessary to serve such notice on the alleged transferor if a registered deed of transfer of the proprietary right is produced before the Collector.

Inquiry by Collector.

59. On the day fixed in the notice, or as soon thereafter as possible, the Collector shall consider any objections which may be advanced, and make such further inquiry as appears necessary to ascertain the truth of the alleged holding of, or succession to, or transfer of, the property; and if the holding appears to exist, or the succession or transfer appears to have taken place, and the successor or the transferee to have obtained possession as alleged, and not otherwise, the Collector shall order the name of the holder, successor, or transferee (as the case may be), to be entered in the proper Registers.

Provided that any person to whom any proprietary right in an estate has been mortgaged may be registered as mortgagee, whether he be in actual possessor of such estate or otherwise.

Summoning and attendance of witnesses.

60. For the purpose of the inquiry mentioned in the last preceding section and of every inquiry held under this Act, the Collector shall have power to summon, enforce the attendance of and examine witnesses, and to compel the production of documents by the same means and (as far as may be) in the same manner as is provided in the case of a Court by the Code of Civil Procedure.

In what cases Collector to refer to Civil Court.

61. If in the case of the alleged transfer from a living person, the fact of possession by the applicant is not proved; or if the right of succession be disputed by, or on behalf of, any person making a conflicting claim in respect thereof; and it be not proved to the satisfaction of the Collector that the applicant has acquired possession in accordance with his claim to succession;

the Collector shall refer the matter to the determination of the principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction.

Procedure on making a reference under last section.

62. In making a reference under the last preceding section the Collector shall state for the information of the said Court in writing under his hand

(1) the name of the estate or revenue-free property to which the reference applies, together with the numbers which it bears on the General Register and on the revenue-roll of the district;

(2) the names of all the persons who now stand registered on the General Register as proprietors, managers, or mortgagees;

(3) the names of the applicants for registry;

(4) the circumstances of the case as far as they are before the Collector, and the reasons which have led him to make the reference.

Procedure on receipt of reference.

63. On receipt of such reference the said Court shall cite the parties concerned, and give notice of the time at which the matter will be heard; and after expiration of the time so fixed, shall determine summarily the right to possession (subject to regular suit as hereinafter mentioned), and shall deliver possession accordingly.

Judge may appoint curators.

64. Whenever a reference has been made to the said Court as provided in section 61, if it shall appear to the Judge thereof that danger is to be apprehended of the misappropriation or waste of the property before the summary suit can be determined, such Judge may appoint curators for the care of the property, and may exercise all or any of the powers mentioned in sections five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, twelve, and thirteen of Act XIX of 1841.

Decision of Judge to be final.

65. The decision of the Judge upon the summary suit under this Act shall have no other effect than that of settling the actual possession; but for this purpose it shall be final, not subject to any appeal or order for review.

Civil Court to certify its determination to Collector.

66. The Civil Court shall certify to the Collector its determination as to the right of possession, and the Collector shall accordingly make the necessary entry in the proper Register.

Manager, &c., must apply for registration.

67. Every person appointed by the Collector, by the Court of Wards, or by any Court of Justice, whether under the designation of manager, curator, surberakar, or any other designation, to manage any estate or revenue-free property, is hereby required to apply for registration of his name as such manager within three months of the date on which this Act comes into force, or of his appointment, whichever period may last expire, and on receipt of such application the Collector, if satisfied that such appointment has been made, shall register the name of the applicant.

Fees for mutations and entries.

68. The Lieutenant-Governor may prescribe proper fees for mutations or entries in the Registers; provided that no fee for a singl, mutation or entry shall exceed one hundred rupees.

Such fees shall be levied from the person in whose favor the mutation or entry is made, and shall be expended in such manner as the Local Government may think fit.

Penalty for omitting to comply with provisions of Act.

69. Whoever being required by this Act to apply for the registration of his name, voluntarily or negligently omits to make such application within the prescribed period, and whoever shall fail to supply any information, or to attend, or to produce any document when required by the Collector under this Act, shall be liable to such daily fine as the Collector may think fit to impose, not exceeding fifty rupees, and such fine shall be payable daily until such direction or requisition shall be complied with; and the Collector may proceed from time to time to levy any amount which has become due in respect of any such fine, notwithstanding that an appeal against the order imposing such fine may be pending.

Provided that whenever the amount levied under any such order shall have exceeded five hundred rupees, the Collector shall report the case specially to the Commissioner of the Division, and no further levy in respect of such fine shall be made otherwise than by authority of the said Commissioner.

Unregistered proprietor deprived of power to sue for rent.

70. No proprietor of an estate or revenue-free property, or of any share in such estate or property, shall be entitled to avail himself of any of the remedies provided by Act No. X of 1859 (to amend the law relating to the recovery of rent in the Presidency of Fort William), or by Bengal Act No. VIII of 1869 (to amend the procedure in suits between landlord and tenant), or of any law for the time being in force relating to the realization of rents, with regard to any estate or revenue-free property in respect of which his name may remain unregistered, unless he shall have presented an application to the Collector for registration of his name, as such proprietor.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Regulations of 1793 and of 1800 required the Collectors of Districts to prepare and keep up registers of landed proprietors of revenue-paying estates and revenue-free tenures, and imposed on all persons succeeding to such property, whether by inheritance, purchase, gift, or otherwise, the obligation of giving immediate notice of such succession to the Collector, and furnishing such information as might be necessary to enable the Collector to make certain other prescribed entries in the public registers, but the obligation could only be enforced by such fine as might be imposed by order of the Governor-General in Council, on a report of the circumstances of each case being submitted to him.

As early as 1837 the Board of Revenue reported to Government that there was much laxity in carrying out the requirements of these laws, and that the provisions as to compelling those who succeeded to possession to give notice thereof had become a dead letter, owing, in a great degree, to the cumbrous process by which alone they could be enforced. From that time to this, the advantages of enforcing regular and correct registration, and the most effectual means of so doing have frequently been discussed; but nothing has been done, and no attempt has yet been made to enforce registration.

In 1872 the Board of Revenue represented to the Government that the Legislature had recently imposed many new duties of importance on zemindars, obedience to which is to be enforced by process against the landholder individually, and not, as under the old laws, against the estate.

Act VII of 1868, of this Council, requires that the amount of demands against landholders for penalties incurred by breach of duties imposed by the law, and of many other demands against landholders, shall be levied by the process of certificates having the force of decrees of court against the individual landholders who have rendered themselves liable to the demand. Thus, when any landholder incurs a penalty by failing to perform a duty which attaches to the possession of his estate, or becomes liable for any other public demand, the amount of which may be levied under Act VII of 1868, it is essential to identify the person or persons in possession of the estate before the demand can be enforced. In the absence of registers in which the names of holders of estates are entered and successions regularly recorded, not only is such identification difficult, but it has sometimes been found impossible.

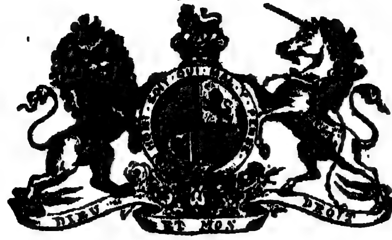
Under these circumstances, it has been found necessary practically to enforce the obligation which is imposed on landholders by the existing laws, of registering their holdings of estates and future successions thereto.

The Bill enforces the obligation by a daily fine on defaulters, to be imposed by the Collector, subject to an appeal to the Commissioner of the Division; and also by declaring that no proprietor shall be entitled to avail himself of any of the remedies which the existing law provides for the realization of rents, with regard to an estate in respect of which his name is not registered as a proprietor in possession, unless he shall actually have presented an application for such registration.

The Collector is vested with the powers of a Civil Court in respect of enquiries under the Act; and it is provided that when an application for registration is opposed, if the Collector cannot satisfy himself that one party has obtained possession as proprietor, he shall certify the existence of the dispute to the Civil Court, which shall be bound summarily to try and decide the question of right to possession; in accordance with which decision the Collector will make the registration in his books.

Managers of estates appointed by the Collector, the Court of Wards, and any Court of Justice, are required to cause their names to be registered.



It is provided that every registered proprietor and every person who is by the Bill required to apply for registration of his name in respect of any estate, shall be deemed liable for the discharge of any duty which is by law imposed on the proprietor of such estate.

The opportunity has been taken to repeal the provisions relating to the preparation and maintenance of the Collector's registers, which are scattered through many old Regulations, and which, to use the words of the Board of Revenue, require such "voluminous detail" that "the Registers were never kept up in such manner as to be really useful, in any district in Bengal."

So much of these provisions as are now required have been re-enacted in a form which is more convenient and better adapted to present circumstances.

IRRIGATION.

THE HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS said that, in the absence of the HON'BLE MR. DAMPIER, it devolved upon him to move the amendments, which stood in the name of the hon'ble member, in the Bill to provide for Irrigation in the provinces subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal. He would therefore move that the Bill be further considered in order to the settlement of its clauses.

The motion was agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS said the first amendment he had to propose was in Section 3 (clause VI) line 1:—

For the words "Court means the principal Civil Court of a district," substitute "Court means, in the Regulation Provinces, a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction, and in the Non-Regulation Provinces, the Court of a Commissioner of a division."

The amendment was agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS said he had now to propose the insertion of a clause after clause (h) of Section 11, to the following effect:—

"Notwithstanding anything contained in clause (c), compensation may be awarded in respect of the loss of any tolls which were lawfully levied on any river or channel at the time of the issue of the notification mentioned in Section 6."

He said that the Bill as it now stood provided that no compensation should be awarded in respect of any damage caused by the stoppage of navigation; and at the last meeting of the Council it was agreed that the wording of the section, as it stood, should be extended so as to include claims for compensation in respect of such cases as the Kurratiya River in the district of Rungpore. It seemed a reasonable clause, and he begged the Council would accept it.

The motion was agreed to.

On the motion of the HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS, the word "such" was omitted, and the words "under this section" after the word "compensation" inserted in Section 11, last clause but one, line 1.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS then moved the insertion of the following section after Section 11:—

"11*a*. If any supply of drinking-water is substantially deteriorated or diminished by any works undertaken in accordance with a declaration made by the Lieutenant-Governor under Section 6, the Canal Officer shall be bound to provide within convenient distance an adequate supply of good drinking-water in lieu of that so deteriorated or diminished, and no person shall be entitled to claim any further compensation in respect of the said deterioration or diminution."

He said it would be in the recollection of the Council that on the discussion of the question as to compensation for damage caused by the deterioration of drinking-water, it was determined that the words "drinking-water," as they originally stood, should be omitted. He believed the principle was accepted by hon'ble members that provision should be made for cases in which there was a loss of drinking-water. He therefore proposed to do so by the section he had moved.

The HON'BLE BABOO DOORGA CHURN LAW objected to the words "substantially deteriorated," and suggested the substitution therefor of the words "so as to be unfit for drinking purposes."

The HON'BLE THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL pointed out that the suggested wording would leave the matter more vague than before.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said he thought the object of the hon'ble member would be better met by the word "substantial" than by the words "unfit for drinking purposes." Water might be rendered substantially damaged without being unfit for drinking purposes.

The amendment proposed by the HON'BLE BABOO DOORGA CHURN LAW was then withdrawn, and the new section agreed to.

The HON'BLE THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL then moved the omission of paragraph 5, in Section 11, which ran thus:—

"And no compensation shall be awarded for any damage sustained by the person interested, which if caused by a private person would not render such person liable to a suit."

He said that that clause did not occur in the Act passed by the Governor-General's Council upon which substantially the provisions of the Bill were based. It was originally inserted for the purpose of carrying out the legal principle established by the courts in England under the Land Consolidation Act, where lands were said to be injuriously affected and which gave a person a right of action. It was thought better at the time to put that principle in a legal form, but on further reflection he found that inasmuch as the Act specified the cases for which compensation should be allowed and those in which it should not be allowed, it might possibly, instead of elucidating matters, obscure them; and that it might conflict with clause (d), which referred to the stoppage or diminution of the supply of water through any natural channel.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS said he had no desire to oppose the amendment. The words were not in the Northern India Act, and there appeared to be some ground for saying that their operation would conflict with the other sections of the Bill. He was prepared to agree to the amendment.

The motion was agreed to.

On the motion of the HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS, the following omissions were made in Section 25: In line 9 the words "under Section 20," and in line 10 after the word "twenty," the word "one."

In Section 38, in lines 6 and 7, for the words "whose decision shall be final," the following words were substituted:—

"Provided that such appeal be presented to the Commissioner, or to the Collector for transmission to the Commissioner, within thirty days of the decision appealed against.

"If no such appeal be preferred, the decision of the Collector, or if such appeal be preferred, the decision of the Commissioner, shall be final and conclusive."

Verbal alterations were then made, on the motion of the HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS, in Sections 48, 49, 50, 53, 54, 59, 63, and 91.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said that he might say that this Bill was one which was worthy of being passed by the Council. It really embodied all that was valuable and useful in the similar Bill which had been previously passed by the Supreme Council for the Northern Provinces and the Punjab. Besides that, this Bill contained fresh provisions which were found by local experience to be suited to the various provinces of this Government, and it had been carefully considered by the Select Committee and also very carefully discussed by the Council at a sitting held a week ago; and inasmuch as these most useful works were in progress both in Orissa and Bengal, it was most desirable that public officers and the people should have a clear law for their guidance. And if it should please the Council to pass the Bill now, HIS HONOR, speaking for the Local Government, would be glad of it.

On the motion of the HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS the Bill was then passed.

CALCUTTA MUNICIPALITY.

THE Hon'ble Mr. Hogg moved that the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Municipal affairs of Calcutta be further considered in order to the settlement of its clauses.

The motion was agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. HOGG would ask the Council to go back to section 72 of the amended Bill. The amendments which he was about to move had been circulated a week back, and what he had to suggest was the omission of the last clauses in sections 72 and 73, and the insertion of the following new section after section 73:—

"73*a*. No refund of rates shall be made under the two last preceding sections unless the same is applied for within six months from the date of cessation of occupation of the house or land on account of which the refund is applied for."

The object was simply to prevent complications which might arise under the Bill if the period was omitted.

The motion was agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. HOGG asked the Council to refer to the next amendment which stood in his name as the new section 76*a*, which ran as follows:—

"76*a*. Whenever any house or land has been unoccupied during an entire quarter, the owner of the said house or land shall pay to the Justices one-fourth of the sum which would have been payable as water-rate by the occupier if such house or land had been occupied.

"The sum payable by the owner under this section shall be payable on the first of April, the first of July, the first of October, and the first of January, for the quarters immediately preceding those dates."

He proposed the section with the object of meeting the decision which had been arrived at by the Council in regard to the payment of the water-rate by owners of houses in the event of houses remaining unoccupied for the whole of one quarter. The Council had already decided that the whole of the water-rate was to be collected, not as at present from the owners of property, but from occupiers, leaving the occupier to recover by means of deduction from the rents, one-fourth of the rate paid by him as occupier. Seeing that the occupier was called upon to pay one-quarter whether the house was occupied or not, it became necessary to provide power for the Justices to enable them to recover one-quarter of the rate from owners of property in the event of the house remaining unoccupied for the whole of one quarter.

The motion was agreed to.

On the motion of the HON'BLE MR. HOGG some verbal amendments were adopted in section 66, which were rendered necessary by the alterations previously made.

Section 251 relating to improvements in bustees having been read—

The HON'BLE MR. HOGG said that when this Part was last considered in Council, it was decided that the section which gave power to the Justices to carry out improvements and sanitary arrangements among existing bustees, should be somewhat less vague than was provided for by section 251 of the Bill; and it was further suggested by the Hon'ble the President of the Council that in giving that power to the Justices it would be desirable to enable the Government, in the event of the Justices refusing or not giving effect to the provisions of the section, to take measures with the view of giving effect to them.

As the matter was fully discussed the last time the Bill was before the Council, he presumed no further remarks on the question were called for from him. He would now ask the Council to refer to section 251*a*: they would find that it was now proposed to give the Justices power to propose such alterations. In the new section he had now provided, he proposed to omit the words "such other alterations as the Justices might consider necessary," and to confine the powers of the Justices to the construction of roads, drains, and sewers, and the filling up of low lands with a view to the removal of disease. He had also in the section given effect to the amendment carried on the motion of the hon'ble member on his left (Baboo Kristodas Pal) to prevent Justices taking action against huts, unless they were inspected and reported upon by two medical officers. According to the sections as they now stood modified, should the Justices be of opinion that these bustees required improvement, they would have to call upon two medical officers to submit a written report to the Justices in meeting regarding the condition of such places. It would then be the duty of these officers to send in a report in writing on the sanitary condition of the blocks of huts, and further to specify the improvements in the way of the construction of roads, drains, and sewers, and the filling up of low lands which they considered absolutely necessary for the removal of risk of disease arising out of the insanitary state of the block of huts. That was the condition proposed in section 251. He then followed it by a section which provided that if the local Government were of opinion that the Justices had failed to give effect to the provisions of section 251, it should be within the power of the Local Government to cause such block or block of huts to be inspected by the Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal, who should make a report in writing to the Local Government on the sanitary condition of the locality, and in the event of his reporting that the sanitary condition of the locality was such as to be attended with risk of disease to the inhabitants or the neighbourhood, should specify the huts which should be removed, the roads, drains, and sewers which should be constructed, and the low lands which should be filled up, with a view to the removal of such risk of disease.

The Government could then call upon the Justices to give effect to the provisions contained in the section; and if the Justices again failed to attend to what the Local Government considered absolutely necessary for the improvement of the sanitary arrangements of the huts, then only would it be in the power of the Local Government to take action in the matter. This was provided for in the following clause:—

"If the Justices make default in carrying out the said order of the Local Government, the Local Government may appoint some officer to perform the same, and such officer may exercise all the powers conferred upon the Justices by the last preceding section, and the expenses incurred in that behalf by such officer shall be paid by the owner of the land."

These sections, as far as MR. HOGG was able to understand the wishes of the Council, gave effect to the opinion which was generally expressed as to narrowing the powers of the Justices and enabling the Local Government to step in, in the event of the Justices failing to carry out their duty, and then only after the Government had requested the Justices to take action in the matter. He trusted, therefore, that the sections would meet with the approval of the Council. With these remarks he begged to move that sections 251 and 251*a* be inserted in the Bill, in lieu of the present section 251.

THE HON'BLE THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL said his hon'ble friend the mover of the amendment seemed to think that the Government should not take the initiative. Suppose the Justices did not wish to take measures in this direction. In such a case the Government ought to be entitled to initiate proceedings of a character so necessary to health. There was nothing in the section which compelled them to do so.

The section, the Advocate-General thought, ought to run thus:—"Whenever the Local Government was satisfied that any block of huts was in an unsatisfactory state," and then empower the Government to call upon the Justices to do what was needful in case they failed to take action in the matter.

The HON'BLE MR. HOGG said he would then propose to insert the words "in case the Justices omitted to take action under the last preceding section," then the Local Government should have the power of directing or taking such steps as may be deemed necessary.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL said that the section as amended was certainly less open to objection than those which had been brought forward before. But in endeavouring to make the provision of the law definite, the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill had introduced certain works which, perhaps he knew better than anybody else in the town, could not be carried out in practice. He alluded to the filling up of low lands. This question was over and over discussed by the Justices, and the hon'ble member had himself admitted that the operation would involve an amount of expenditure which many proprietors would not be able to meet; and not only that, but it would not be practicable to get the earth necessary to fill up low lands with which the bustees abounded. Then, again, as the section was worded, BABOO KRISTODAS PAL understood it to mean that works which might be specified by the medical officers, must be carried out by the Justices, and that they were not to exercise any discretion in the matter. Suppose the medical officers recommended that a road 18 feet broad should be constructed. [The Hon'ble Mr. Hogg:—"all or any of the works."] But the Justices would have no discretion to modify any of the recommendations of the medical officers. He was of opinion that the Justices should have a proper discretion in regard to the carrying out of the works, that was to say, to modify, if necessary, the proposals of the medical officers.

Then, again, clause 3 referred to the removal of huts. The occupiers were the persons who ought to remove huts, but the section also gave power to the Justices requiring either the occupier or owner to remove huts. The expenditure which would be thus entailed would fall upon the owners, and it was anything but fair that the proprietor should be made to bear the expenditure which would be incurred in the operation. Perhaps tenants might claim compensation for the removal of huts.

Then he came to the power proposed to be given to the Government to carry out such works should the Justices omit to take action or neglect to carry out the law. He could well appreciate the anxiety with which Government contemplated the improvement of bustees, particularly when so much had been written and talked about sanitation by sanitary authorities in England. He submitted that it had not been proved that the Justices had been wanting in duty to give effect to the law. It had been admitted by the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill that the law as it now stood needed revision by reason of its indefiniteness. It was now proposed to give definite and sufficient powers to the Justices. If the Justices had deserved the confidence of the Government and the public in carrying out all other improvements in the town, he did not see why they should be restricted in this matter. About six months ago, the Chairman of the Justices energetically moved in carrying out improvement of the bustees; and he believed the Hon'ble member would admit that the Justices heartily seconded him. So far as the works undertaken had gone, the Justices, as far as he was aware, had placed no obstacles in the way, though there had been difference of opinion in matters of detail; but on the general principle there had been perfect unanimity of opinion. Some of the owners had also shown a good spirit, and made advances to carry out improvements suggested by the Justices. Now, seeing that even in England it had been found necessary to guard the power of the sanitary authorities with all manner of restrictions, he did not think it was fair that there should be introduced a sort of double Government in the sanitary administration of Calcutta. If it had been the fact that the Justices did not take due action, or had failed in performing their duties, then it might be proper and reasonable to arm the Government with the powers desired. But, as he had observed, the Justices had not in any way neglected their duty, and it would be showing a want of confidence in them to introduce the new principle.

The HON'BLE THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL said that the power which it was intended to confer upon Government by the new section, was absolutely necessary. It might be perfectly true that the Justices had done all their work in an entirely satisfactory manner, yet it was obviously for the benefit of the town of Calcutta that these nuisances should be removed, and that they should be removed with a strong hand. It therefore appeared to him that all the power which could be brought to bear for getting rid of these nuisances or effecting a reform in these matters, should be vested either in the Government or the Justices. The power, if vested, would not be the least reflection upon the corporation, for if by some chance or by want of funds or other causes they professed themselves unable to carry out these works, he did not see why the Government should not call their attention to them, and, if they failed to do anything, carry out the works. This principle was followed in section 251*a*. Therefore, so far from this power being in any way in the nature of a supposed animadversion upon the conduct of the Justices, it simply afforded greater protection to the community, which suffered from the existence of these nuisances.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS proposed the omission of the words "other than an ordinary meeting" in the second line of section 251. He did not see any reason why a special meeting should be called for the purpose of considering these questions.

The HON'BLE MR. HOGG said that if the hon'ble member would refer to section 26 of the Bill, he would find that an ordinary meeting consisted of six Justices. He thought it was desirable that when any important work was taken in hand it should come before a meeting which should be composed of not less than nine Justices. That was the principle adopted in Select Committee, and one which might be very well accepted by the Council.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT had one word to say in regard to what had fallen from the hon'ble and learned Advocate-General as to the last clause of section 251*a*, which said that the expenses incurred on that behalf by such works should be paid by the owners of land. Well, now there was no limit to expenditure. How was the owner to improve if he refused to pay, or how could the expenses be recoverable? Would it not be desirable to make some condition which would make that clear, in order to allay apprehension on the part of the proprietors of these bustees? Every man liked to know the possible limit of charge. A case might arise in this wise:—Supposing there was a very small block which constituted the sole property of the owner, and when the expenses came to be settled, the owner said he was unable to pay. This would be a somewhat improbable case.

THE HON'BLE MR. HOGG explained that there was a sufficient protection given to owners of property. These places were to be inspected by two medical officers, and the Government, too, before any action was taken.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT thought that it was a fair charge upon the owner of property. He believed, as a matter of fact, that most of these blocks were large ones, and held as valuable property by rich native gentlemen, but there might be possibly some exceptions to them; and he presumed provision might be made to cover all such exceptions. There would then be this difficulty, that it might happen that a very objectionable neighbour might be part owner, and if a limited area was inserted in the Bill, the Justices would not be able to deal with these blocks at all.

THE HON'BLE MR. HOGG said that as in certain cases very heavy expenditure would fall upon owners, he would not object to strike out the word "sewers" in section 251.

The HON'BLE THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL said he thought that as the hon'ble the mover of the Bill did not object to striking out the word "sewer," the provision would meet most of the cases in which the owner of the property to be improved was a poor man; and he suggested that the amount expended should be recoverable by instalments.

THE HON'BLE MR. BELL said that it seemed to him very injudicious to lay down any particular limit of expenditure, and unless they had some definite information on the question, he thought it would be wrong for the Council to fix any such limit. In the case mentioned by the hon'ble member opposite, it was but fair to suppose that the works would be carried out by the Justices as economically as possible, and, without entailing any particular hardship upon private individuals.

There was one remark made by the hon'ble member opposite, Baboo Kristodas Pal, with which, however, he quite concurred, and to which he should like to call the attention of the Council for one moment. The hon'ble member suggested that the Justices should have a discretion in carrying out the works suggested by the medical officers. This seemed a reasonable suggestion. It might be that the Justices might not choose to carry out any works suggested by the medical officers. They might have plans of their own, which, in a sanitary point of view, would prove equally efficacious and more economical at the same time. If the works the Justices did carry out were not sufficient, it would of course be open to the Local Government under section 251*a* to insist upon the work being properly done. He certainly thought it was a question for consideration as to whether it was necessary to restrict the Municipality to carrying out works suggested by the medical officers, or whether it should not have the power of inaugurating works on their own motion. As he read the section, the Justices must confine themselves to carry out works suggested by the medical officer.

THE HON'BLE MR. HOGG desired to point out to the hon'ble member who last spoke, that these works were very limited in their nature. The first point was that the medical officers had to declare that there was actual risk of disease owing to the insanitary condition of the block. Having come to that decision, it then became the duty of the medical officers to decide what huts should be removed, or what roads, drains, or sewers should be constructed, or low lands filled up. These were the only works which fell within the scope of the section which it would be within the power of the medical officers to suggest to the Municipality; and certainly if the medical officers were agreed in their advice to the municipality, he thought it should be left to those officers to decide what works were absolutely necessary to remove the risk which they declared actually existed. He was not therefore prepared to accept the proposal that the Justices should be allowed to set aside the opinion of the medical officers as regards the works to be carried out; but he was quite prepared to adopt what the hon'ble and learned Advocate-General suggested, and to give the Justices power to carry out any special works. That seemed to him to meet all the objections raised by his hon'ble friend on the left (Baboo Kristodas Pal).

The HON'BLE MR. BELL said that when he made the suggestion he did not notice the words as they stood. He thought the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill had quite met the objection that had been urged.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL said he might mention one case which occurred only last week, and which was in the recollection of the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill. There was a tank in a bye-lane in Dhurrumtollah which the Health Officer considered most injurious to health. Now, the Chairman of the Justices had inspected the tank, and did not consider it to be so injurious. The Health Officer recommended that the tank should be at once filled up. The Chairman was of opinion that similar tanks were in existence in other parts of the town, and if this particular tank was filled up, the other tanks should also be filled up. The Justices concurred with the Chairman, and did not adopt the recommendation of the Health Officer. Now, common sense might suggest that certain things could not be carried out immediately or absolutely, and yet the medical officers might be of a different opinion; and as the section was worded, the Justices would be bound to carry out all the works proposed by them.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said it appeared to him that the Council had better retain the word "sewers;" but perhaps the retention of it would render the works too expensive in the case of large blocks.

The HON'BLE MR. HOGG proposed the insertion at the end of the clause of the words "or any portion thereof," and at the end of clause 3 the words "and it shall be within the power of the Justices, in case of poverty, to limit the construction to any portion of such works." He thought this would meet all cases.

The amendments were then put and agreed to, and the amended sections 251 and 251*a* were carried.

The HON'BLE MR. HOGG then moved the introduction of the following words after section 258:—

"Provided that no such license be granted by the Justices for the use of any place situated in the Suburbs as a slaughter-house without the permission in writing of the Municipal Commissioners of the Suburbs, except such place has been used as a slaughter-house before the passing of the Act, and provided further that all fees levied by the Justices for licenses to use places situated in the Suburbs as slaughter-houses be paid by the Justices to the Municipal Commissioners of the Suburbs."

The motion was agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS moved the insertion of the following words at the end of Section 258:—

"Provided that no license shall be necessary for any slaughter-house which exists or may be erected with the permission of Government upon land being Government property."

The HON'BLE MR. HOGG said he regretted he was unable to accept the amendment proposed by the Hon'ble Mr. Reynolds, and he would detain hon'ble members of Council for a few minutes to explain the circumstances which led to the question of the inspection of slaughter-houses, and the reasons for which present legislation was sought for. So far back as 1864, a commission was appointed under the orders of Government, consisting of Messrs. Schalch, Wells, and Horace Cockerell, whose duty was to inspect and report upon the existing slaughter-houses in the suburbs, and to suggest what arrangements would be necessary with a view to provide the town and the suburbs with suitable places for the slaughter of cattle. The committee appointed by Government condemned in very strong terms all the slaughter-houses in the suburbs, declaring that it was absolutely necessary for providing a proper supply of meat that a slaughter-house should be constructed in the immediate vicinity of the main sewer, and also within reasonable distance of a full and pure supply of water. The suburban municipality, in whose jurisdiction the slaughter-house was proposed to be built, were unable to undertake the work. Government then looked to the Justices in Calcutta to carry out the suggested improvements. Their funds were in a more flourishing condition than those of the sister municipality, and the Justices undertook the work on the understanding arrived at between the Suburban Commissioners and the Calcutta Municipality, and with the assent of Government, that no slaughter-house should be constructed in the suburbs to compete with the slaughter-house the Justices were willing to construct from municipal funds; and it was further arranged that all existing slaughter-houses in the suburbs should be absolutely closed, including the one at Kidderpore. The question then arose whether the Military authorities—that was, the Commissariat—should slaughter cattle at the new slaughter-house the Justices were about to construct. The Commissariat authorities were opposed to the arrangements, but the Committee, however, were very decidedly of opinion that the Kidderpore slaughter-house along with other nuisances of the same class, should be closed, and that the Commissariat Department should be compelled to have their cattle slaughtered at the new slaughter-house to be constructed by the Justices.

The recommendations of the Committee then went up to Government with a protest from the Commissariat Department. The local Government agreed with the recommendation of the Committee, that the Commissariat should slaughter their cattle at the municipal slaughter-house. The question was then referred to the Military authorities with the Government of India, and they also were of a like opinion. Consequently, orders were issued for the closing of the institution at Kidderpore, and that all slaughtering, both for the town and suburbs, should be carried on at the Justices' new slaughter-house. Under that clear understanding the Justices spent nearly three lakhs of rupees, not to carry out any improvements which they had themselves initiated, but with a view merely to acting up to the express wishes of the Government of Bengal and the Government of India. Well, when the slaughter-house was constructed, very great difficulty was found in closing the old slaughter-houses in the suburbs, and special legislation was resorted to. The Act passed was not found sufficient, and subsequently they were closed, as being public nuisances, under the Criminal Procedure Code. Owing to the one at Kidderpore in the possession of the Military authorities, being generally used by them, the Justices were unable to proceed against them, and it was allowed to continue an admitted nuisance for the last ten years merely because it had the support of the Military authorities, and the Military authorities, notwithstanding the decision arrived at by the Governments of India and Bengal, would not use and had not used the slaughter-house made for the use of the public. Now, MR. HOGG believed, owing to the action of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, the slaughter-house at Kidderpore was to be closed, and the Military authorities had suggested that another one should be constructed at Hastings. The matter was placed before the Justices so long back as July 1874, who recapitulated the whole facts of the case, and the report wound up by saying that the Justices had no desire to stand in the way of the wishes of Government.

After the matter had been discussed, the Justices informed the Government that the conditions laid down by Government had been acceded to by them, and that in reference to the proposed building at Hastings, they were prepared to grant a license, provided the Military authorities could satisfy them that its sanitary arrangements were such as would meet the conditions laid down in that letter, and that a private independent supply of water, apart from the Calcutta supply, was provided for its conservancy arrangements. The only parties that had a right to object to the present arrangements were the Suburban municipality. They, however, entered into an agreement between themselves and the Calcutta Municipality, and they were now perfectly satisfied, and only stipulated that since the Justices had by legislative enactment deprived them of the right to issue licenses, they should have a reasonable amount paid to them yearly, and that amount was fixed by them at Rs. 1,000. But it was true the Chairman of that Municipality suggested that the amount to be paid should be open to revision after five years. However, MR. HOGG had not thought it desirable or necessary to accede to that proposal, seeing that Rs. 1,000 annually was ample payment, and seeing that the Justices' slaughter-house being situated in the suburbs, they had to pay the usual house and other rates in it levied in the suburbs to the Commissioners. The Suburban Commissioners being satisfied, the Council was now asked to make exceptional legislation in favour of Government. He did not see why Government should object to let itself be governed by the rules laid down by themselves. No doubt if Government could satisfy the Justices that they desired to construct a slaughter-house upon proper sanitary conditions, supplying it with water, the Justices would be very ready to grant a license for the construction of a building at Kidderpore or elsewhere. But he did not think that the Council should, simply because the property belonged to Government, declare by legislation that Government should be entitled to use a building as a slaughter-house on land belonging to Government within the suburbs, and as he understood also, within the town of Calcutta. He would further submit that although there had been no legal binding agreement between the Calcutta Justices and the Suburban Commissioners and Government in respect of the number of slaughter-houses, yet there was a distinct understanding arrived at in 1864 on the requisition of Government, and upon that requisition the Calcutta Justices had expended from monies derived from the rate-payers nearly three lakhs of rupees; and it seemed to him, therefore, that this Council should hesitate before deciding upon exceptional legislation which would virtually set aside an agreement arrived at in 1865. For these reasons he was unable to accept the amendment.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS wished to point out that the proposed establishment would not be a new slaughter-house, but only the erection of a new one in place of the old, with certain improvements. He was quite aware of the conditions made by the Justices in 1874, but he was not aware of the acceptance of those conditions by Government.

The HON'BLE MR. HOGG said that they had been officially accepted by Government last week (?)

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL entirely concurred with the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill in the view he had taken as to the question which arose on the amendment. If hon'ble members would read the correspondence which passed between the Justices and the Government and which resulted in the establishment of the Tengrah slaughter-house, they would find that the work was undertaken by the Justices at the instance of Government, and for the benefit of the general community in the town and suburbs. It would, he thought, taking the view which his hon'ble friend had taken, be a sort of breach of faith on the part of the Government to deprive the Justices now of the revenues derived from the slaughter-house by authorizing the erection of one no Government land without getting a license from the Justices.

It was urged in favor of the amendment that the Kidderpore market would draw its supply of meat from the proposed slaughter-house. Now, if the interests of the Kidderpore market were to be consulted in preference to those of the town, he submitted that Government would be showing an undue preference to the former. Besides, so far as he could understand the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill, the Commissariat slaughter-house at Kidderpore was included in the report of 1864, and that if it had not been done away with, it was simply because the Military authorities did not defer to the orders of Government. The Justices were strong enough to suppress private slaughter-houses throughout the suburbs, but were powerless against the Military authorities. Now again it was proposed to make an exceptional case of the Kidderpore market because the Government was interested in it. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL thought that the only party which had a legitimate interest in the matter was the Suburban Municipality, and as a compromise had been effected between the two Municipalities by a division of the license fees, he did not see any reason why the Government should put in a claim for the erection of a slaughter-house on their own account.

The HON'BLE the ADVOCATE-GENERAL said that some years back the subject of slaughter-houses was discussed in this Council, and a law was passed in respect of them. It was declared that existing slaughter-houses in the suburbs were objectionable, that they were nuisances and ought to be removed, and one place constructed and adapted for all parties. He could well remember the time when private persons complained very bitterly of the resolution which had been arrived at. The principle referred to being once established, he could not see how that principle was to be broken in upon simply on the ground that it was convenient to Kidderpore that a slaughter-house should exist there. The same remark applied to every other market in Calcutta. It had also been said that it was not proposed to erect a new market. He took it that if you left one place and went to another it was making a new slaughter-house. If any exceptional and special grounds had been set forward before the Council for the proposed amendment, he would have been prepared to deal with the question. Beyond the reduction of some Rs. 300 in the shape of rents, there was no loss. The loss of revenue would not be great, inasmuch as that market would be supplied in the same way as the other markets were. He therefore thought they ought not to make any sort of exception in favour of a particular case, and it would not be right on the part of the Council to carry out by legislation a measure which would tend to the injury of the Justices. On those grounds he objected to the amendment.

THE HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS said that the sense of the Council being against the amendment, he would withdraw it.

The section as amended was then agreed to.

THE HON'BLE MR. HOGG moved at the end of section 259 to add the following words :—

"Provided that the Justices shall annually pay rupees one thousand to the Municipal Commissioners of the Suburbs by way of license fee for the slaughter-house established by the Justices at Tengrah."

This would meet the objection which had been placed before the Council by the Suburban Municipality. They had addressed the Council, and their representations were in the hands of hon'ble members. They urged that it would be unfair to deprive them of an income which they previously enjoyed from licensing slaughter-houses in the suburbs. He consulted with the Municipal Commissioners regarding their objections, and the amendment he now proposed to introduce would, he believed, meet all the objections the Suburban Commissioners had.

The motion was agreed to.

Section 260 to 266 were severally agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. HOGG moved the omission of the words "under the section" in line 32 of section 267.

The motion was carried, and the section as amended agreed to.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL moved the insertion of the words "not being firewood exposed for retail sale" after the words "moved" in clause (j), of section 268, but the motion was negatived.

The section as it stood was then agreed to.

Sections 269 to 290 were severally agreed to.

On the motion of the HON'BLE BABOO KRISTO DASS PAL, the words "within a year" were inserted after the word "conviction" in line 1 of section 291, and the section as amended was agreed to.

Section 292 was agreed to.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL moved the omission of section 293, but the motion on being put was negatived, and the section as it stood was agreed to.

Sections 294 to 340 were agreed to

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTO DAS PAL moved the insertion of the words "who shall not be a servant of the Justices" after the word "informer" in line 5 of section 321, but the sense of the Council being against it, the motion was withdrawn.

The section as it stood was agreed to.

Sections 322 to 324 were agreed to.

THE HON'BLE THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL moved the substitution of the words "which is to be determined by" for the words "referred to" in line 1 of section 325.

The motion was carried, and the section as amended was agreed to.

Sections 326 to 334 were severally agreed to.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTO DAS PAL moved the insertion of the words "duly registered" after the word "post" in paragraph 3, line 3 of section 335.

The motion was carried, and the section as amended was agreed to.

Sections 336 to 338 were severally agreed to.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTO DAS PAL moved the addition of the following proviso at the end of section 339:—

"Provided that the owner who makes such default shall be called upon to show cause why he will not execute the work required to be executed by him."

The HON'BLE MR. HOGG objected to the addition of the proviso on the ground that it was not in the interests of the rate-payers.

The motion was by leave withdrawn, and the section was agreed to.

Sections 340 to 347 were agreed to.

Schedules 1 to 9 were agreed to.

The postponed sections 1, 2, and 3, and the preamble and title were agreed to.

The Council was then adjourned to a day of which notice would be given.

Saturday, the 15th January 1876.

Present:

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, presiding,
The Hon'ble V. H. Schalch, c.s.i.,
The Hon'ble G. C. Paul, Acting Advocate-General,
The Hon'ble H. L. Dampier,
The Hon'ble Sir Stuart Hogg, Knight.
The Hon'ble H. J. Reynolds,
The Hon'ble H. Bell,
The Hon'ble Baboo Juggadanund Mookerjee, Rai Bahadoor,
The Hon'ble T. W. Brookes,
The Hon'ble Baboo Kristodas Pal,
and
The Hon'ble Nawab Syed Ashgar Ali Diler Jung, c.s.i.

His Honor the President said, before calling upon the Hon'ble Mr. Dampier to speak to the motion which stands in his name, I would just like to mention that there are three very important Bills which have been before the Council for a considerable time. The first of these is the Bill which will be brought forward to-day, relating to the registration of possessory titles in revenue-paying estates and revenue-free lands; the next is the Bill for the consolidation of the law regarding Municipalities; and the third is the Bill to make better provision for the partition of estates paying revenue to Government. There is every hope that these three Bills may, with the co-operation of the members, be passed in a reasonable time, provided nothing occurs to prevent their being speedily settled in committee, and hon'ble members on the Select Committees will be good enough to attend as regularly as possible, even at some sacrifice of their valuable time and inconvenience to themselves. I am confident that so much devotion to the public interests has been shown by hon'ble members both in their collective capacity and as individuals, that they will be good enough to give up a sufficient portion of their time and attention to these important questions to enable these measures to be speedily advanced to their final stage.

There is one other important Bill before the Council, viz. the Bill relating to the municipality of the capital city of Calcutta. I am happy to say that since the termination of the holidays, the Select Committee has given close attention to the important matter of constitutional change in the Municipality, and the principle of elective representation, and I believe they have so far advanced with the work that their report may be ready by the middle of next week; and if that should be the case, I propose that we take up the report of the Select Committee on the constitution of the Municipality at the next meeting of the Council this day week. In that case we may hope that progress will be made with speed, as well as the deliberation due to the interests of the many classes of the public who feel an interest in the question.

I now call upon the Hon'ble Mr. Dampier to speak to the motion in his name.

REGISTRATION OF POSSESSORY TITLES.

The Hon'ble Mr. Dampier said in January last he laid before the Council the reasons which led the Government to propose the passing of a measure for enforcing the compulsory registration of possessory titles. He mentioned that the existing law of 1793 and 1800 required such registration, but that the requirements of the law had been very laxly enforced, and that the means provided for enforcing it were so cumbrous as to be practically inoperative. The tendency of recent legislation had been, while insisting on the performance of certain duties and the fulfilment of certain obligations by the holders of land, to promote the security of landed proprietors by providing that whether for the enforcement of penalties on failure to fulfil such obligations, or for the realization of other state demands, process should be taken, in the first instance, against defaulting landholders individually, and not against the estate to the possession of which the obligation attached; recourse being had to the sale of landed property in the last resort only.

Act VII of 1868 of this Council exemplified the tendency of recent legislation to be in this direction. But in the absence of complete and correct registration of the names of the persons in possession of land as proprietors, it was often most difficult, and sometimes impossible, to identify the individuals on whom the law imposed the obligation which it was sought to enforce. On these considerations the Council accepted the necessity of practically enforcing the registration of the possession of landed property, which the existing law indeed required, but was ineffectual to secure. Since Mr. Dampier had asked leave to introduce the Bill, the time of the Council had been taken up by other important measures; but he had had the advantage of consulting on the subject the most experienced revenue officers who were concerned in the administration of the districts, and with the help of their suggestions and criticisms, he had framed the Bill which he had the honor to lay before the Council.

The existing old Regulations contained provisions prescribing the form of registers which should be prepared, and the manner in which they should be kept up. Those provisions were scattered over many of the old Regulations; their requirements were in such detail, and so minute, that it had been impossible to work them to any useful purpose. The present opportunity had therefore been taken to repeal the portions of the Regulations which touched on this subject, and to re-enact so much of them as would now be of use in a compact form more adapted to present requirements.

It might be thought that the second and third Parts of the Bill as laid before the Council contained much which might have been left to be provided for by instructions issued by the Executive Government for the guidance of its officers; and it was a fair matter for consideration whether the Bill need be so much in detail in regard to the preparation of registers.

In preparing the Bill, Mr. Dampier had thought it best to follow the model of the old Regulations in this respect, instead of wiping out all trace of them from the statute book of Bengal, and merely providing that the Board should prescribe the forms of registers; and he was inclined to think that this domesday book, so to call it, would be of such importance to the public, that it was desirable to lay down the lines for the guidance of the Executive with more distinctness and precision than was ordinarily necessary.

Section 4 prescribed four registers which the Collector should keep—the general register of revenue paying lands, the general register of revenue-free lands, a mouzahwar register of all lands revenue-paying and revenue-free, and an intermediate register of changes affecting entries in the general and mouzahwar registers. Every one of these registers was a counterpart of a corresponding register now kept up, or which it was now professed to keep up, and in regard to which there was more or less diversity in different districts. As to the general register of revenue-paying lands, it was divided into two parts, of the first of which he need say nothing, for it was the actual counterpart of existing general registers of estates borne on the towjee. But the second register was new. It provided for a systematic registry of lands lying in the district of one Collector, but belonging to an estate borne on the towjee of another district. The preparation of this register would cause much trouble. But in the administration of the Revenue Department officers were always coming upon difficulties caused by the want of such a register. Collectors had no formal collated record of information regarding the lands lying in their own districts, if those lands formed part of estates borne on the revenue-roll of the Collectors of other districts.

From the 6th section onwards were particulars of what the general registers of revenue-paying lands should contain. Of these particulars it was only necessary to draw the attention of the Council to two. He had introduced a provision requiring that under each estate should be entered all tenures within it which had been registered under the protective clauses of Act XI of 1859, whether such tenures were specially or ordinarily registered; whether they were protected against the Government or only against other parties. It had been suggested that the registration of these particulars would bring useful information into a convenient and accessible form. Mr. Dampier had some doubts as to whether it would be proper to show these particulars in the register, for it seemed to him dangerous to do anything which might delude intending purchasers into the belief that if they consulted this register, they were safe against the existence of incumbrances and adverse titles in estates which they wished to buy. Such was not the object of this register.

The second point was a provision that the names of mortgagees should be registered. Of this he should speak more fully when he came to the substantive section of the Bill on the subject.

Section 9 was a new section, and a very important one. The Council were aware that irrespectively of revenue-free lands held on titles which had been declared valid by competent courts and authorities, many districts were studded with plots of land held without payment of rent to any one, but which had never been authoritatively pronounced exempt from the payment of revenue. These (under the name of miliks for instance in Purneah) were to be counted in thousands. It was impossible to admit these on the registers as recognized revenue-free lands; and it was not desired to arouse the litigation which would be caused by forcing the rent-free holders to prove their titles to hold rent-free or revenue-free; but for the purposes of general administration it was necessary to hold some person liable in respect of such plots of land to the obligations which the laws imposed upon landholders; and to secure this object the Bill followed the example of the Embankment and Road-Cess Acts, and empowered the revenue authorities to attach such plots of land in his registers to any adjoining estate for the purposes of the Act only. Such registration carried with it no rights of any sort except such as were essential for the purposes of the Act. The obligation imposed on the holder of the estate to which such a plot was attached would then be to perform all duties in respect of such a plot as he would have to perform in regard to any land for which he received rent on his estate.

Register B was the register of revenue-free titles. This had been the subject of much enquiry; and the result was that the attempt to keep up the register now called C, the register of lakhiraj lands, had led to the most confused and diverse practice in different districts. In some districts those lands only were admitted to registration of which the titles had been pronounced valid by a competent court. In other districts every one who could show that he held land free of rent had been admitted to registry; every where the registers were admittedly imperfect; and admittedly it was almost impossible to bring them near perfection.

The Bill provided for the admission to this register, first, of lakhiraj tenures, of which the titles had been pronounced valid by a competent court;

And secondly, of those tenures of which the Government in recent times had conferred titles revenue-free; such as lands sold with a revenue-free title, and those of which the revenue had been redeemed by payment of a capitalized sum;

And thirdly, a discretion was given to the Board of Revenue to admit on the register any other lands as revenue-free; the intention of which was that even where a lakhiraj title had not been declared valid by a competent court, if the Board were satisfied that the title was one which, with due regard to the public interests, might be admitted to be revenue-free, they might order such land to be recognized as revenue-free land by entry on this general register B.

The second and third parts of this general register of revenue-free lands were new, but they merely brought into the system of registers prescribed by this Act lands which were already recorded in books prescribed by the Board. Is was necessary to provide for the inclusion of such lands in the registers prescribed by this Bill in order to attain the object of the Bill, which was to provide registers which should account for every acre of land in a district.

The mouzahwar register was prescribed in section 21 and the following sections. Such a register already existed. But the difference introduced by the Bill was this. Mouzahs were now registered according to pergunnahs. It had been suggested by more than one officer, and notably by Mr. Kemble of Purneah, that this mode of classification was now useless for any practical purpose. The pergunnah had ceased to be a unit for any practical purpose. It might consist of patches of land situated here and there, and surrounded by lands of other pergunnahs. The suggestion was that the mouzahwar register should be so prepared as to be useful for all purposes of general administration; for police and census purposes for instance, as well as revenue and fiscal purposes. This seemed to be a practical suggestion. But there was one difficulty. The pergunnah was an established unit of which the Government did not change or alter the limits; whereas the jurisdictions of thanas, as would be seen from the Gazettes, were constantly being extended or reduced, or changed, and it would certainly cause much inconvenience if the jurisdictions of thanas were changed immediately after a mouzawar register had been prepared under this Act, classified according to thana jurisdictions.

Mr. Dampier had thought it would be best that the Bill should leave the arrangement of the mouzahwar register elastic, to be adapted to circumstances by the Executive. The Bill therefore provided that mouzahs should be arranged, not according to pergunnahs, but according to the local divisions of any district; and a "local division" was defined to mean any local division, whether a pergunnah, thana, or any other which the Board of Revenue might prescribe for the district. So that in any district in which the revisions of thana boundaries had been concluded, the Board presumably would prescribe that the preparation of these mouzahwar registers should be according to police jurisdictions. And if the district were one in which those arrangements were in a "fluid state," they would presumably prescribe that the mouzahwar register should be arranged according to pergunnahs or some other unit.

Of the intermediate registers Mr. Dampier need not say much. They were the counterpart of what the present Regulations provided.

Sections 28 to 42 provided for the preparation, re-writing, and custody of the registers, and mainly followed the existing rules. Perhaps the Select Committee might think that a good deal of the details might be omitted from this Part, and left to be provided for by executive rules.

Part III related to the sources of information from which the registers shou'd be kept up. It followed the existing law, or rather several existing laws. The Bill provided in section 43 for four main sources of information of changes, to enable the Collector to keep up the registers correctly. It provided, first, that the civil courts should give notice of its decrees or orders which caused such changes; secondly, that registrars should give information of the registration of documents which effected such changes; thirdly, where parties came into possession of lands by transfer or succession, they were bound to give notice of such acquisition or possession; and fourthly, landholders were bound to give notice of the creation of new villages on their estates.

Part IV related to the registration and mutation of names of proprietors. It imposed the obligation to register on four classes of persons—first, on all persons who held proprietary possession, which by the definitions would include lessees of estates held directly from the Collector. They were bound to register within six months of the passing of the Act. Secondly, on every person who succeeded to such right, within six months of his succession; thirdly, on managers under the Collector or the Court of Wards or a court of justice, who must register within three months of their appointment or of the passing of the Act; and fourthly, any person who was registered as a proprietor, who might transfer his right, was required to give notice to the Collector of such transfer. These were the obligatory provisions; and there was a section 51 which was permissive only, and enabled a mortgagee to apply for registration of his name as a mortgagee. This provision was new, and introduced as the outcome of a discussion which had lately taken place as to relaxing the rigor of the Sale Law. After making inquiries and consulting the landed interest, the Government had come to the conclusion that stringent as the Sale Laws were, they invested revenue officers with ample discretion to work them without inflicting unnecessary hardship; and that in practice that discretion was so largely used by Collectors, and enforced by the controlling revenue authorities, that little reason was left to complain. If Mr. Dampier had rightly understood the conclusions to which the Government had come, he must say that he was well satisfied with them. It could not be denied that the Bengal sunset law, as it was called, which empowered a Collector to sell up an estate on which the smallest amount of land revenue remained unpaid on a certain hour of a certain day, had, when read alone, the appearance of being an extraordinarily arbitrary, severe, and Draconic law; and in this light it might strike any one until he came to examine the working of the law. When he did so he found that the law gave revenue officers ample powers to receive a payment of arrears which was tendered after the fixed date, and to put off the sale of the estate; and that in practice the Collectors, so to say, caught at any good excuse for not selling up an estate which was in default. Not only did they do so from their own good sense and desire to avoid severity, but they knew that this was the policy which the Government and the controlling authorities desired to enforce; and every Collector was aware that in any case in which an estate was sold for default (otherwise than because the owners chose to let it be sold), the onus would eventually be thrown on him personally of justifying his recourse to sale; and he would be put to the proof that the circumstances of the default were such that he could not reasonably have held his hand from sale. On the other hand, those who had experience of district administration knew well that there were extreme cases of repeated default from incorrigible mismanagement of his affairs by a proprietor, or in consequence of irreconcileable disputes among co-proprietors, against which liability to sale was the only efficient check; and in such cases it was often really for the benefit of the tenantry on the estate, and for the general good of all except the defaulters, that the estate should pass into better hands and management. He had taken leave to digress so far from the subject of the Bill in hand as to make these remarks, because, as he understood, no Bill would now be brought forward for the amendment of the Sale Law. The Government had found that they could, by executive orders, give all that the landed interest could reasonably ask, and that the only legislation required was to give a mortgagee a right to have his name registered. This right was given by the Bill now before the Council, and the Government had pledged itself to take care that notice should be given to every mortgagee whose interest might be affected before an estate was sold for default of payment of revenue.

The rest of the Chapter, sections 53 to 66, provided the procedure for registration: if no objection was made to the application for registration, the Collector would at once proceed to register; but to use the words of section 61—"If in the case of the alleged transfer from a living person the fact of possession by the applicant is not proved, or if the right of succession be disputed by or on behalf of any person making a conflicting claim, and it be not proved to the satisfaction of the Collector that the applicant has acquired possession in accordance with his claim to succession, the Collector shall refer the matter to the determination of the principal civil court of original jurisdiction." And the result of that would be that the principal civil court would refer the matter to any other competent civil court, and that court would proceed on the model provided by Act XIX of 1841 to try summarily the question of right to possession. The provisions of the Bill here followed Act XIX of 1841 almost closely. He was aware that a great deal might be said against these summary trials, and he was aware that such trials were generally considered to be only so much useless trouble and expense. But he had not been able to devise anything else which would answer the present purpose, and he could only hope that if these trials were considered to be mere useless trouble and expense, the assistance of the learned Advocate-General would enable the Select Committee to devise something less objectionable, and which would not miss the object of the Bill, which was to enable the Executive Government at once to identify the person to whom the obligations of landholders attached in respect of every estate. Any decision so summarily passed by a civil court was of course open to be contested by a regular suit immediately afterwards, which regular suit would be decided any time within the next ten years, during which time it was absolutely necessary for the executive administration of the country that the Government should know in whose possession the land was, and who was the person liable to fulfil the duties which the law imposed on the owners of land.

Sections 69 and 70 imposed penalties for failure to register. As soon as the Collector discovered that the person liable to register had failed to do so, he might call upon him to obey the law, and might impose a daily fine. Then there was another and a very much stronger means of insisting on the fulfilment of the obligation for registration, which was provided by section 70,—a provision which of course would be much discussed in Select Committee. It provided that no person required to register should be able to avail himself of the facilities which the existing law gave for the recovery of rent, until he had applied for registration.

Section 71 provided that the persons required by this Bill to register should be the persons who were liable to fulfil the obligations which the law imposed on landholders.

The last Chapter contained miscellaneous provisions, and the only part of it to which he would call attention was section 74, which laid down precisely the appellate jurisdiction. In that section was followed the principle that when the court of first instance and the first appellate court were agreed, there should be no further appeal; and he thought that in a summary matter of this sort, which did not affect the right to title, that would be sufficient.

With these remarks he begged to move that the Bill to provide for the compulsory registration of possessory titles in revenue-paying estates and revenue-free lands be read in Council.

The HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH said he entirely approved of the objects for which this Bill was introduced, viz. to ensure the responsibility of those who were required by the law to perform certain duties; and the letter of the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, which was printed among the annexures to the Bill, fully entered into the subject. It would not therefore be necessary for him further to dilate on that subject in the Council. There was, however, one question of detail to which he wished to draw the attention of the Council. By section 43 the provisions now in force of the existing law, requiring the civil courts to forward a memorandum of all decrees and orders passed by them to the Collector, which might create, declare, transfer, limit, or otherwise extinguish any proprietary possession in an estate, or alter the area of such estate, were continued. He was aware that this was the rule which was in the existing law. But in reality that law had become a dead-letter, and had never practically been enforced. He would therefore ask the Select Committee to take this point into their consideration, and determine whether it was necessary to continue that provision, or whether it would not be better to throw the burden of such registration, and render it obligatory on the parties to the decree to forward such information to the Collector, and not bring the civil court directly into the question. On the whole, the Bill met MR. SCHALCH's full approval, and, he thought, would supply the want which had been felt.

The HON'BLE the ADVOCATE-GENERAL said that although he was averse to the adoption of any legislative measure which had for one of its objects the decision of claims to land, or the possession of land in a summary manner, as creating complications and difficulties in the adjudication of titles, yet he was obliged to admit that in the present case the Bill proposed to be introduced into Council was a necessary and salutary subject of legislation. The earlier Regulations, which it was proposed to repeal, had almost fallen into disuse, as, owing to the increased value of land, it had become unnecessary to look to the zemindars personally for the recovery of arrears of revenue. The utility of these regulations, so far as they were applicable and capable of being enforced, had been revived by the introduction of several Acts which had been lately passed, enforcing certain obligations on the part of zemindars which, although previously existing, had either been forgotten or were not observed. The Embankment Act was an instance of an obligation which had been enforced by the legislature. Other legislative measures had also been lately passed which threw on zemindars certain distinct obligations which it would be difficult to enforce unless the scheme of legislation provided by this Bill received legislative sanction. Under these circumstances, it occurred to him that the present was a fitting time for the introduction of a Bill for the compulsory registration of possessory titles to land, and with a view to its efficiency its clauses should be stringent and comprehensive. Irrespective of the substantial aid which this Bill would afford to the Government in the enforcement of legal obligations by owners and possessors of landed property, it would in some measure contribute to the administration of justice, and would, moreover, materially assist persons in the purchase of landed property with reference to the investigation of title.

With reference to milik lands mentioned by the hon'ble mover, it was evident that many of these tenures existed only in name. They were often created by defaulting owners after default and sale, and antedated in order to secure an income for their families. By a system which provided for the registration of milik lands, purchasers of revenue-paying estates would be enabled to know exactly whether such tenures had any existence prior to the purchase within the geographical limits of their estates. An intending purchaser of a revenue-paying estate (agreed to be purchased privately) would also be enabled, by inspecting the register, to ascertain what amount of milik lands should be excluded in the computation of the area of the estate (proposed to be sold) which was very often so calculated as to include all lands within the geographical limits of an estate, and thus to compute the exact amount of purchase money payable for the whole at a certain rate per beegha. Under existing circumstances, a purchaser might purchase an estate with a certain estimated area, excluding all lands within its boundaries as defined by a thakbust map or revenue survey, and pay the full price of the same at the rate of a certain sum of rupees per beegha; and in proceeding to take possession he might be met by persons opposing such possession as to part of his purchase by putting forward claims thereto on the ground of their being milik lands. At present he must either submit to these claims, or resist them in the hope of being able to controvert them. After the present Bill passed into law, a person so circumstanced would have something to go upon in determining his course of action.

The Hon'ble Baboo Kristodas Pal said he would cordially support this measure. Its object was to fill the void caused by the non-observance of the Regulations of 1793 and 1800. It was to be regretted that the wholesome provisions of the Code of Regulations of 1793, that repository of legislative wisdom, fell into disuse from laxity in administration. He was of opinion that if the registration of possessory titles and the exchange of written leases had been regularly enforced in accordance with the provisions of law, there would not have been so much misunderstanding, confusion, and litigation as had unfortunately attended the land administration of the country. The hon'ble and learned Advocate-General had pointed out the principal advantages which would flow from the Bill. Baboo Kristodas Pal might observe that this Bill would form a useful adjunct to the Partition Bill. In fact without this Bill no progress could be made with the other; it would form the basis of the other. Once the number of proprietors and shareholders was registered, it would be easy for the Collector to know who the recorded proprietors were, and whether they were in possession; and then the machinery of the Partition Law might be moved to the advantage of the State and the landed interest. He also hoped that the enforcement of this law would put an end to what was called the benamee system. He believed that that system was gradually falling into disuse, but this Bill would lay the axe at the root of the tree.

With regard to the details of the Bill, the Select Committee would doubtless give their best consideration to them. But he might observe en passant that for the purposes of the Bill he did not see any objection to the summary investigation of claims to registration for the purposes of the proposed Act. But he thought it would be more convenient if the Collector were invested with the power of investigating these claims summarily instead of the civil court being brought in, particularly when full liberty was given to the parties to contest the decision of the Collector by a regular suit in the civil court. It appeared to Baboo Kristodas Pal that it would simplify business if the whole proceedings under the Bill were left in the hands of the Collector.

The scale of fees for registration had not been given in the Bill, except that the maximum fee should not exceed Rs. 100. He hoped that the scale would be so regulated as not to put an unnecessary obstacle in the way of registration. In fact he thought the scale of fees should be made conformable to the scale provided for ordinary registration under the Registration Law.

He did not agree with the hon'ble mover of the Bill that a double penalty should be imposed on the proprietor, first a daily fine, and secondly the disability to sue. This outlawry as it were struck him as very harsh, and not quite in consonance with the general spirit of the law. A daily fine ought to be sufficient to enforce registration; the penalty of outlawry appeared to him to be outrageous.

He would like to add one provision to the Bill. It was this, that when shares were registered they should be notified in the villages in the widest manner possible, so that every ryot might know who the sharers were, and what was the extent and character of each share. At present the ryots in many cases did not know what was the extent of the respective shares of joint owners, and consequently more money was sometimes taken from them by the shareholders than they were liable to pay. Already a measure was contemplated to give relief to ryots in cases of joint undivided estates, the owners of which realized their demands separately. But if such a provision as he had suggested were introduced in this Bill, it would not be necessary to have further legislation on the subject. The ryots would know who the proprietors were, and what was the extent of the share of each proprietor, and they would take good care not to pay more rent than each shareholder was entitled to receive. He threw out this hint for the consideration of the Select Committee, in the belief and hope that the registration of the value and extent of shares of joint proprietors would be attended with great practical benefit.

His Honor the President said there was one point upon which he would like to ask a question to the hon'ble member who had last spoken. His Honor would ask the hon'ble member to be kind enough to explain exactly what he would propose in reference to the investigation of the rights of various shareholders in an estate; that was to say, if he would give the precise substance of what he would wish to be done. Because it appeared to His Honor, with deference to the hon'ble member, that the suggestion made by him was a very important one. We all admitted the practicability of registering the names of shareholders, but beyond that it had been found too difficult to go. It was one thing to say that a man was a shareholder in an estate, and another thing to specify what share he held. There had never been any difficulty or trouble in ascertaining the fact that a man was a shareholder, but when you came to say what was his share, you raised difficulties and discussions.

The Hon'ble Baboo Kristodas Pal thought that the registration of shares in an estate would come under section 49, at least so he understood that section. He was of opinion that if shares were registered, a great practical benefit would result. In case of dispute the Collector might hold a summary investigation, all right and title being reserved for decision by the civil court as provided for in the Bill.

The Hon'ble Mr. Dampier observed that sections 49 and 50 were the sections which imposed the obligation to register, and they only provided that the name of every shareholder should be registered. It was certainly not the intention of the Bill to require the extent of each share to be recorded.

The Hon'ble Mr. Bell thought there was a slight misapprehension on the part of the hon'ble member opposite. As the law at present stood, a shareholder could not sue a joint ryot for his fractional share of the rent. It seemed therefore unnecessary to enter at present into the question raised by the hon'ble member.

The Hon'ble Mr. Dampier said he was sorry that the wording of the Bill had left room for any such misapprehension as the hon'ble member had entertained. The old Regulations certainly did not require registration of the extent of the separate shares in an estate. In some districts the practice had been to register the extent of each joint share, where all the proprietors were agreed as to such extent, but that practice had been in recent times, he believed, discontinued, as it was found to lead to inconvenience. In asking leave to introduce this Bill he had said:—

"The Council were aware of the difficulties and vexations to which the ryots were exposed when they had to pay rent to a number of joint shareholders in estates. The Government had very carefully considered whether it would be desirable to enact that every proprietor should not only register his succession to possession, but also the share to which he had succeeded. On mature deliberation the Lieutenant-Governor had come to the conclusion that this could not be done. It was hoped that another measure, to be presented to the Council hereafter, would provide that relief to the ryots which would have been afforded by the registration of shares. In some cases it would be very difficult, even if it would be possible, to register succession with specification of shares; for instance, some places in which the mitakshara law was in force."

The Bill was intended to be in accordance with these remarks.

The hon'ble member had said that he should prefer that the Collector should try the question of rights summarily. Mr. Dampier could not agree with this, if only for the reason that it was an object now to relieve executive officers as much as possible from such quasi-judicial work.

The next point to which the hon'ble member alluded was as to the scale of fees. MR. DAMPIER had overlooked that question when he spoke. It would be a matter for the consideration of the Select Committee what scale of fees should be adopted. And he must remind the Council that whatever scale was adopted, the formal sanction of the Governor-General would be required before they could legislate, as the point was one affecting the imperial revenues. At present a law of the Governor-General's Council prescribed a certain scale of fees. As the provisions of the Indian Council's Act stood, this Council could not, even for the sake of consolidation, repeal that law, and re-enact the very same provisions in the Bill now before them, without previously obtaining the sanction of the Governor-General to their so dealing with the subject.

The third point to which allusion had been made was that it was not desirable, indeed it had been termed outrageous, to subject a person to outlawry, as it had been called, by disabling him from suing for rents until he complied with the requirements of this Bill.

Now the case stood thus. The Bill required that if a landholder were in possession of an estate, he should cause himself to be registered. The existence of such possession as was sufficient to secure admission to registry was also a sine qua non to the successful prosecution of an honest suit for the recovery of rent.

The hon'ble member's objection seemed to MR. DAMPIER to amount to saying that the law, as contained in the Registration and in the Rent Acts, should allow a man to come forward and say, "I am in possession of such an estate, and on that ground I claim the assistance of the law to recover rents from it; at the same time I refuse for my own reasons to comply with the obligation which the law imposes on me to register myself as landholder in possession of the estate, as such registration will identify me as liable to fulfil the obligations which the law imposes on the holder of the estate."

Surely that was not a position which the law should allow any one to take up. The enforcement of the provision of this section would not cause any appreciable delay in suing for rents, because it did not enact that a man might not sue until he had effected registration, but only until he had applied for registration. So that if a person wished to sue a ryot, he had only to send in his application for registry, and then he might institute his suit at once.

The motion was then agreed to, and the Bill referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Schalch, the Hon'ble the Advocate-General, the Hon'ble Mr. Bell, the Hon'ble Baboo Kristodas Pal, and the Mover, with instructions to report in a fortnight.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 22nd instant.

Sugarcane cutting has begun, and the result is below the average in most places for want of rain, but it is good elsewhere. Biri (or kalai pulse) is gathered, and the outturn is very fair. Vegetables going on well.
		Howrah, „ 15, „	Nil.	Weather—Fine. The paddy crops are off the ground. The cold weather crops of this district are of course insignificant in amount, but they are doing well.
		Central Districts.

The prospects of the cold weather crops are generally favorable. Early peas are being harvested. Wheat and barley are in ear. Rahur pulse is doing well. Poppy is everywhere forward. Indigo fields are still being prepared for the next year's crop. Prices stationary, with the exception of wheat, barley, and gram, which have fallen. General health is good.
	32	Chumparun, " 14, "	Nil.	Weather—Nice and cool. The sky is now and then overcast. There is nothing new to report regarding the state of the crops. Rubbee and poppy crops are growing well.
BHAGULPORE DIVN.	33	Monghyr, " 15, "	Nil.	Weather—Fair. The paddy crops are all cut, and the prospects of the rubbee continue favorable.
	34	Bhagulpore, " 17,* "	Nil.	Rain is required for the rubbee crops. Rice is nowhere dearer than 20 seers and murwah is much cheaper. The condition of the people is reported to be good.
	35	Purneah, " 15, "	Nil.	Weather—Very cold; cloudless skies during the day. State and prospects of the crops in this district remain unchanged, i.e. the aghany rice has been reaped, and the outturn is quite up to expectations. The rubbee crop is still in want of rain.
	36	Sonthal Perghs. " 16, "	Nil.	Weather—Cold. Occasional breezes from the north-west. The winter rice crop is all in, with scarcely an exception. Kurti and kalai pulse are being cut in the east with a ten-anna outturn. Mustard is ready for cutting, and is about a six-anna crop.

ORISSA DIVN.	37	Cuttack, " 8, "	Nil.	Crops are doing well. Public health is improving.
	38	Pooree, " 13, "	Nil.	The harvesting of the main rice crop is nearly completed. The outturn is good. Sugarcane is being cut. Some pulses are being gathered, others are progressing, but they require a little rain. The plantation of the summer paddy crop, "dalua," has begun.
	39	Balasore, " 14, "	Nil.	Weather—Fine; sky has cleared again. Ryots are busy in threshing out their crop of rice. Cholera is continuing in the south of the district.
CHOTA NAGPORE.
		South-Western Frontier Agency.
	40	Hazareebagh, Jan. 14, '76	Nil.	Weather—Clear and cold. The clouds mentioned in the last report have disappeared. Owing to the want of rain the rubbee is being burnt up. It is doubtful, unless we have rain (of which there is at present no appearance), whether a six-anna crop will be saved.
	41	Lohardugga, " 15, "	Nil.	Weather—Colder than last week. No rain yet. The prospects of the crops are very good all over the district, but rain is greatly needed.
	42	Singbhoom, " 14, "	Nil.	Weather—Seasonable. No unfavorable reports about the rubbee. The district is healthy.
	43	Manbhoom, " 15, "	Nil.	There has been no change in the weather. It is still extremely dry, and the dews slight, but the crops promise well.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

A letter No. 1849, dated 7th December 1875, from the Commissioners for making Improvements in the Port of Calcutta, received under cover of a memorandum from the Public Works Department of this Government, No. 149, dated the 12th January 1876, applying for a loan of Rs. 50,000 in order to purchase the East Indian Railway Company's Ferry Steamer Howrah for the transit of passengers when the Hooghly Bridge is opened for the passage of vessels.

It is ordered that a copy of the application be published in the Calcutta Gazette, as required by Rule V of the Rules made by the Governor-General in Council in respect of loans under the Public Works Loan Act of 1871, and published on the 15th October 1873.

The 17th January 1876.—The notifications referred to on the margin showed from time to time, the number of appointments in the several grades of Magistrates and Collectors and of Judges at different periods, since the introduction, in 1873, of the scheme of parallel lines of promotion in the executive and judicial branches of the Covenanted Civil Service. But consequent on the arrangements necessitated by the constitution of the Chief Commissionership of Assam, and by the transfer to that administration of the district of Sylhet, there has been a reduction, as regards appointments under the Government of Bengal, of one first grade and of one second grade Judgeship. On the other hand, two additional Judgeships on Rs. 1,200 each have been created, one in the districts of Darjeeling and Julpigoree, and one in the district of Chittagong. The number of appointments, therefore, in the judicial and executive branches of the service is now as follows :—

No. 2367, dated Fort William, the 16th November 1875.

From—R. B. CHAPMAN, Esq., Secy. to the Government of India, Financial Dept.,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department.

I AM directed by the Hon'ble the President in Council to invite the attention of the Government of Bengal to the subject of the expenditure incurred for the purchase of books published in India, and to suggest the expediency of some restrictions upon the discretion now exercised by heads of offices in this matter.

2. It appears to the Government of India that, as a rule, books should not be bought at the public expense without the previous sanction of the local Government, or, under its instructions, of certain responsible heads of departments, and further that such sanction should not, except for special reasons, be given to the purchase of any books, except law books.

3. Moreover, the Government, as a rule, should not undertake to supply, at the public cost, commentaries or annotations on Acts of the legislature: such works ordinarily form part of an officer's private library.

4. Directories and such like works should only be allowed under special circumstances, where there may be evident inconvenience to the public service if they are not at hand for reference. The local Government should decide to what offices books published by the Government should be supplied, such as the Postal Guide, the Civil Lists, the Codes of the Financial or Public Works Departments, the Army Lists, &c. In future, indents for such books should not be complied with unless received through the local Government, or authorised by some general or special order of the local Government. No payment should be required for books of this class.

5. The suggestions in this letter have reference only to books published in India. The purchase of newspapers and other periodicals, and of books published in Europe or America, is subject to separate regulations.

6. The Government of India will be glad to see in due course any instructions which may be issued in consequence of these orders.

Circular No. 19.

COPY forwarded to all officers and departments of this Government for information, with an intimation that no books, except those mentioned by the Government of India, are in future to be purchased without the sanction of Government.

No. 11.—Notification.—The following bye-laws for the safe and convenient use of the Hooghly Bridge and approaches thereto; and for the passage of ships, boats, and vessels through the said bridge, which have been proposed by the Bridge Commissioners, are published in accordance with Section 24 of Act IX of 1871 (B.L.C.):—

The following signals for regulating the passage of vessels through the opening of the bridge have been provided, and all persons concerned shall observe such signals and act in accordance with the instructions conveyed thereby:—

Signal No. 1.—Two flags hoisted, one at each side of the ship opening of the bridge, indicate that the bridge is about to be opened for the passage of vessels.

Signal No. 2.—A red disc presented to approaching vessels indicates that the passage is not clear, or that a vessel is coming through the opening from the opposite direction. HIGH COURT NOTICES.

General Letter No. 1.

Dated Calcutta, the 21st January 1876.

HIGH COURT
ENGLISH DEPARTMENT.
(Civil.)

The following instructions should in future be observed by District Judges in the preparation of their annual reports on the administration of civil justice required by Circular Order No. 4, dated 2nd February 1871.

2. The results shewn in the third table of the report, viz. that which is intended to shew the "number and value" of suits commenced, frequently differ, not in the aggregate but in details, from the figures in the judicial statement No. 6. To obviate such discrepancies, the Court desires that, in the distribution of cases into the three classes named on the margin, local officers may be guided, in respect both of the tabular statement No. 3, and the judicial statement No. 6, by the principles laid down in Circular Order No. 25, dated 30th December 1873.

Suits of Small Cause Court classes.
Rent suits.
Other suits.

3. Table 4 showing "miscellaneous cases of a judicial nature other than regular suits or proceedings in execution," disposed of and pending, should also be made to show miscellaneous cases instituted. For this purpose, a double column should be inserted before the column "disposed of" with a view to the exhibition of a comparative return, for two years, of the institutions in question.

4. A similar double column will need to be inserted in the table of miscellaneous appeals, wherever this is not done already.

By order of the High Court,

W. M SOUTTAR, Registrar.

Circular Orders and Memos by the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

Circular Order No. 15.

Dated Calcutta, the 16th December 1875.

HIGH COURT.
ENGLISH DEPARTMENT.
(Civil and Criminal.)

THE Court directs that all records of cases be retained in the record-rooms of the Courts to which they pertain, or of the superior Court of the district, and that they be not allowed to pass out of the custody of the officers of such courts, except when called for by superior judicial authority, or required for the purposes of Section 138, Act VIII of 1859, by a civil court not at the same station.

2. It is improper and inconvenient that records of the courts of justice should be sent to other public officers or functionaries. If a reference to their contents is required, the proper procedure is ordinarily to obtain copies of the requisite papers.

3. The Court desires to point out to Civil Judges of every grade the necessity for exercising careful discretion in acting upon the provisions of Section 138 of the Code of Civil Procedure, Act VIII of 1859, which are found to be often abused.

Circular Order No. 17.

Dated Calcutta, the 17th December 1875.

HIGH COURT.
ENGLISH DEPARTMENT.
(Civil.)

IN modification of the provisions made by Circular Order No. 21, dated 18th August 1873, for the sale of immoveable property in execution of decrees, it is hereby provided that, as regards under-tenures and properties of little extent and value, the judgment-debtor shall have the option of requiring that property of that description should be put up for sale on the spot.

Circular Memo. No. A.

Dated Calcutta, the 12th January 1876.

HIGH COURT.
ENGLISH DEPARTMENT.
(Civil.)

THE following instructions should be observed in the preparation of the annual statements for 1875 and subsequent years: –

2. In Judicial Statement No. 6, the total number of suits instituted in each class of Courts should be shown in a column to be inserted at the end of the columns of figures; the grand total of all the above totals being shown at foot; and wherever the total under any head in the new column differs from the total under the corresponding head in Statement No. 8, the cause of the discrepancy should be explained in the column of remarks in Statement No. 6.

3. In Statement No. 8, the work of those Moonsiffs who have been invested with Small Cause Court powers under Section 29, Act VI of 1871, performed in the exercise of those powers, should be shown separately from their work as Moonsiffs; both kinds of cases being exhibited opposite "Paid sub-divisional tribunals" and bracketed together.

4 To enable the Court to have columns 19 and 20 filled up, it is not enough that each local return exhibits the average duration of cases under each class of courts. What is wanted for the Court's return to the Government of India is a general average for each grade of Courts in all districts, and to effect this it is necessary to have from each district the actual number of days occupied in the trial of cases, from date of institution to date of disposal. and the actual number of cases disposed of. This information should be given separately under each head, "contested" and "uncontested."

5. In Statement No. 9, under the head "Chief Appellate Court of District," the designation Revenue Appeals must be taken to include all appeals in rent cases, i.e., cases decided by the Civil Courts under Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869 wherever that law is in operation.

Circular Memo. No. A.

Dated Calcutta, the 15th January 1876.

To—All Criminal Authorities.

HIGH COURT.
ENGLISH DEPARTMENT.
(Criminal.)

THE following instructions should be observed in the preparation of the Judicial (Criminal) Statements Nos. 2, 3, and 4.

2. The total number of persons shown in Statement No. 2 as "acquitted or discharged" (column 4) should agree with the total of the corresponding columns (9 and 10) in statement No. 3, and the persons "convicted" (column 5) according to the former statement should agree with those shown in column 11 of the latter statement, care being taken to include in the comparison the figures under "Sessions Courts" in statement No. 3. The same remark applies to the columns headed "died, escaped, transferred," and "remaining under trial" at the end of the year.

3. The number of committed persons shown in the column of remarks, Statement No. 2, should always correspond with the number shewn in Statement No. 3, as "remaining at the end of the year" before the Sessions Court, unless there is a sufficient reason for a discrepancy, which should be stated.

4. In calculating the duration of a case with a view to filling up column 15 of Statement No. 3, the starting point to be taken is not the date of "complaint" or "information," but that of apprehension or attendance on summons; paragraph 4 or Circular Order No. 3, dated 2nd February 1871 having been superseded by later orders (vide Circular Memo. No. 1, dated 8th January 1873, and Circular Memo No. 2, dated 28th February 1873), which show the reason of the alteration, viz. that the information relates to persons "brought to trial" within the meaning of columns 3 to 6, Judicial Statement No. 3, and not to cases in the abstract, where a complaint is merely made or information laid.

5. Accordingly a general return should be made at the close of each year by the District Magistrate and submitted to the High Court with the Annual Statements of the same nature as the monthly return prescribed by Circular Memo. No. 1, dated 8th January 1873. Similar information should be added with reference to the Sessions Courts, mutatis mutandis, that is to say, the actual number of days occupied should be given, commencing from the date of commitment, without distinguishing cases in which the agency of the police has been employed from those in which it has not.

6. Where the aggregate of the smaller columns 1 to 15 (excluding columns 9 to 11) of Judicial Statement No. 4, falls short of the number of convictions given in Statements Nos. 2 and 3, the difference should be accounted for by reference to Chapters 39, 40, and 41* of the Criminal Procedure or otherwise, as the case may be.

* Local nuisances.
Possession.
Maintenance of wives and families.

7. To save calls for explanation, the Sessions Judge should see that the aggregate number of persons fined, imprisoned, or whipped corresponds exactly with the details under those heads respectively in Statement 4.

By order of the High Court,

W. M. SOUTTAR, Registrar.

BOARD OF REVENUE, L. P., FORT WILLIAM, the 25th January 1876.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 44B.

THE Board of Revenue having reason to believe that compliance with the provisions of the Stamp Law in respect of Bills of Exchange or Promissory Notes drawn or made out of British India but negotiated within British India is frequently omitted, direct that the notice of those who are concerned in such Bills or Promissory Notes be drawn to the following sections of Act XVIII of 1869:—

"7. The duty imposed by this Act on Bills of Exchange shall be chargeable (a) on all bills drawn and payable in British India, (b) on all bills drawn in, but payable out of British India, and (c) on all bills drawn out of, but accepted, or paid, or endorsed, transferred, or otherwise negotiated within British India.

"8. The holder of any Bill of Exchange or Promissory Note drawn or made out of British India, and not stamped as required by this Act, shall, before he presents the same for acceptance or for payment or endorses, transfers, or otherwise negotiates such bill or note, affix thereto the proper adhesive stamp or stamps for denoting the duty with which it is chargeable under this Act.

"19. Subject to the provisions contained in Section 26, no person taking a Bill of Exchange or Promissory Note requiring a stamp under Section 8 either in payment or as a security, or by purchase or otherwise, shall be entitled to recover thereon, or to make the same available for any purpose, unless at the time when he so takes it the proper stamp is affixed thereto and cancelled in manner directed by this Act.

"26 (a) When any Bill of Exchange, Promissory Note, Cheque or Order for the payment of money on demand by any banker or person acting as a banker, chargeable hereunder with the duty of one anna, comes to his hands unstamped, he may affix thereto the necessary adhesive stamp, and cancel the same in the manner required by this Act, and upon so doing, may charge the duty against the person who ought to have paid the same, or deduct such duty from the sum so directed to be paid.

"(b.) Such Bill, Note, Cheque, or Order shall, so far as relates to the stamp duty chargeable thereon, be valid, but this shall not relieve any person or firm from liability to the penalty which he or it may have incurred by issuing or giving the said Bill, Note, Cheque, or Order unstamped.

"29. Any person or firm making, signing, or issuing, or, except as provided in Section 26, accepting, endorsing, paying, or receiving payment of any Bill of Exchange, Promissory Note, Cheque or other similar instrument liable to any of the duties hereby imposed, without the same being duly stamped, and any person making, executing, or signing otherwise than as a witness any other instrument liable to any of such duties without the same being duly stamped, shall, for every such offence, be liable to fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, or, if ten times the value of the proper stamp exceeds one hundred rupees, to fine not exceeding ten times such value, or, when an insufficient stamp has been used, if ten times the deficient amount exceeds one hundred rupees, to fine not exceeding ten times such amount.

"30. Any person or firm presenting for acceptance, or for payment, or accepting, paying, endorsing, transferring, or in any manner negotiating any Bill of Exchange or Promissory Note drawn or made out of British India whereon there is not such stamp as is required by this Act, shall be liable, for every such offence, to fine not exceeding one hundred rupees.

"31. Any person or firm presenting for acceptance or payment a Bill of Exchange or Promissory Note to which an adhesive stamp has been affixed under Section 8, and any person or firm endorsing, transferring, or in any manner negotiating such Bill or Note, shall, before delivering the same out of his or its hands, custody, or power, cancel the stamp so affixed, in such manner as to show that the stamp has been made use of, and so that the same shall not admit of being used again.

Any person or firm who or which ought, as directed by this Act, to cancel such stamp in manner aforesaid, and refusing or neglecting so to do, shall be liable, for every such offence, to fine not exceeding one hundred rupees."

THE STATISTICAL ACCOUNT OF BENGAL.

STATISTICAL DEPARTMENT.

Calcutta, the 92nd January 1876.

READ AGAIN—

A Minute recorded by the Lieutenant-Governor on the 8th January 1875, regarding the arrangements for the preparation of the Statistical Account of Bengal.

READ ALSO—

A letter from W. W. Hunter, Esq., Director-General of Statistics to the Government of India, No. 135, dated 18th November 1875, submitting a narrative of the progress made in the preparation of the Statistical Account of Bengal.

The Lieutenant-Governor has, in consultation with Mr. Hunter, carefully considered the progress that has been made in compiling the Statistical Accounts of the several districts of Bengal, and of the prospects of the work. There can be little doubt that the work will be completed in the prescribed time, as far as regards the preparation of the manuscripts, though it is possible that some additional time may be required for the printing. The result of Mr. Hunter's labours from April last until November, that is to say, for the first seven months under which he has been working under the new system, is that he and his assistants have compiled 4,000 pages of new manuscript, making about 2,000 pages of closely printed octavo, and relating to about 22 districts of Bengal, besides the revision of proof and of old manuscripts amounting to five volumes now finally printed off. About 4,000 pages of print, including old and new matter, have also been printed off during this period.

The Lieutenant-Governor desires now to express his high satisfaction with the progress of the operations and of the quality of the work, which has been carefully revised by the Bengal Government, and his confidence that Mr. Hunter will prosecute it successfully to the end. Both in regard to economy and efficiency, the arrangements that have recently been sanctioned have proved successful.

The Lieutenant-Governor trusts to be able to make due acknowledgments of the services of the officers who have been engaged in the Statistical Account of Bengal at the conclusion of the work, which it is hoped will not be far distant.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. J. S. COTTON,

Offg. Junior Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 135, dated Edinburgh, the 18th November 1875.

From—W. W. HUNTER, ESQ., LL.D., Director-General of Statistics to the Government of India,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Financial Department.

BEFORE leaving for India, I beg to submit a brief narrative of the work done under His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor's Resolution of 8th January 1875. By that Resolution, five covenanted assistants were appointed to me in Bengal, and I was directed to proceed to England with a view to getting the work of literary compilation and the printing done at English rates, instead of at the costly Indian ones.

2. The new arrangement came into force on the 1st March 1875. During that and part of the preceding month, I selected the five assistants sanctioned under His Honor's Resolution, and gave each of them a short preliminary training in the work. Four of them came to me in Calcutta; the fifth I met at Chittagong. I supplied to each of them the materials for a district, and showed him how to work them up. This he did piece by piece, until a brief skeleton account of a district was completed. During the compilation, I went over each day's work with the writer; and when the whole was finished, I again revised it with him, showing the various points on which fresh materials would be required. The skeleton accounts being completed, I made over to each assistant the materials I had collected for the three to five districts of which he was to compile the statistical accounts. Of the fifty-nine districts of Bengal and Assam, twenty-two were thus allotted among the five assistant; the remaining thirty-seven remained in my own hand. The assistants left Calcutta in the third week of March for the districts assigned to them.

3. I sailed from Bombay on the 29th March, arriving at my office here on the 19th April. My Head Assistant, Mr. Dollman, had preceded me, and had everything ready for the uninterrupted prosecution of the work on my arrival. I leave again for Bombay on the 19th November.

4. The work done during the intervening seven months divides itself into three departments,—(a) printing, (b) compiling the statistical accounts of the districts retained in my own hands, and (c) supervising the statistical accounts prepared by the five assistants from the materials which I supplied to them as supplemented by their local inquiries.

5. (a) PRINTING.—During the seven months, I have issued from the press, and completely finished, five volumes of the statistical account of Bengal, aggregating 2,100 pages of close type. I have also placed five other volumes in the press, two of which are entirely in type, and have been submitted to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor; the remaining three are in various stages of progress. The first five volumes only await His Honor's decision with regard to the distribution of copies,* in order that the act of publication should take place. Large portions of these five volumes had been printed before my arrival in England; but the revision and alterations made in their text last spring by Government, caused the reprinting and intricate dovetailing of many sheets, involving about the same amount of work to myself as the printing of the five volumes de novo. One volume was struck out of the series altogether, as being of too general a character for the plan of the work on its new basis; and of the 2,250 pages then printed off, or in the press, almost the whole editorial labour upon the sheets, and a very large part of the printing, had to be done over again. The total matter for the two sets of five volumes issued from the press, printed, or put in type during the seven months, amounts to about 4,000 pages of close type.

6. The first five volumes, completely finished, furnish the statistical account of thirteen districts with an area of 45,844 square miles, and a population of 21,768,747 souls. As regards the five other volumes now in the press, the accounts of seven more districts are in whole or in part printed, having an area of 17,865 square miles (exclusive of the Chittagong Hill Tracts), and a Total about 4,000 pages of close type printed off, or in proof-sheets awaiting His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor's sanction.

7. Four printers, including three of the largest firms in Scotland, have been at work. But with our utmost industry, I fear that the system of waiting till each district is obtained in its entirety from the press, before sending out the sheets for revision to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, will render it very difficult to finish the whole printing within the period fixed in His Honor's Resolution of the 8th January. I fully understand the advantages, and I bow to the necessity, of the orders recently received on this subject. But a single instance will show the delay involved. Last week I sent the account of Tirhoot, aggregating 448 pages of manuscript, to one of the printers, from whom I have already about 300 pages in type, the proofs having gone out to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor for sanction. The fount will certainly not suffice to complete the 448 pages of new manuscript, so that under the new system no part of the account of Tirhoot can be forwarded to the Bengal Government for revision, until the proofs of the previous districts are returned by it, in order that the Tirhoot proofs may be transmitted in their entirety.

8. The second department of my work deals with (b), the compilation of the manuscript district accounts in this office. During the seven months, I have taken in hand the whole twelve accounts of the Assam Districts, and transmitted the manuscript accounts to the Chief Commissioner for approval. My materials for these districts were collected before Assam was erected into a separate province; and at the Chief Commissioner's desire, the draft accounts have been forwarded to him with a view to their amplification, and to their being brought up to date. During the seven months, three heavy districts of Bengal have also been completely compiled, a fourth will be completed within a fortnight, and a fifth by the end of this year. The three districts of which the compilation has been completely finished, are Rajshahye, Rungpore, and Maldah, making about 475 pages of close type, and dealing with an area of 7,523 square miles, and a population of 4,137,127 souls. The other two districts, nearly finished, are Dinagepore and Moorshedabad, which will make from two to there hundred pages, and deal with an area of 6,704 square miles, and a population of 2,855,550 souls. Total number of districts thus compiled, and in whole or part completed in this office during the seven months—Bengal 5, and Assam 12; total 17; making already about 1,100 pages of close print, or 2,200 folio pages of ordinary writing.

9. The third department of my work consists (c) in the supervision of the five assistants in Bengal. After the preliminary training indicated in paragraph 2, I made over to them from three to five districts apiece, with the materials for compiling the statistical accounts of them. I explained how these materials were to be supplemented by local inquiries, and sent off each of the gentlemen to the districts where he was to work, with a set of printed instructions. Throughout the seven months they have been in constant communication with me, besides furnishing formal monthly reports. I am unwilling to pass any criticism on their work at this stage, further than to say, that three of them have quite come up to my expectations, and have fully justified the wisdom of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor's action in appointing local assistants. Four of them have displayed great industry and ability in supplementing my materials with inquiries of their own. During the seven months they have produced five complete district accounts in manuscript, giving an average of one apiece. Other districts are reported by them as in an advanced stage of progress. The five districts actually received are Chittagong, Chittagong Hill Tracts (both done by myself in draft before leaving India), Bogra, Hazareebagh, and Tirhoot, having an area (exclusive of the Chittagong Hill Tracts) of 17,363 square miles, and a population of 7,033,057 souls; making at least 800 pages of type, or 1,600 of manuscript. I have little anxiety with regard to the completion of the remaining accounts entrusted to them, excepting in the case of one assistant, to whom, however, I am anxious to allow a further probation before making any specific report to Government. Adding the five districts done by the five assistants to the seventeen compiled here, a total of twenty-two district accounts have been compiled in manuscript during the seven months. Of these, twelve belong to Assam; the remaining ten are Bengal Districts, and comprise an area of 31,590 square miles, and a population of 14,025,734 souls. The ten Bengal Districts thus compiled by myself and my assistants during the past seven months make about 1,900 pages of close print, or say 3,800 omit folio pages of ordinary manuscript.

10. The work of revising the accounts sent to me by the assistants in Bengal has proved heavier than I had anticipated. They themselves have spared no pains, and have greatly increased the value of the accounts by their local inquiries. But terse statistical writing, such as is required for the work, is a speciality which no one can acquire, except after much experience and careful training. The task of reducing the very varied styles adopted by the assistants to the prescribed form has heavily weighted the progress of my own special work. The same remark applies to the subject-matter of their accounts. Each assistant was furnished with careful instructions as to what every section of the account should consist of, together with specimen districts executed by myself. But in the practical execution, many points arise in which the compiler must use his own discretion. It has been my endeavour to evolve a fair degree of uniformity from the various interpretations which each has thus given to his work.

11. In this delicate task I have steadily kept in view the expediency of avoiding any interference with either style or subject-matter, except when absolutely necessary. My desire has been to allow the utmost latitude for the individuality of each assistant, compatible with a fair degree of perfection and of uniformity in the work. Wherever the supervision could be exercised without actually changing the manuscript sent by the assistants, I have preferred the plan of calling their attention to the points requiring notice by means of a letter, and have made as few alterations as possible in their manuscript. I feel that I have sometimes failed to produce either the uniformity or the perfection which might have been desired. But I believe that the course which I have adopted is on the whole the best, and that a more stringent supervision would have tended to destroy the individuality of my assistants, and to diminish their interest and laudable pride in their work. Wherever I have had any doubt as to striking out a passage, I have left it to undergo excision when being revised by the Government of Bengal. Considering that the assistants came to the difficult task without any previous knowledge of its requirements or training for it, they have, as a body, done excellent work, and I gratefully express my acknowledgments of their ability, industry, and zeal.

12. I shall visit each of the Bengal assistants early in 1876, on the completion of my tour of inspection as Director-General, in Bombay, Mysore, and Madras. My work as Director-General of the operations throughout India will form the subject of a Report to the Supreme Government; the foregoing paragraphs explain what has been done in my capacity of provincial editor for Lower Bengal.

13. The cost of my office has meanwhile been greatly reduced. Before His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor's scheme came into operation, I had only a single English assistant, and his time was taken up with details which are now done by a computating clerk. The cost at Indian rates of the meagre establishment which I then had amounted to £4,160 per annum.* The cost of my office, with three first-rate English assistants during the seven months spent in England, has been at the rate of £2,129 per annum, inclusive of the initial outlay for setting up an office and all charges whatsoever. The gain to Government is not, however, so much one of money as in the amount and quality of the work which it obtains for the outlay. My literary assistant, Mr. * * * , late Fellow of Queen's College, Oxford, and Barrister-at-Law, renders services which could not be procured in India for less than £1,500 a year. He took a first-class degree; and a gentleman of his literary distinction and chances in life could not have been tempted to come to India under Rs. 1,250 a month to begin with. I pay him a salary of £400 a year, with no responsibility to Government for pension nor liabilities of any sort. My own pay is reduced from £2,700 in India to £1,200 in England. My general assistant, Mr. * * * , had his pay reduced in like manner from £360 in India, besides Simla allowances, to £260 in this country. My third assistant, Mr. * * * , is a trained computator from an Insurance Office. This class of service could not be obtained from an Englishman in India under £300 a year. In this country it can be got from £40 to £60 a year. My third assistant now does for less than £40 per annum much of the work done in India by my general assistant at the rate of £360 per annum, and by myself at the rate of £2,700. A similar saving is effected in every detail connected with the conduct of an extensive literary undertaking. No one drawing a high salary is now compelled to spend his time on work which can be obtained for a smaller sum. The actual work done is much larger in quantity, better in quality, and costs Government one-half of what, with the utmost economy, it cost in Calcutta. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor's anticipation of the saving to be effected by paying for 'the literary assistance at the English, instead of at the Indian, market rate,'† has therefore proved correct.

14. In conclusion, I think the work has now gone far enough for me to state that my own share of the compilation, or 37 out of the 59 districts of Bengal and Assam,‡ will certainly be finished within the period prescribed by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor. That the districts assigned to the five assistants will, excepting in the case of one of these gentlemen, in all probability be nearly finished in manuscript within their period of deputation of fifteen months; that the completion of the printing within the time presents very serious difficulties; and that the successful combating with these difficulties will depend on the prompt return of the proof-sheets from Bengal.

15. I respectfully hope that the efforts of the seven months under report may meet with the approval of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor.

Minute by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, dated 8th January 1875.

WITH reference to the Despatch of the Government of India, No. 396, dated 22nd December 1874, enquiring into the present condition of the Statistical Account of Bengal, and requesting my views as to the future conduct of the operations, I desire to record the following remarks:—

Council under this head. But I would understand that the responsibility of this Government extends only to the general character and execution of the work. The responsibility for individual facts, figures, and details must rest primarily with the district officers who have supplied them, and in a secondary degree with Mr. Hunter who accepts them.

6. FUTURE CONDUCT OF THE OPERATIONS.—The plan laid down by the Government of India in its Despatch to the Secretary of State, dated the 11th August 1874, seems the one most likely to secure the efficient and punctual completion of the work. I think it in the highest degree inexpedient that the operations should be allowed to drag themselves out indefinitely. The Despatch just cited very clearly discloses the economy and the efficiency to be derived from the proposals which the Government of India then laid before the Secretary of State. But as His Excellency the Governor General in Council now desires such suggestions as occur to me "for expediting the progress of the work,"* together with my views on the plan laid down in its Despatch of the 11th August to the Secretary of State, I would propose certain modifications. While accepting the general scheme explained in the Despatch, and fully concurring in the necessity of Mr. Hunter's obtaining the best literary assistance at the English, instead of at the Indian, market rates, I would supplement that plan by bringing local knowledge, and a more efficient check on the details, to bear upon it. I would recommend that five junior Civil Servants be appointed as assistants to Mr. Hunter in the Bengal branch of his work for a period of 15 months, extending from January 1875 till April 1876. Mr. Hunter would select these gentlemen with the approval of the Bengal Government. He would then divide the whole remaining districts of Bengal into six parts—I mean in those for which the statistical accounts have yet to be done. These districts number 30, with a population of about 37 millions. He would allot four or five districts, according to their size and difficulty, to each of his assistants, retaining the balance of eight or ten in his own hands, besides the eleven Assam districts, with regard to which I have no remarks to offer. This would leave him about twenty districts in his own hands, together with the supervision and responsibility for the other twenty-one in the hands of his assistants. He would make over his materials for each district to the assistant in charge of that part of the work. The assistant would check and compile the materials at some convenient centre in his group of four or five districts, testing the local statistics in communication with the districts officers. Mr. Hunter would direct the conduct of the work, receive and pass the manuscript, and be responsible for its final form, literary execution, and the whole technical details connected with printing and publication. In this way I would combine local knowledge and practical efficiency with uniformity of execution, and the certainty of finishing the work in the shortest time compatible with its satisfactory execution.

* See paragraph 5 of Government of India's No. 396, dated 22nd Dec. 1874.

7. REVISION OF WORK ALREADY DONE.—Under this plan, Mr. Hunter's presence in England will be the more necessary, as I propose that he should revise, in accordance with the suggestion in paragraph 3 of the letter of the Government of India, the whole of the work already printed, but not yet issued. This exceeds 2,000 pages. As the Statistical Account of Bengal is henceforth to be done under my orders, and these pages, although printed, will necessarily issue under the responsibility of the Bengal Government, I think such a revision essential for the satisfactory execution of the work as a whole. The revision, however, will involve much labour, and constant communication with the printers, which can only be done on the spot. It will consist of cutting out or supplementing individual pages or passages, and of carefully dovetailing in new matter, so as to make the paging run on continuously, and to avoid as much as possible the needless expense of breaking up and destroying whole sheets.

8. THE METHOD NOW PROPOSED.—This plan starts from the basis which the Government of India laid down in its Despatch to the Secretary of State on the 11th August 1874. I fully concur with that Despatch in the disadvantages of the work being finished in India, without adequate literary assistance, without any guarantee to Government for its efficient completion, and at the heavy cost of £17,000. I regard such a system as expensive, as unlikely to yield satisfactory results, and disadvantageous to Mr. Hunter, whom it would indefinitely withdraw from that practical employment which affords the best career for a Civil Servant. Moreover, I do not see how the Bengal Government could, under the continuance of such a system, take the responsibility for work over which it has hitherto had no control. The plan which I now propose recognises the necessity, as explained in the Government of India's Despatch to the Secretary of State, that Mr. Hunter should proceed to England, taking with him the materials which he has collected with great care and labour, and there obtain efficient literary assistance for working these materials into shape. On the other hand, being thus placed in a position to finish the work, he should be held responsible for doing it at a much less cost, and in a much shorter period, than could be expected of him here, where the whole thing has to be spun out of his single brain. Indeed, I do not see how the extensive revision of the work already printed, which, in accordance with the suggestion of the Government of India I now propose, can be properly done without Mr. Hunter's presence in England in close communication with the printers. But to the plan of the Government of India for Mr. Hunter's going home, as laid before the Secretary of State, I would superadd the local organization now indicated. I consider that organization is most important in a work of this sort, and the best guarantee which can be devised for securing its local accuracy, practical utility, and completion within the assigned time. I should add that such an organization seems to me to be the only method by which the Government of Bengal could undertake that responsibility for the work which His Excellency in Council now desires me to assume.

9. Cost of the proposed plan.—The expense of finishing the work by Mr. Hunter in India is referred to in paragraph 11 of the Despatch to the Secretary of State as £17,000; the time required under that plan being four years. The cost of finishing it by Mr. Hunter in England, with adequate literary assistance, as proposed by the Government of India in its Despatch to the Secretary of State of the 11th August 1874, is stated at £6,400; the time being 26 months. By the plan which I now propose, the time would be reduced to 23 months, and the cost to £5,450. But to this cost must be added the expense for the new local organization. That organization should consist of five junior Civil Servants, each with a deputation allowance of Rs. 100 a month, Rs. 50 for a clerk, and a fixed allowance of Rs. 50 for contingencies and travelling allowance.

As the deputation of these gentlemen would be of a strictly temporary character, I am prepared to make such readjustments for the time as to require no substitute for two of them, and to fill the places of the other three by uncovenanted officers. The practical working of my plan would involve three additional Deputy Magistrates of the sixth grade on Rs. 200 a month. The actual addition to the cost of administration will therefore be Rs. 200 per mensem for three Deputy Magistrates, with Rs. 200 a month for the deputation and establishment of each assistant temporarily deputed to the Gazetteer work. The total would be (Rs. 200 × 15 × 5) Rs. 15,000 for the deputation and allowance and establishments of the 5 assistants; and (Rs. 200 × 15 × 3) Rs. 9,000 for the salaries of the two Deputy Magistrates; making a gross sum of Rs. 24,000. The present state of the Bengal list will enable me to carry out this plan at once. I do not, however, regard the question as a purely financial one. It is essentially one of efficiency in conducting, and of certainty in completing, the work; and a local organization, such as I have now indicated, seems to me a necessary corollary of the Government of India's proposal for assigning the responsibility of the work to the Government of Bengal.

10. Estimates.—The three plans, therefore, stand thus—

A.

Plan for Mr. Hunter finishing the work in India without assistance, as at present, referred to in the Government of India's Despatch to the Secretary of State of the 11th August 1874 ... ... £ 17,000

B.

Plan proposed by the Government of India to the Secretary of State in the said Despatch, namely—

(a).—Ten months Indian pay to Mr. Hunter at Rs. 2,250 a month	Rs. 22,500
(b).—Sixteen months English pay to Mr. Hunter at £100 a month, say	„ 16,000
(c).—Contingent expenses and literary assistance in England ...	„ 17,500
(d).—Travelling expenses	„ 8,000
Total ...	Rs. 64,000
	Or £ 6,400

C.

The same plan as now modified, viz.:—

(a).—Seven months Indian pay to Mr. Hunter at Rs. 2,250 a month	Rs. 15,750
(b).—Sixteen months English pay at £100 a month ...	„ 16,000
(c).—Contingent expenses and literary assistance in England ...	„ 14,750
(d).—Travelling expenses at the Government of India's estimate	„ 8,000
Total ...	Rs. 54,500
(e).—Add cost of local organization	„ 24,000
Total ...	Rs. 78,500
	Or £ 7,850

11. CONCLUSION.—This plan effects a reduction of Rs. 9,500 as regards the cost of Mr. Hunter's salary and establishment, and it adds Rs. 24,000 for local organization. I propose that Mr. Hunter, after setting that organization in motion, and making over his materials with suitable instructions to his assistants, should at once proceed to England, as laid down in the Government of India's Despatch to the Secretary of State. It would be for him to make such arrangements regarding his office establishment as he may find most economical for the literary assistance and contingencies mentioned in the above statements under (c) and (d); but the total not to be exceeded, and all sums disbursed in England to be paid in sterling at par.* He would return in November, and in addition to his duties as Director-General of Statistics to the Government of India, he would visit each of his assistants, go over the Bengal manuscript with them, and take steps that each of them completed the districts assigned to him within the prescribed period of 15 months. In 1876 he would again return to England, and I should hold him responsible for revising the whole, and for printing and bringing out the entire work at the expiry of the twenty-third month from the time the arrangement commences. Meanwhile, he and his literary assistants in England would have finished the remainder of the Bengal districts shown in paragraph 6 as being retained in his own hands.

* These items to include all literary or office assistance, travelling expenses for himself and office, and other charges whatsoever.

I have carefully gone into the details which these arrangements will involve. I believe them to be practicable, and they afford the best guarantee for the successful completion of the work which I can suggest. It must be remembered that the sum of Rs. 78,500, shown under statement C, represents not merely the charge for completing the Statistical Account of Bengal, but also the whole cost of Mr. Hunter and his office as Director-General of the operations throughout all the provinces of India. I believe this plan will prove not merely the most effective, but also in the end the most economical one. As already said, it is a question of efficiency and certainty, as well as of cost; and if the Government of Bengal is now to become responsible for the work, I think the work ought to be placed on the basis which seems necessary to ensure satisfactory results. It is important that the above proposals should be carried out at once. I should like to see the local organization set agoing early in January, so that the officers may have two cold seasons (and not one) for their work. If all these arrangements are carried out, the Government of Bengal may, I think, fairly accept the responsibility for seeing the business finished accordingly. And I have every confidence in Mr. Hunter's energy, as well as his knowledge and ability, for the execution of this work.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE PROTECTOR OF EMIGRANTS ON EMIGRATION TO BRITISH AND FOREIGN COLONIES DURING THE YEAR ENDING 31st MARCH 1876.

EMIGRATION DEPARTMENT.

Calcutta, the 24th January 1876.

READ—

The Report of the Protector of Emigrants on emigration to British and Foreign Colonies during the year, ending 31st March 1875.

Read again—

The Report for the previous year, with the orders of Government thereon.

The large increase of emigration to British and Foreign colonies, which was noticed in reviewing the reports for 1872-73 and 1873-74, was not maintained during the past year. The general results of the working of the Emigration Department during the year ending on the 31st of March 1875, as contrasted with those of the previous year, are shown in the following table:—

	1873-74.	1874-75.
Number of emigrants admitted to the depôts ...	29,267	23,393
Absconded	4,362	1,178
Rejected		1,560
Died in depôt	336	79
Death-rate	1·14	0·33
Despatched to colonies	24,569	20,230
Died on ship board	775	285
Death-rate	3·15	1·4
Number of emigrants who returned from the colonies	2,481	3,534

In comparing these results in detail, the chief points which attract attention are the large decrease, amounting to 5,874 persons, in the number of intending emigrants admitted to the depôts, followed by a decrease of 1,881 in the number of persons rejected, absconding, or dying in depôt, and resulting in a net decrease of 4,339 in the number of persons actually despatched to the colonies. The decrease in mortality, both in depôt and on ship board, is also remarkable and satisfactory, while the large increase in the number of emigrants who returned to this country with their earnings is a matter for congratulation.

2. No sufficient explanation has been furnished by Dr. Grant of the reasons for the decrease in emigration as noted above, nor has it been stated what were the requirements of each colony, and whether these had been fully met. The Lieutenant-Governor would wish for this information in future reports. It appears, however, that the requirements of Nevis, Surinam, Cayenne, and Martinique had been fully met in previous years, for no emigrants were taken by these colonies during the year under report. On the other hand, over 7,000 emigrants were recruited for Natal and St. Vincent, from which no indents had been received in the previous year.

Although there was a large decrease in emigration as compared with 1873-74, the total number of emigrants despatched to the colonies exceeded that of 1872-73 by 3,059 persons.

3. The total number of intending emigrants admitted into depôt was 23,393 against 29,267 in the previous year, but no count apparently has been taken of those who may have been recruited and registered in the interior, but who absconded before reaching the depôts. It is important that Dr. Grant's reports should show year by year the total number of coolies recruited, as well as the total number admitted into depôt, and the Lieutenant-Governor requests that this may be done in future. The information is requisite as having a bearing on the manner in which the recruiters may have conducted their duties in the interior. While there has been a slight decrease in the number of licenses issued to recruiters, there has been, the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to observe, a more than proportionate decrease in the number of instances in which these licenses have been cancelled for misconduct, and he trusts that Dr. Grant's inference, that recruiting operations have been conducted more in conformity with the provisions of the law, is correct.

4. The Protector of Emigrants justly notices the fact of the lowness of the death-rate in depôt as a matter for congratulation, and he attributes it chiefly to the comparative absence of cholera and bowel complaints. The Lieutenant-Governor, however, hopes that in some measure it may not unfairly be attributed to the increased regularity in the proceedings of the Department which has resulted in the diminution of the average period of detention in depôt. The large number of coolies who are reported to have absconded, amounting to about 5 per cent. of the admissions to depôt, is, the Lieutenant-Governor considers, an unsatisfactory feature in the returns. It may be the result of an insufficient appreciation by the labourers of the terms of their engagements, or of their future prospects at the time of registration, and in this case it would seem to point to the necessity of more care on the part of the local magistrates in explaining matters to all such persons when brought before them, or it may be the result of wilful fraud on the part of persons who desire to be brought to Calcutta free of cost to themselves, in which case loss is occasioned to the colonies. In either case the matter would appear to be one requiring careful attention on the part of the Protector. As regards labourers finally rejected by the Medical Inspector as unfit to emigrate, the Lieutenant-Governor observes with satisfaction that the measures now taken to ensure their safe return to their homes have been found to work well.

5. In the following table the number of emigrants recruited for, and despatched to, the several colonies during the year under review, is shown and contrasted with the figures for the previous year:—

The large decrease in the shipments of labourers to Demerara, the total cessation of emigration to Dutch and French Guiana, and the renewal of emigration to Natal, are prominent features in the above return. The reason for the decrease in emigration to British Guiana is unexplained. As the inducements held out to emigrants to that colony have not been diminished, it seems probable that the result is due to decreased indents consequent on the large requisitions of previous years. In both French and Dutch Guiana the health of the immigrant labourers has been far from satisfactory, insomuch so that for the present at least, and since the close of the year under report, it has been determined not to allow any further despatches to Surinam. Considering the prospects the coolies have of bettering themselves in Natal, the large shipments made to that colony during the year under report are satisfactory.

6. As in previous years, the largest number of emigrants were recruited in the North-Western Provinces, though it is observable that the proportion recruited in Behar and Bengal has been larger than heretofore. Of the total number of 20,230 emigrants despatched to the colonies, 9,688 were natives of the North-Western Provinces, 6,406 of Behar, 2,781 of Oude, and 1,041 only of Bengal Proper and Orissa. The number elsewhere recruited in the Punjab, Central India, and the Native States amounted to 314 only. It is satisfactory to observe that the number of women despatched to all the British colonies, excepting Natal, exceeded the prescribed proportion. In the case of shipments to Natal, the deficiency in the number of women was five only. The proportion of women to every 100 men despatched to Guadeloupe was 34·10 only, but orders have since issued requiring the full complement of 40 to be adhered to in future.

7. Of the 20,230 labourers who emigrated during the year, 285, or 1·28 per cent., died on ship board. Among those bound for the Mauritius and Natal the death-rate was only 0·9 per cent., but among those proceeding to the West Indies the rate of mortality (1·9 per cent.) was somewhat more than double this. While on the shorter voyages in six instances steamers were engaged to convey the emigrants, on the West India route none but sailing vessels were employed. Although generally the death-rate was small and considerably below the average of the previous year, on particular voyages it was lamentably high. On board the Forfarshire, which started for Demerara on the 18th August 1874 with 509 souls on board, 10·21 per cent. of the emigrants died during the voyage. On board the Golden Fleece, which sailed a few days earlier for Trinidad with 519 emigrants, 4·81 per cent. perished. The voyage of the British Empire, which left for Trinidad in the November following, was also unfortunate, 5·21 per cent. out of 633 emigrants having died. The circumstances connected with this heavy mortality on board the vessels named, and on other occasions, have formed the subject of careful inquiry; but the chief conclusion arrived at was that while the diseases to which the mortality was principally to be ascribed had been probably carried on board in a latent form, there had been no want of proper care and attention on the part of the responsible officers of Government in the selection and examination of the emigrants prior to their shipment. Although it has been hitherto found to be impossible to provide altogether against sudden outbreaks of choleraic diarrhœa and measles, usually the most fatal diseases, notwithstanding all the precautions adopted, the matter is one which still engages the careful attention of the Emigration Department, and everything that skill and experience can suggest has been, and will continue to be done to secure the welfare of the emigrants on their journey. Till the length of the voyage to the West Indies has been considerably curtailed, however, by the use of steamers, instances of protracted passages must continue to occur with the accompanying risk to the health of the emigrants.

8. Among time-expired emigrants returning from the colonies, the average rate of mortality was 2·2, or 1 per cent. more than among labourers on the outward trip. This is easily explained, however, by the fact that many of the return emigrants are chronic invalids, who have been shipped in the hope of recovery by a return to their native land.

9. The aggregate amount of the savings reported to have been brought home by the return emigrants alluded to was Rs. 4,51,133 against Rs. 2,86,014 brought back by those who returned in the previous year. These figures do not profess to be otherwise than incomplete. Still they sufficiently indicate the benefits resulting from emigration. Similarly, it is satisfactory to notice that it has been ascertained that the total number of former emigrants who re-emigrated during the past season was at least 500.

10. The Lieutenant-Governor observes that the Protector of Emigrants has omitted to furnish, as in previous years, an account of the cost of the working of his department, or of the realizations made under the Emigration law. This omission should be supplied in future.

11. The favourable testimony borne by Dr. Grant to the efficient control and management of the emigration agencies by the several gentlemen noted in the margin, is a satisfactory feature in the present report. Sir Richard Temple has himself visited most of the depôts, and has been glad to observe the care and attention evidently bestowed in their management. To Dr. Grant himself the thanks of Government are due for much valuable assistance rendered during the year in matters connected with emigration, and for the efficient manner in which he continues to superintend the affairs of the department.

RESOLUTION REGARDING THE ESTABLISHMENT OF SPECIAL SURVEYING SCHOOLS AT HOOGHLY, DACCA, PATNA, AND CUTTACK.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—EDUCATION—No. 205.

Calcutta, the 24th January 1876.

READ—

Minute by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, dated 6th May 1875, on the establishment of schools for surveying and of lower technical schools.

The Reports of Commissioners of Divisions on the subject of the above Minute.

Letter from the Officiating Director of Public Instruction, No. 3285, dated 7th July 1875, submitting proposals for the opening of survey schools.

The Lieutenant-Governor has on several occasions expressed his recognition of the necessity of infusing into the Government educational system a more extended study of the practical sciences, both as a means of finding remunerative employment for the young men who are annually sent forth by our higher schools and colleges, and also with the object of stimulating and improving those industries, the development of which is calculated to increase the material wealth of the country. It appears to him that, in carrying this principle into operation, there are several considerations which recommend the establishment of schools for surveying as the first step which it is desirable to take. The establishment of such institutions does not appear likely to be attended with the difficulties which surround the formation of artizan and industrial schools. The success of the Civil Engineering classes at the Presidency College shows that the study of surveying is popular with the natives of this country, and is one for which they possess considerable aptitude. The study is one which combines a high degree of mental culture with a large measure of practical utility. It is one which is directly concerned with the land,—a subject in which all classes of the community are interested, and with which all the national industries and social institutions are more or less intimately connected.

2. While, therefore, the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the formation of these schools will be only a preliminary step towards the establishment of the system which he desires to inaugurate, and will hereafter be supplemented by the foundation, throughout Bengal, of technical schools for the teaching of handicrafts and for the improvement of the several kinds of manual industry, he considers that a commencement should at once be made by the opening of survey schools in some of the principal centres of population.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor is accordingly pleased to direct that schools for surveying shall be opened on the 1st March 1876, at Hooghly, Dacca, Patna, and Cuttack, under the general supervision of the Principals of the local colleges. The instruction given in these schools will be in the vernacular, and the course will extend over a period of two years. The schools being opened on the 1st March, continuous study will be kept up till the Durga Poojah holidays, when a month's vacation will be allowed. The classes will go into camp from the 1st November to the end of February, and the annual examinations will be held on their return to head-quarters.

The course during a two years' attendance will be as follows:—

First Year.

1st.—Two and a half months—
- Geometry and mensuration.
- Drawing—Printing or penmanship.
  - Practical geometry.

2nd.—Two and half months—

  - Simple objects in orthographic projection.
  - Plans and elevations; line shading.
  - Brickwork.
  - Carpentry.

(1).—A survey of open country with chain only.
(2.)—A survey of close cultivated country with chain and compass.
(3.)—A survey of country continuously built upon, as a village, with chain and compass. The last month to be devoted to levelling operations.

Field work, two and a half months—
(1).—To make a large survey with chain, compass, and plane-table.
(2).—To execute all the field work, levelling, &c. (including a survey), necessary for laying out a line of road between given points about two miles apart.

Final six weeks—
Plotting field work.
Examination for certificate.

4. The annual admissions to each school will be limited to 35 students, and candidates for admission will be required to have passed the standard of the Minor or the Vernacular Scholarship Examination. All scholarships will be tenable in these schools, and scholarship-holders will be allowed the privilege of free tuition, other students being charged a fee of one rupee per month. The Lieutenant-Governor does not think it desirable that stipends should be given to any students on their entrance into the school: but to each school he will attach six scholarships of Rs. 5 each, tenable for one year, and these will be awarded to those pupils who do not already hold scholarships, and who, in an examination which will be held at the end of the first year, show the greatest proficiency.

5. The Public Works Department will be requested to grant the services of four experienced native overseers, who will be appointed head masters of these schools. It will be necessary that one of these should be able to teach in Oriya, another in Hindee, and the other two in Bengali. During the first year, the appointment of a second master will not be necessary; but on the opening of the second-year class, an additional teacher will be required. The full establishment of the schools will be as follows:—

Head-master	Rs.	150	rising to Rs. 175 by annual increments of Rs. 5.
Second-master	„	75
Contingencies	„	25
Servants	„	12
Scholarships	„	30
Total	„	292

6. Besides this, each school will be allowed a sum of Rs. 400 per annum for field expenses during the cold season. The Executive Engineers of the several districts in which these schools are established will be ex-officio visitors of the schools, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that he may be favoured with their active and ready co-operation in furthering the success of the scheme. The advice of the Executive Engineers will be valuable upon many matters of professional detail, and their assistance will be of the greatest use in the conduct of the annual examinations.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,
H. J. REYNOLDS,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

34	Bhagulpore, " 24,* "	Nil.	Rubbee crops are still good. Price of rice shows no tendency to rise, and is, if anything, cheaper in parts of Soopool sub-division; between 20 and 30 seers. Condition of the people is good. General health of the district is very good.
35	Purneah, " 22, "	Nil.	Weather—Cold, with west wind. There is no change to be noticed on last week's report, except that the continued want of rain is much felt. The rubbee crops will not come up to expectations, and pasturage for cattle is drying up. There is not much change in the markets. It is reported that the export of rice down the river Kosi has fallen off considerably.
36	Sonthal Perghs. " 23, "	Nil.	Weather—Very variable in temperature. No rain, but occasional high wind. Rice harvest is over. Sugarcane cutting is progressing fairly.

* Telegrams of the 24th January, received on the same day, show rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

39	Balasore, " 21, "	Nil.	No rainfall during the week. Weather fine, but warm for this season of the year. Rice harvest is excellent. Cholera and small-pox in the south of the district.
CHOTA NAGPORE.
	South-Western Frontier Agency.
40	Hazareebagh, Jan. 21, '76	Nil.	Weather—Cold. Cloudless sky, with dry westerly wind. Prospects of the crops remain the same as reported last week, i.e., owing to the want of rain the rubbee is being burnt up. It is doubtful, unless we have rain (of which there is at present no appearance), whether a 6-anna crop will be saved.
41	Lohardugga, " 22, "	Nil.	Weather is very pleasant, but no rain yet. The prospects of the crops still continue good, but it is feared that damage may be done if rain does not fall shortly. A few cases of small-pox reported from Palamow sub-division.
42	Singbhoom, " 21, "	Nil.	Weather—Seasonable. Reports about the rubbee crops are still favorable. The district is healthy.
43	Manbhoom, " 22, "	Nil.	Weather—Warm for this season. From reports received the Deputy Commissioner is informed that the few crops on the ground are doing well. It appeared to him that for some crops, poppy for instance, rain would do good.

The mean barometer, as likewise the dry and wet bulb thermometer means, are derived from the twenty-four hourly observations made during the day.

The dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants. The figures in column 10 represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity. The receiver of the lower rain gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the anemometer 70 feet 10 inches, above the level of the ground. The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

NOTIFICATION.

The 1st February 1876.—The following circular is published in substitution of the Circular No. 19, dated 7th December 1875, which issued from this (General, Miscellaneous) department, and appeared at page 28, Part I, of the Calcutta Gazette of the 12th January 1876. The amendment is in the intimation therein made, "that no books except those mentioned by the Government of India are in future to be purchased without the sanction of Government." The words "except those mentioned by the Government of India" having been inadvertently introduced, are omitted from the amended circular.

[Amended.]

No. 2367, dated Fort William, the 16th November 1875.

From—R. B. CHAPMAN, ESQ., Secy. to the Government of India, Financial Dept.,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department.

I AM directed by the Hon'ble the President in Council to invite the attention of the Government of Bengal to the subject of the expenditure incurred for the purchase of books published in India, and to suggest the expediency of some restrictions upon the discretion now exercised by heads of offices in this matter.

2. It appears to the Government of India that, as a rule, books should not be bought at the public expense without the previous sanction of the local Government, or, under its instructions, of certain responsible heads of departments; and further, that such sanction should not, except for special reasons, be given to the purchase of any books except law books.

3. Moreover, the Government, as a rule, should not undertake to supply, at the public cost, commentaries or annotations on Acts of the legislature: such works ordinarily form part of an officer's private library.

4. Directories and such like works should only be allowed under special circumstances, where there may be evident inconvenience to the public service if they are not at hand for reference. The local Government should decide to what offices books published by the Government should be supplied, such as the Postal Guide, the Civil Lists, the Codes of the Financial or Public Works Departments, the Army Lists, &c. In future, indents for such books should not be complied with unless received through the local Government, or authorised by some general or special order of the local Government. No payment should be required for books of this class.

5. The suggestions in this letter have reference only to books published in India. The purchase of newspapers and other periodicals, and of books published in Europe or America, is subject to separate regulations.

6. The Government of India will be glad to see in due course any instructions which may be issued in consequence of these orders.

It is ordered that a copy of the application be published in the Calcutta Gazette, as required by Rule V of the Rules made by the Governor-General in Council in respect of loans under the Public Works Loan Act of 1871, and published on the 15th October 1873.

The table showing the proportion in which this half-yearly amount is divided between payment of interest and repayment of principal, which was forwarded with the Commissioners' letter No. 4785, dated 12th January 1874, will show that the terms of the rule above quoted are complied with, and that one-fifth of the amount borrowed will be repaid within ten years, one-half within twenty years, and the whole within thirty years.

RESOLUTION.

The 17th January 1876.—The notifications referred to on the margin showed from time to time, the number of appointments in the several grades of Magistrates and Collectors and of Judges at different periods, since the introduction, in 1873, of the scheme of parallel lines of promotion in the executive and judicial branches of the Covenanted Civil Service. But consequent on the arrangements necessitated by the constitution of the Chief Commissionership of Assam, and by the transfer to that administration of the district of Sylhet, there has been a reduction, as regards appointments under the Government of Bengal, of one first grade and of one second grade Judgeship. On the other hand, two additional Judgeships on Rs. 1,200 each have been created, one in the districts of Darjeeling and Julpigoree, and one in the district of Chittagong. The number of appointments, therefore, in the judicial and executive branches of the service is now as follows:—

Notice of demand.

116. If the bill is not paid by the person liable to pay the same within seven days from the presentation thereof, the Commissioners may cause to be served upon such person a notice of demand, in the form contained in the fourth schedule, or to the like effect; and if he shall not, within seven days from the service of such notice of demand, pay the sum due, or show sufficient cause, to the satisfaction of the Commissioners, for non-payment of the same, such sum, with all costs, may be levied by distress and sale of the moveable property of the defaulter, or if the defaulter be the occupier of any house or land in respect of which a rate is due, by distress and sale of any moveable property found on the house or land, under a warrant in the form contained in the fifth schedule, or to the like effect, to be issued for that purpose by the Commissioners.

Distress.

For every notice of demand under this section which the Commissioners shall cause to be served upon any person, a fee, not exceeding one rupee, shall be paid by such person.

Such fee shall be added to the amount of the rate in respect of which the notice is given, and, if not duly paid, shall be levied in the same manner as such rate may be levied.

Inventory—notice of distress.

117. The officer charged with the execution of a warrant of distress under the last preceding section shall make an inventory of the moveable property seized under such warrant, and shall at the time give a notice in writing, in the form contained in the sixth schedule, to the person in possession thereof at the time of the seizure, that the said moveable property will be sold as therein mentioned.

118. If the warrant is not in the meantime discharged or suspended by the Commissioners, the moveable property seized shall be sold under the orders of the Commissioners, who shall apply the proceeds, or such part thereof as may be necessary, in discharge of the said arrears and costs; and the surplus, if any, shall be returned, on demand, to the person in possession of the moveable property at the time of the seizure.

120. If the sum due on account of any rate from the owner of any house or land remains unpaid after notice of demand has been duly served, the Commissioners may demand the amount from the occupier for the time being of the house or land, and, on non-payment thereof, may recover the same by distress and sale of any moveable property found on the house or land, and, in such case, the occupier may deduct, from the next and following payments of his rent, the amount which may be so paid by, or recovered from, him.

Provided that no arrear of rate, which has remained due from the owner of any house or land for more than one year, shall be so recovered from the occupier thereof.

Distress not unlawful for want of form.

121. No distress levied under this Act shall be deemed unlawful, nor shall any party making the same be deemed a trespasser, on account of any defect or want of form in the notice, schedule, summons, notice of demand, warrant of distress, inventory, or other proceeding relating thereto, nor shall such party be deemed a trespasser on account of any irregularity committed by him; but all persons aggrieved by such irregularity may recover full satisfaction for any special damage sustained by them in any court of competent jurisdiction.

Commissioners may sue, instead of proceeding by distress.

122. Instead of proceeding by distress and sale, or in case of failure to realize by distress and sale the whole or any part of the sum due in respect of any rate, the Commissioners may sue the person liable to pay the same in any Court of competent jurisdiction.

When pipes are out of repair, Commissioners may turn off water.

Nov. 26th.	187	8vo. ..	First ...	1,000	Printed..	1 0 0	Badanchandra Naskar, of Behálá.	The adventures of Seth and Basanta, two sons of Rájá Birjit Singh, of Nashipur near Murshidábád, are herein narrated. These two were driven from their father's house by the artifices of their step-mother; the elder shortly after became a Rájá in another country; the younger however fared worse, became eventually the friend of a banker, with whom he travelled, and by his skill in playing chess, was married to the Heroine, the heiress of a rich Rájá, who offered herself as a prize to any one who beat her in play: the banker had first tried, but was defeated and cast into prison. Basanta, on becoming rich, released his old friend but met with a very poor return from him; as he inveigled Basanta into going on the river in a boat with his wife, and then pushed him into the stream. He however managed to keep himself afloat, and reached his elder brother's kingdom, whither the banker too had previously forcibly taken the heroine Sulochaná with him, but she stood faithful to her marriage vow. All the parties met in the elder brother's capital, where the plot of the story thickens: the treacherous banker receives the punishment of his crimes: the brothers recognize each other, and are joined by their father, who had driven them into exile.

Oct. 1st ...	96	8vo. ...	First ...	500	dtito ...	0 12 0	Dakshinácharan Chatterji, of Pánihâti.	The work commences with a dialogue between two of the principal actors in the case of the Guikwár of Barodá, in which unfavorable comments are made as to the action taken therein by Government. A little further on, and forming the main part of the book, the immunities permitted in the civil jail are contrasted with the heart-rending treatment by the jail authorities of prisoners in the criminal jail. The native doctor is depicted as kind and sympathetic, whilst the Civil Surgeons and the Magistrates are, on the other hand, represented as heartlessly cruel, especially in flogging the prisoners. The drama comprises scenes in the Alipore, Jessore, Burdwan, Narail, and Bankoora jails. The Jessore jail stands out most prominently in the cruel treatment of its prisoners, one of whom is represented as having died from the effects of the lashes administered to him whilst in prison.

" 25th ...	90	8vo. ...	First ...	500	ditto ...	0 8 0	Shyámácharan Dás, of Khardah.	Indra, on being coerced by the demons, lost his throne, and was thereupon advised to seek the aid of one of the mortals, which he accordingly did, and found in Khattánga Rájá all that was necessary. On being restored to his throne, Indra ordered great rejoicings, and during one of the nautches one of the celestial dancers became enamoured of Khattánga Rájá which so vexed Indra that he cursed and turned her into a mortal for a specified period. During her residence on earth, Kuru Rájá, whilst hunting, met and fell in love with her, and after she had, to his intense sorrow, received deliverance and returned to heaven, Kuru by worshipping Indra had her given to him in marriage.

ROY LUCHMIPUT SINGH BAHADOOR'S DONATION FOR STUDY OF PRACTICAL SCIENCES.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—EDUCATION—No. 279.

Calcutta, the 1st February 1876.

READ again—

The Lieutenant-Governor's minute dated 30th August 1875, on additional colleges and high schools.

Read also—

The undermentioned papers relating to an offer of Rs. 40,000 by Roy Luchmiput Singh Bahadoor, for the restoration of the Berhampore College to its former status.

Letter from the Commissioner of the Presidency division, No. 12ME, dated 18th December 1875, and enclosure.

Letter to Commissioner, Presidency division, No. 3662, dated 21st December 1875.

Letter from Commissioner, Presidency division, No. 15ME, dated 18th January 1876, and enclosure.

In paragraph 5 of his minute cited above, the Lieutenant-Governor expressed his willingness to take into consideration the restoration of the Berhampore College to its former status, if the friends of that institution would make efforts similar to those made by those interested in the Kishnaghur College for the re-establishment of its B. A. classes.

In December last the Commissioner of the Presidency division communicated to Government the liberal offer of Roy Luchmiput Singh Bahadoor to give a donation of Rs. 40,000 to assist in the restoration of the Berhampore College to the rank of a full college, teaching up to the B. A. degree; the endowment to be called the "Prince of Wales' Fund," in commemoration of the visit of His Royal Highness to India.

It appeared, however, that the probability of obtaining higher class students at the Berhampore College was so small as to preclude the hope of re-establishing the college classes there with any public advantage; and it was suggested by the Lieutenant-Governor that instead of reviving the B. A. classes at Berhampore, at which only two students passed at the F. A. examination of 1875-76, the donation would be more beneficially appropriated to the foundation of a college in Calcutta for the encouragement of the study of the practical sciences.

This view has been cordially accepted by Roy Luchmiput Singh Bahadoor, who has, at the same time, renewed his request, that the endowment may be called the Prince of Wales' Fund.

The Lieutenant-Governor accepts the offer of Rs. 40,000 on these terms; and the Commissioner of the Presidency division will be requested to convey to Roy Luchmiput Singh Bahadoor the thanks of Government for his munificent gift.

The Director of Public Instruction will, at the same time, be requested to submit a definite scheme for carrying out the objects of the endowment.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the Crops.

Statement showing Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the Crops in the different Districts of Bengal, as reported to Government during the week ending the 29th January 1876.

Division	No.	District and date of return.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather, state and prospects of the crops, and state of health at date.
BENGAL.
		Western Districts.
Burdwan Divn.	1	Burdwan, Jan. 31,* '76	Nil.	Prospects of winter crops and sugarcane are same as before, i.e., they are doing well. General health of the district is comparatively good.
	2	Bankoora, „ 29, „	Nil.	Weather—Dry. West wind in the early part of the week. No change in the state and prospects of the paddy crops. Winter crops are doing well. Health of the district continues good.
	3	Beerbhoom, „ 29, „	Nil.	Weather—Seasonable. Winter crops are promising well.
	4	Midnapore, „ 29, „	Nil.	Weather—Seasonable. State and prospects of the crops are fair.
	5	Hooghly, „ 29, „	Nil.	Weather—Very cold and extraordinarily foggy on the 25th, 26th, and 27th. Sowing.—Sowings of a species of rice called jali dhan are going on in a small part of the chur lands in Bolaghur. Cultivation.—Spring crops are doing well. Late potatoes cost heavy irrigation. Dews heavy. Barley and wheat (small crops) sprouted well. Rain is wanted at the end of a fortnight. Harvest.—Rice is well closed. Kolaie or pulses closed. Outturn is 12 to 14 annas. Sugarcane is being cut and pressed. Potatoes being dug up; the yield is from 12 to 14 annas. Vegetables are abundant.
		Howrah, „ 29, „	Nil.	Weather—Fine. Barometer is low. State and prospects of the crops remain unchanged.
		Central Districts.
Presidency Divn.	6	24-Pergunnahs, Jan. 31,† '76	Nil.	Weather—Seasonable. Harvesting of the late rice is nearly brought to a close. Winter crops are promising well. Cholera is abating at Barripore, but it shows no sign of decrease at Diamond Harbour.
	7	Nuddea, „ 29, „	Nil.	Weather—Cool and pleasant. The drought is telling on the rubbee crops in most parts of the district. The yield will be somewhat light, but the fine weather is ensuring a successful harvest of what there is.
	8	Jessore, „ 29, „	Nil.	Weather—Much cooler than last week. Strong westerly winds prevailing. Late rice crop is nearly all harvested. Rain is much wanted both for the crops now standing and for ploughing for future crops.
	9	Moorshedabad	......	Return not received.
Rajshahye Divn.	10	Dinagepore, „ 28, „	Nil.	Weather—Cold and generally fine, but cloudy on the 26th instant. The nor-wester season has set in, but no storm as yet. The paddy crops are nearly off the ground. The prospects of the cold weather crops are fair, but would have been better if rain had fallen in time.
	11	Maldah, „ 26, „	Nil.	Weather—Cool. The boro crop of rice, the transplanting of which still continues, is doing well. The rubbee crop is suffering throughout the district from want of rain. The haemuntee crop, which has been all reaped, has yielded a fair outturn. One death has taken place from cholera and three from fever during the week.
	12	Rajshahye, „ 29, „	Nil.	Weather—Clear and cool, and no appearance of change. The rice harvest is nearly completed. The cold weather crops require rain badly. Cutting of mustard crops has commenced in Nattore. Public health is good.
	13	Rungpore, „ 28, „	Nil.	Weather—Cold and seasonable. Tobacco crop is good. Wheat is fair. Mustard is nearly all gathered. Rain is wanted.
	14	Bogra, „ 29, „	Nil.	Weather—Fair. No change in the state and prospects of the crops since last report, i.e., amun, or the late rice crop, is almost entirely cut, and a fair average yield is expected. Other crops promise well.
	15	Pubna, „ 29, „	Nil.	Weather—High winds from south and west. There appears some hope of an early fall of rain. The sôn crop is being gathered, and the yield is poor owing to the want of rain. The spring crops are now beginning to suffer from the same cause. Cholera is abating, but has not yet disappeared.

* Telegram of the 31st January, received on the same day, shows rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

† Report of the 31st January, received on the same day, shows rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

	No.	District and date of return.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather, state and prospects of the crops, and state of health at date.
COOCH BEHAR DIVN.	16	Darjeeling, Jan. 28, '76	Nil.	Weather—Very cold and misty, with occasional sunshine during the week. The slight rains during the week have done some good to the barley and wheat now on the ground, but more is wanted. In the Terai—Harvesting of the winter rice crop is going on. There will be a very small deficiency in the outturn.
	17	Julpigoree, „ 29, „	Nil.	Weather—The last few days have been cloudy and promised rain. Rain is greatly needed. Tobacco crop looks greatly dried up, and if rain does not fall soon it will not be up to average.
		Cooch Behar, „ 27, „	Nil.	Weather—Cold and fair. Prospects of tobacco and other crops continue unfavorable for want of rain.
		Eastern Districts.
DACCA DIVN.	18	Dacca, Jan. 31,* '76	Nil.	Weather—Seasonable. Rain would do good to the crops, but the heavy dews have prevented much damage.
	19	Fureedpore, „ 29, „	Nil.	Weather continues seasonable. The rubbee crops, it is reported, will suffer should no rain fall.
	20	Backergunge, „ 27, „	Nil.	Weather—Cold and dry. Rain is much wanted. State and prospects of the crops are fair. Public health is improving.
	21	Mymensingh, „ 28, „	Nil.	Weather—Fine and dry, with westerly wind. This wind is unseasonable, and may bring rain, which is much wanted. Pulses are fair, and boro crop of rice so far favorable.
	22	Tipperah, „ 28, „	Nil.	Weather—Seasonable. No change in the state and prospects of the crops since last week.
CHITTAGONG DIVN.	23	Chittagong, „ 27, „	Nil.	Weather—Warmer than last week, the south wind having begun. Cloudy, and a prospect of rain falling. Rain is still wanted. Small-pox is prevalent. Inoculation being much practised. Cholera is decreasing.
	24	Noakholly, „ 27, „	Nil.	Weather—Cloudy and foggy. Pulses, chillies, linseed, sesamum, &c., are progressing fairly. A little rain would do much good. Cholera still prevails in certain parts of the district.
	25	Chittagong Hill Tracts, „ 25, „	Nil.	Weather—Cloudy this day. During the first part of the week it was very cold. No rain. Mustard is being gathered in small quantities. Tobacco and chillies are doing well.
		Hill Tipperah, „ 26, „	Nil.	Weather—Cloudy and unsettled for the greater part of the week, and not so cold as in last week. No change to report regarding the state and prospects of the crops.
BEHAR.
PATNA DIVN.	26	Patna, Jan. 31,* '76	Nil.	Weather—Seasonable. No change in the prospects of the crops since last report. Health of the district is good.
	27	Gya, „ 29, „	Nil.	Weather—Cooler, with high west and north-west winds almost incessantly. Occasionally cloudy, with unfulfilled appearance of rain. From the east it is reported that if rain should fall the rubbee crops may still be a full one, otherwise 12 annas; and from the west, that the crops are only fair, and will suffer a good deal if there be no rain; still more in the far south-west. No return from Johanabad is received.
	28	Shahabad, „ 29, „	Nil.	Weather—Cold, with very high westerly wind in the commencement of the week. Rubbee crops are ripening. Some injury is done by high westerly winds. In Buxar it is thought the crop will not be a full one.
	29	Durbhunga, „ 29, „	Nil.	Weather—Very cold, with west wind. No change in the prospects of the rubbee crops since the date of the last report, except that indigo and tobacco have been considerably injured by frost in the south of the district. Prices of food-grains in the Mudhoobunnee sub-division are stationary.
	30	Mozufferpore	......	Return not received.
	31	Sarun, „ 29, „	Nil.	Weather—Cold, cloudless sky, with dry westerly wind. The prospects of the crops continue fair, but rain would do much good now. Mustard and peas are being harvested in places. Wheat and barley are in ear. Ruhur pulse is doing well, and fast reaching maturity. Poppy is flourishing. Sugarcane is being manufactured and yielding fairly. Prices (rice excepted) are favorable. General health is good.
	32	Chumparun, „ 28, „	Nil.	Weather—Nice and cool. The rubbee and poppy are growing well. Late rice crop is harvested.

* Telegrams of the 31st January, received on the same day, show rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

No.	District and date of return.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather, state and prospects of the crops, and state of health at date.
BEHAR.—(Contd.)
Bhagulpore Divn.
33	Monghyr, Jan. 29, '76	Nil.	Weather—Fair, with occasional high west winds. The rubbee prospects continue fair in the extensive low-lying dearas; the crops are very good.
34	Bhagulpore, " 31,* "	Nil.	Rain is badly wanted for the rubbee, though in many places the crops are very healthy. Large importations into Soopool from Mudehpoora are reported, and strange to say, common rice is cheaper in the Soopool sub-division than it is at head-quarters, and in many places cheaper than at Mudehpoora. Prices of rice ranging from 20 to 25 seers. Price of rice at Mudehpoora is 21 to 25 seers. Murwa is selling at 29 to 32 seers in Soopool. Condition of the people north of the Ganges is still good. General health of the district is very good.
35	Purneah, " 29, "	Nil.	Weather—Dry and getting warmer. Westerly winds at the commencement and middle of the week. At present the wind is blowing from the east. Rain is much wanted for the rubbee crops and cattle pasturage, and more particularly for wheat and barley, which are suffering in consequence.
36	Sonthal Perghs. " 30, "	Nil.	Weather—Colder, with less wind than last week. The little rubbee crop there is has suffered a good deal from want of rain.
ORISSA.
Orissa Divn.
37	Cuttack, Jan. 22, '76	Nil.	Weather—Cold and dry in the district, but not in the sudder station. All crops are doing well. Public health is good.
38	Pooree, " 27, "	Nil.	Weather—Clear and cold. Harvesting of the main rice crop is almost complete. Cotton plantation has been commenced. Sugarcane is being cut. Tobacco is being planted. The dalwa paddy crop is in progress.
39	Balasore, " 28, "	Nil.	Weather—Fine, and towards the end of the week much colder. Harvesting of the paddy crop is completed. Outturn is excellent. Miscellaneous crops are good. Cholera and small-pox are in parts of the district, both in the north and south.
CHOTA NAGPORE.
	South-Western Frontier Agency.
40	Hazareebagh, Jan. 28, '76	Nil.	Weather—Cloudless sky, with strong westerly wind. No improvement in the prospect of the crops since last report; and the little pasturage there is, will be dried up for want of moisture if these high winds continue.
41	Lohardugga, " 29, "	Nil.	Weather—Still cool. Very strong westerly winds throughout the week. No rain. The prospects of the rubbee crops still continue good, but the cry for rain is becoming louder. The Assistant Commissioner of Palamow reports that the crops, particularly gram, are beginning to suffer from want of rain.
42	Singbhoom, " 28, "	Nil.	Weather—Seasonable. Want of rain has not injured the rubbee, but for the first ploughings some rain now will do good. The district is healthy.
43	Manbhoom, " 29, "	Nil.	Weather—Cool, but rain is wanted. The crops on the ground are doing well. There has been no rain, and the Deputy Commissioner presumes that the crops, which are not on any extended scale, have been irrigated from the numerous tanks. Owing to the call upon these tanks for the winter rice and the crops now on the ground, the Deputy Commissioner is afraid that unless rain soon falls, there will be a great want of water for man and beast before long.

* Telegram of the 31st January, received on the same day, shows rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

The mean barometer, as likewise the dry and wet bulb thermometer means, are derived from the twenty-four hourly observations made during the day.

The dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants. The figures in column 10 represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity. The receiver of the lower rain gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the anemometer 70 feet 10 inches, above the level of the ground. The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

No. 2367, dated Fort William, the 16th November 1875.

From—R. B. CHAPMAN, ESQ. Secy. to the Government of India, Financial Dept.,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department.

I AM directed by the Hon'ble the President in Council to invite the attention of the Government of Bengal to the subject of the expenditure incurred for the purchase of books published in India, and to suggest the expediency of some restrictions upon the discretion now exercised by heads of offices in this matter.

2. It appears to the Government of India that, as a rule, books should not be bought at the public expense without the previous sanction of the local Government, or, under its instructions, of certain responsible heads of departments; and further, that such sanction should not, except for special reasons, be given to the purchase of any books except law books.

3. Moreover, the Government, as a rule, should not undertake to supply, at the public cost, commentaries or annotations on Acts of the legislature: such works ordinarily form part of an officer's private library.

4. Directories and such like works should only be allowed under special circumstances, where there may be evident inconvenience to the public service if they are not at hand for reference. The local Government should decide to what offices books published by the Government should be supplied, such as the Postal Guide, the Civil Lists, the Codes of the Financial or Public Works Departments, the Army Lists, &c. In future, indents for such books should not be complied with unless received through the local Government, or authorised by some general or special order of the local Government. No payment should be required for books of this class.

5. The suggestions in this letter have reference only to books published in India. The purchase of newspapers and other periodicals, and of books published in Europe or America, is subject to separate regulations.

6. The Government of India will be glad to see in due course any instructions which may be issued in consequence of these orders.

Entries in books.

If the document be an entry in any book, the claimant shall produce the book to the Manager, together with a copy of the entry on which he relies. The Manager shall mark the book for the purpose of identification, and, after examining and comparing the copy with the original, shall return the book to the claimant.

Exclusion of documents not produced.

If any document in the possession or under the control of the claimant is not delivered or produced by him to the Manager along with the claim, the Manager may refuse to receive such document in evidence on the claimant's behalf at the investigation of the case.

Debt or liability not duly notified to be barred.

8. Every debt or liability other than debts due, or liabilities incurred, to Government, or (in the case of under-tenures) to the superior landlord, to which the holder of the estate is subject, or with which the property vested in the Manager is charged, and which is not duly notified to the Manager within the time and in manner hereinbefore mentioned, shall be barred:

Provision for admission of claim within further period of nine months.

Provided that, when proof is made to the Manager that the claimant was unable to comply with the provisions of sections six and seven, the Manager may admit such claim within the further period of nine months from the expiration of the said period of three months.

Determination of debts and liabilities.

9. The Manager shall, in accordance with the rules to be made under this Act, determine the amount of such debts and liabilities due to the several creditors of the holder of the estate and persons holding mortgages, charges or liens on the said property or any part thereof, as he may think proper to insert in the schedule to be submitted under section eleven.

Manager may fix sum which he thinks each creditor ought to receive.

In determining such amount the Manager shall have power to fix the sum which, on the consideration of all the circumstances, he may consider each creditor ought in fairness and justice to receive. And in fixing such sum, he shall not be bound by any previous agreement or judicial proceeding.

Appeal to Deputy Commissioner.

10. An appeal against any refusal, admission or determination under section seven, eight or nine shall lie, if preferred within six weeks from the date of such determination, to the Deputy Commissioner within whose jurisdiction the property is situate, and the decision of the Manager, if no such appeal has been so preferred, shall be final.

To Commissioner.

An appeal shall lie from any decision of the Deputy Commissioner, if preferred within six weeks of the date of such decision, to the Commissioner, and the decision of such Commissioner, or of the Deputy Commissioner if no such appeal has been so preferred, shall be final.

11. Power to return scheme for revision.

Until such approval is given, the Commissioner may, as often as he thinks fit, send back such scheme to the Manager for revision, and direct him to make such further enquiry as may be requisite for the proper preparation of the scheme.

Restoration of owner to his property.

12. When all such debts and liabilities have been discharged, or if, within six months after the publication of the order mentioned in section three, the Commissioner thinks that the provisions of this Act should not continue to apply to the case of the holder of the estate or his heir, the holder of the estate or his heir shall be restored to the possession and enjoyment of his immoveable property, or of such part thereof as has not been sold by the Manager under the power contained in section twenty, but subject to the leases and mortgages (if any) granted and made by the Manager under the powers hereinafter contained.

Revival of barred proceedings and debts.

Where the holder of the estate or his heir is so restored under the circumstances mentioned in the second clause of this section, the proceedings, processes, executions, and attachments mentioned in section four (so far as they relate to debts and liabilities not settled by the Manager) shall be revived, and any mortgagee dispossessed under section seventeen shall be reinstated unless his claim under the mortgage has been satisfied; and in calculating the periods of limitation applicable to such revived proceedings and to suits to recover and enforce such revived debts and liabilities, the time intervening between such restoration and the publication of the order mentioned in section three shall be excluded.

CHAPTER V.—POWERS OF MANAGER.

Power to call for further particulars.

13. The Manager may, from time to time, call for further and more detailed particulars of any claim preferred before him under this Act, and may at his discretion refuse to proceed with the investigation of the claim until such particulars are supplied.

Power to summon witnesses and compel production of documents.

14. For the purposes of this Act, the Manager may summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses and compel them to give evidence, and compel the production of documents by the same means, and, as far as possible, in the same manner, as is provided in the case of a civil Court by the Code of Civil Procedure.

Power to administer oaths.

15. The Manager may administer an oath in such form as he thinks fit to any person examined before him touching the matters to be enquired into under this Act.

Investigation to be deemed a judicial proceeding.

16. Every investigation conducted by the Manager with reference to any claim preferred before him under this Act, or to any matter connected with any such claim, shall be taken to be a judicial proceeding within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Statements of persons examined to be evidence.

And every statement made by any person examined by or before the Manager with reference to such investigation, whether upon oath or otherwise, shall be taken to be evidence within the meaning of the same Code.

Manager to have powers of holder of estate.

17. The Manager shall have, for the purpose of realizing and recovering the rents and profits of the said immoveable property, the same powers as the holder of the estate would have had for such purpose if this Act had not been passed.

Power to remove mortgagee in possession.

And if such property, or any part thereof, be in the possession of any mortgagee, the Manager may apply to the Court of the Deputy Commissioner within whose jurisdiction the property is situate, and such Court shall cause the same to be delivered to the Manager as if a decree therefor had been made in his favour; but without prejudice to the mortgagee preferring his claim under the provisions hereinbefore contained.

Manager to have power to inquire into consideration given for leases.

18. If such property or any part thereof be in the possession of any person claiming to hold under a perpetual or mukarrari lease, dated within the three years immediately preceding the publication of the order mentioned in section three, the Manager, with the sanction of the Deputy Commissioner and Commissioner, shall have power to inquire into the sufficiency of the consideration for which the lease was given, and if upon due inquiry such consideration shall appear to him insufficient, to order the person so in possession to pay such consideration for the said lease as may seem proper to such Manager.

In default of payment of the said sum the lease shall be cancelled.

Power to lease.

19. Subject to the rules made under section twenty-one, the Manager shall have power to demise all or any part of the said property, for any term of years not exceeding twenty years absolute, to take effect in possession, in consideration of any fine or fines, or without fine, and reserving such rents and under such conditions as may be agreed upon.

Power to raise money by mortgage or sale.

20. The Manager, with the previous assent of the Commissioner, shall have power to raise any money which may be required for the settlement of the debts and liabilities (other than as aforesaid) to which the holder of the estate is subject, or with which his immoveable property so vested as aforesaid or any part thereof is charged, by demising by way of mortgage the whole or any part of such property for a term not exceeding twenty years from the said publication, or by selling with the previous consent of the holder of the estate and of the person (being of full age) who would be his heir if he died intestate, by public auction or by private contract, and upon such terms as the Manager thinks fit, such portion of the same property as may appear expedient.

And no mortgagee advancing money upon any mortgage made under this section, shall be bound to see that such money is wanted or that no more than is wanted is raised.

Manager's receipts.

And the receipt of the Manager for any monies paid to him upon any mortgage or sale made under this section, or for any rents or profits received by him under section five, shall discharge the person paying the same therefrom and from being concerned to see to the application thereof.

The power to mortgage conferred by this section shall not be exercisable until six months have elapsed from the publication of the order mentioned in section three.

CHAPTER VI.—MISCELLANEOUS.

Power to make rules.

21. The Commissioner may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act in all matters connected with its enforcement.

Such rules, when approved by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal and published in the Calcutta Gazette, shall have the force of law.

Power to appoint new Managers.

22. Whenever the Commissioner thinks fit, he may appoint any officer to be a Manager in the stead of any Manager appointed under this Act; and thereupon the management then vested under this Act in the former Manager shall become vested in the new Manager.

Every such new Manager shall have the same powers as if he had been originally appointed.

Managers to be public servants.

23. Every Manager appointed under this Act shall be deemed a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Bar of suits.

24. No suit or other proceeding shall be maintained against any person in respect of anything done by him bonâ fide pursuant to this Act.

Petitions, &c., under Act exempt from Court fees.

25. No petition, application, memorandum of appeal or other proceeding under this Act, shall be chargeable under the Court Fees Act, 1870.

Saving of jurisdiction of Courts in Chutia Nágpur in respect of certain suits.

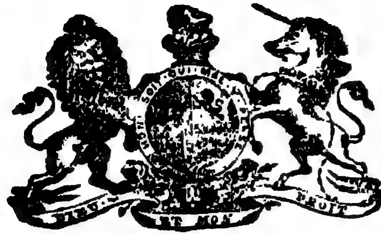
26. Nothing in this Act precludes the Courts in Chutia Nágpur having jurisdiction in suits relating to the succession to, or rights of, persons claiming maintenance from any immoveable property brought under the operation of this Act, from entertaining and disposing of such suits; but to all such suits the Manager of such property shall be made a party.

Act not to affect powers conferred by Bengal Act II of 1869.

27. Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to take away or abridge any power or authority conferred by an Act passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council, entitled an Act to ascertain, regulate and record certain tenures in Chutia Nágpur, on any person appointed to be a Special Commissioner thereunder, or on the Commissioner of the division of Chutia Nágpur.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The accumulation of debts and the sale of large ancestral estates, in satisfaction thereof, is a process calculated to cause trouble in most parts of India. This is notably the case in the districts on the Western frontier of Bengal, which are comprised in the Chutia Nágpur Province. In those districts there are many landed proprietors of a rank equal to that of Chiefs, who are yet improvident and apt to run into debt to an extent which exposes their estates to danger of being brought to sale. If such sale takes place, troubles arise between the purchaser and the villagers, and the rights of the cultivators are likely to be imperilled.



Previously to 1859, when the Civil Procedure Code was introduced, the Commissioner and his subordinates exercised powers similar to those which have been subsequently conferred on the authorities in Oudh by Act No. XXIV of 1870, that is to say, when an estate became so encumbered as to be in danger of being brought to sale, the local authorities took up all the debts, stopped all action by the Courts of justice in regard thereto, prevented the Chief from contracting any fresh debts, arranged to discharge the ascertained amount of just debts, and for this purpose managed the estate, allowing the proprietor a fair maintenance until all obligations were cleared off. These proceedings did in those days provide an effectual remedy. But since 1859, it has been found legally difficult or impossible to continue them. The local authorities indeed have interfered in an indirect way, and so practically averted mischief. But any effective action in this direction would be really beyond their powers. Inasmuch as the evil of indebtedness still exists, and it is desirable that our officers should have a clearly lawful warrant for what they may have to do, it seems desirable to have authority by law for a procedure similar to that which prevailed before 1859.

For this purpose the present Bill has been framed on the model of Act No. XXIV of 1870 (for the relief of encumbered estates in Oudh).

CALCUTTA MUNICIPALITY.

THE HON'BLE SIR STUART HOGG moved that the report of the Select Committee appointed to consider the question of the constitution of the Municipality be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the draft clauses prepared by the Committee. When he brought before the Council the draft report of the Select Committee to amend the law relating to the municipal affairs of Calcutta, he said that, having carefully considered the relative advantages of having elective members of the Corporation as against the appointment of these members by the Government, and having regard to the peculiar circumstances of Calcutta, he had arrived at the opinion that the Corporation, consisting of members appointed by Government, would probably work better, and be found more efficient than a Corporation elected by the people. He further said that if the Calcutta of to-day were compared with the Calcutta of some ten years ago, he thought that the persons who were most adverse to the present system of the municipal constitution of the city could not but agree that the improvements accomplished by the Justices as at present constituted were such as would have been difficult to have been attained, or, if they had been attained, could not have been better done by any other body whether elected or not. From what had since transpired in the public newspapers, and also from discussions in the Council, speaking for himself individually, he saw no reason to depart from the opinion he then gave. However, many members of the Council were of a different opinion; and it was decided to let the sections bearing upon the constitution of the Municipality stand over, and only take into consideration the other sections with regard to the executive organization of the Municipality.

We came now to the consideration of the clauses of the Bill which had a direct bearing upon the constitution, and which the Council referred back to the Select Committee for consideration; and they had drawn out a report and draft sections to introduce into Calcutta the elective system. In accordance with the instructions they had received, the Select Committee had drafted clauses which were calculated to meet the objects the Council had in view.

The general scheme now proposed by the Select Committee was—1st, that the town should be divided into 18 wards, conterminous with the existing police sections; 2nd, that the Corporation of Calcutta should consist of 72 members, of which 54 should be elected by the rate-payers and tax-payers of the city, with the qualification that every person who desired a vote should have paid during the preceding year not less than Rs. 25 in the way of rates and taxes; the qualification for persons desirous of becoming members of the Corporation being that they should pay Rs. 100—rates only, not taxes—for the year 1875.

With a view to secure all classes of the community being fairly represented on the Corporation, the Committee had proposed that they should lay down the number of Hindus and Mahommedans, and persons of other nationalities, who should be appointed as members of the Corporation. What they had suggested to the Council was that out of 54 members to be elected by the people, 27 should be Hindus, 9 Mahommedans, and 18 persons other than Mahommedans and Hindus. Eighteen members of the Municipality should be appointed by Government; of which 9 members should be Hindus or Mahommedans at the pleasure of Government, and the remaining 9 persons of other nationalities,—Europeans, Armenians, Jews, Parsees, &c. This, in the opinion of the Committee, would secure all members of the community being fairly represented.

As the clauses of the Bill were likely to give rise to considerable discussion, he thought it was useless taking up their time now; and he would endeavour to answer or explain any objections that would be raised when the clauses came on for consideration.

Sections 1 to 4 were agreed to.

Section 5 declared the number of Commissioners to be elected and their nationalities.

The Hon'ble Mr. Brookes said, this appeared to him to be one of the most important sections of the report of the Committee. There were two matters in this section which occurred to him as well worthy the consideration of the Council. One was the proportion of the nationalities of the gentlemen who were to be elected and to compose the Corporation. The numbers were—27 Hindus, 9 Mahommedans, and 18 of other nationalities. He wished to speak more particularly in reference to the 18 members put down as representing all other nationalities in the Corporation, which would include English in its widest sense, Scotch, Jews, Armenians, and so forth. He was inclined to think that, considering the important bodies which those nationalities represented in Calcutta, 18 was not a sufficient number to represent them in the Corporation. That was of course for the Council to decide; but he merely threw it out as a suggestion worthy of the consideration of the Council.

There was another point in the section, and that was the qualification of members, namely, the paying of rates. He thought that would exclude many Europeans, that is, many of those who were included in the 18 of other nationalities, inasmuch as many of them lived in clubs, chummeries, and boarding-houses; and simply because they did not pay rates, they would be disqualified from being members of the Corporation. He would therefore suggest that the words "or taxes" be added, which would bring these gentlemen within the number of those qualified to represent various communities. He suggested that the number of 25 would not be out of proportion for persons representing those interests; that would leave 29 members out of 54 to represent Hindus and Mahomedans, which, in the same proportion as that given in the section, would give 22 Hindus and 7 Mahommedans. He thought that that proportion would meet the case.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL said, the principle on which these sections were based, he might say, affected the success of the whole scheme, and he was of opinion that it was a principle which had the character of dictating to the electors whom they should elect, and would not leave them freedom of choice. He quite appreciated the liberality of the Government in conceding to the rate-payers the right of election. But if he understood the wishes of the Government rightly, it was this, that the electors should have a full and unrestricted liberty of electing whomsoever they chose, and not that the Government should tell them that in particular wards they should elect particular men to represent their interests. It was true that at the outset the Government should reserve to themselves some power of nominating members of the Corporation, and for that reason one-fourth of the members was left to the nomination of the Government. But with regard to the three-fourths, he humbly thought that full liberty should be given to the rate-payers to elect those in whom they might have the greatest confidence, be they Hindus, Mahommedans, Europeans, Jews, or Parsees. He would ask the Council to consider what would be the position of a ward for which the Government should declare that the electors should elect a Hindu if they did not find a competent Hindu to fill the office. They might have greater confidence in some European or Mahommedan, but under the law they would be driven to elect some Hindu, or should forego the right of election altogether. This, he considered, was not election, but dictation. The Government dictated that they should elect a man of this nationality or that, or should go without the right of election. That was not in consonance with the spirit in which this measure had been conceived. He therefore held that the proportions of nationalities provided in the section was not quite in accordance with the principle of the Bill. He admitted that the circumstances of Calcutta were peculiar; that there existed in this city a varied community with conflicting interests, but not always he hoped so. The working of the existing Municipality had shown that the interests of all classes of rate-payers were identical, and that they had one common object in view, viz. the good of the town. If, then, it were left to the good sense and judgment of the electors to elect representatives according to their own knowledge of persons competent to discharge the duties of Municipal Commissioner, it would accomplish the object aimed at. Entertaining that opinion, he would submit that the clause relating to proportion be omitted altogether, and that the electors be left entirely free to elect whomsoever they might think fit. It might be said that the larger number of rate-payers being Hindus, they would flood or swamp the Corporation; that was to say, the majority of persons elected would probably be Hindus, and that other sections of the community would be over-ridden. He did not think that that would be the case. For his own part he thought that the Hindus were well aware that they had to learn a good deal from Europeans, and that, in the matter of municipal management, they by themselves could not do much. United with Europeans, they could do a great deal, but single-handed the Hindus were too weak. So he did not believe that the result would be in the direction apprehended.

Then, again, he fully subscribed to the remarks which were made by his hon'ble friend opposite (Mr. Brookes) as to the desirability of raising the number of those persons who should not be Hindus or Mahommedans. But there ought to be some principle on which the proportion should be regulated. If, as he understood, the object of the principle on which this clause was based was that there should be representatives who had a stake in the city, and that therefore persons paying rates only should be considered eligible for election, if that was to be the real principle upon which election was to be based, then the Council should consider which portion of the community had the greatest stake in the town. He was sorry that this question was raised, but it could not be avoided if the rule of proportion were laid down. It was an invidious question, but he could not help alluding to it. If it were left entirely to the judgment of the rate-payers to elect whomsoever they thought fit, that question would not arise. Considering, then, the comparative stake which the several sections of the community had in the town, he thought the Council ought to regulate the rule of proportion accordingly.

With regard to the qualification of persons to be elected, his hon'ble friend had already anticipated him: in fact they had dwelt upon that point in their joint dissent. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL had already given notice of a motion that the payment of taxes should be included in the qualification of persons to be elected; and he had also given notice of another motion that the qualification of Rs. 100 should be reduced to Rs. 50. And here he should state, for the information of the Council, that in Select Committee he did not object to Rs. 100. But it had since been represented to him by native gentlemen that the qualification of Rs. 100 was too high, considering the peculiar position in which educated native gentlemen, who would probably be most competent to discharge the duties under the law, were placed. He believed it would be admitted that it was in the highest degree desirable that the intelligence of the town should be fairly represented in the municipal body; and it was thought that the qualification of Rs. 100 in the payment of rates would be too high, and would exclude a large number of the educated natives from coming forward. Perhaps it would be convenient to discuss that amendment after the general principle of the clauses was disposed of.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT enquired, if the hon'ble member voted for the omission of the first part of section 5, what would he say to Section 3, which provided that out of 18 members appointed by the Government, not less than one-half should be Hindus or Mahommedans: he presumed that in that case the hon'ble member would leave the choice of the Government unrestricted.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL said he would leave it entirely to the discretion of the Government to appoint Hindus, Mahommedans, or Europeans, as it might think fit.

THE HON'BLE SIR STUART HOGG said he was quite prepared to admit that it was a very difficult task to lay down in the way the Committee had done the proportion of the members of the different nationalities to represent the rate-payers. However, he might say that it was absolutely necessary to do so, otherwise the inevitable result would be that nearly all the members of the Corporation would be Hindus, and the Mahommedans, Europeans, and other nationalities would not be fairly represented. He agreed with the hon'ble member opposite (Mr. Brookes) that objection might perhaps be taken to the small number of 18 being allotted to nationalities other than Hindus and Mahommedans. Of course it might be that many of these 18 would be Armenians, Jews, and persons other than Europeans. But it must be borne in mind that the population of Calcutta consisted of communities and persons of all nationalities. The foreign community of Calcutta consisted of only about 24,000 or 25,000 souls; consequently, taking the whole population at 450,000, it struck him in drafting the sections that the number he gave (18) was very fair, having regard to the very small number of persons other than Hindus or Mahommedans residing in Calcutta. If the proportion of 18 was raised to 25, and we adhered to the principle that the Government was to dictate to the wards the number of each nationality which was to be elected by that particular ward, then we had to face this difficulty, that we should be calling upon Natives, Mahommedans, and Hindus to return European members. It might be said, generally, that in all Calcutta there were only four wards where Europeans resided,—the wards south of Dhurrumtollah Street, and perhaps a portion in Old Court House Street. The idea of the Select Committee was that these four wards should each be called upon to return four members of nationalities other than Hindus or Mahommedans, leaving it to one of the other wards to return two members of this class. The remaining 12 wards would return entirely Hindus or Mahommedans, as it was supposed they would be able to select from amongst the native community persons who were in every way qualified to represent their interests. If, however, we increased that number to 25, Government would be compelled to call upon the wards occupied exclusively by natives to return Europeans, which was a somewhat anomalous position to assign to them. He would here remark that from the census of Calcutta, the number of Hindus appeared to be about 290,000 or 300,000; the Mahommedan population about 133,000. But although the Mahommedan population was a little less than one-half of the Hindu population, yet the intelligent portion of the community was chiefly found amongst the Hindus and not the Mahommedans. And although we had a large number of Mahommedans, they were mostly composed of the poorer classes, and probably very few of them would be entitled to vote for men to represent them in the Corporation. Consequently we might assume that nearly all of the rate-payers who would return members would be Hindus. For that reason the proportion of 9 Mahommedans to 27 Hindus had been given.

His Honor the President observed that on a question of this kind, if the members approved, he would propose merely to take a provisional decision,—to take the sense of the Council on the proposed sections, with the proviso that such decision should not in any way bar the right of any member to bring forward amendments at a future meeting. He would first put the proposition, should the Bill lay down any specific proportion of nationalities amongst the members of the Corporation or not?

The Hon'ble Sir Stuart Hogg would suggest that if the Council were very strongly opposed to any proportion of nationalities, the number of members to be appointed by the Government should be increased to 24, leaving 48 to be elected.

His Honor the President remarked that the alternative put forward by the hon'ble mover of the Bill was that which His Honor suggested on the 27th November last. He would call the recollection of the Council to what he said then:—

"After much reflection, it appears to me that the best number I can suggest is sixty. Out of these, at least forty, or two-thirds, should, in my opinion, be elected, and the remaining one-third be appointed by Government. But whether the proportion should be one-third or some less proportion than that, say one-fourth, would depend on the decision that is arrived at as to whether certain thanas should be obliged to return European representatives. If that exception were not allowed, and if it were possible that all the representatives elected would be natives, then I think it would be necessary to give Government the power of appointing such European (official or non-official) gentlemen as it may see fit. In that case the number should be at least one-third to be appointed by the Government. But if, on the other hand, that exception were allowed, and a positive chance be given to the Europeans in the European quarter to be elected representatives, then I think it will be sufficient for the Government to have the power of appointing either one-third or one-fourth; then it would be able to select perhaps certain officials who, from their position in the town, are peculiarly qualified to be Commissioners, or certain European non-official gentlemen, or also certain native gentlemen of rank and position."

In reference to what had fallen from hon'ble members, the first point on which he should ask the provisional decision of the Council was whether there should be a proportion of nationalities laid down by the law or not. If the Council decided that there should not be any proportion of nationalities, then the question would arise as to whether the proportion of members to be appointed by the Government should not be increased. He might say that in so far as he could perceive, it was not a matter which very much concerned the Government; either plan was quite feasible; that was to say, you might have a section as now drafted, prescribing the proportion of nationalities by law, or you might omit any such dictation by law, and then increase the proportion of members to be appointed by the Government, and leave a discretion to the Government to appoint whom they thought fit. This was exactly one of those provisions on which it appeared to His Honor that the Council should be able to give their decision. He thought it would be admitted by the majority at least of the Council that if you did not lay down any proportion of nationalities, then you must give to Government such a proportion of appointed members as would give Government the means of rectifying the balance if necessary; and the question would be whether the proportion of appointed members should be one-fourth or one-third. Hon'ble members would see that if you only allowed one-fourth to be appointed by Government, and the remaining three-fourths to be elected without restriction of choice, then it would leave a very narrow margin to rectify the balance. But if you allowed one-third to be appointed, there was no doubt that that proportion would give the opportunity of rectifying the balance, supposing any rectification were necessary.

The Hon'ble Baboo Kristodas Pal thought that the proportion of one-fourth would leave a sufficient margin; but if the Government thought one-fourth not a sufficient proportion, he would leave it to the discretion of the Government to appoint one-third.

After some further conversation, the question that the first six lines of section 5 (declaring the proportion of nationalities) be omitted, was put and agreed to, and the motion to increase the number of nominated members from 18 to 24, or from one-fourth to one-third, was also carried.

The Hon'ble Mr. Brookes's motion to include "taxes" in the qualification for election as a member of the Corporation was agreed to; and the Hon'ble Baboo Kristodas Pal's amendment to reduce the qualification for membership from the payment of Rs. 100 rates and taxes to Rs. 50 was negatived.

The section as amended was then agreed to.

Section 6 provided that in the case of partnership firms, or joint undivided families, the Chairman should decide which of the members of the firm or family was eligible for election.

The Hon'ble Baboo Kristodas Pal enquired whether it was clear that the Chairman's decision as to which member of a firm or joint undivided family should be included in the list was open to an appeal before a stipendiary Magistrate, for if it were not so, he would move that the words "subject to an appeal under Section 12" be added to the section.

The Hon'ble the Advocate-General believed that the decision of the Chairman would be open to appeal; there might, however, be a doubt in the matter, and he therefore thought the words proposed should be inserted.

His Honor the President thought it would be very difficult for a Magistrate to adjudicate upon the Chairman's decision in a matter of this kind. If for instance the Chairman had to decide between three brothers, one of whom might be old and disabled, another very sickly, and the third a man of ability and energy, he would probably exercise his discretion by entering the name of the most able man of the family. That was exactly a sort of question which the Chairman would be best qualified to decide. Suppose the Chairman's decision was appealable to the Magistrate, would the family itself like to have the merits and demerits of its members argued before the Magistrate? His Honor believed not. It was a kind of administrative question; and partly a personal question, which he thought ought not to be appealable to a Magisrate.

The Hon'ble the Advocate-General observed that if the Magistrate found no good ground for interfering with the Chairman's decision, most probably he would not interfere with the decision passed.

The Hon'ble Mr. Dampier believed that, under ordinary circumstances, the members of a family would agree in naming their representative; but if they could not agree, he thought the Chairman should decide for them, and his decision should not be appealable.

The Hon'ble Baboo Kristodas Pal submitted that the object of the law, as His Honor had often told them, was to provide for extreme cases. If for instance the Chairman should not accept the representative named by the family, but nominate some other member of the family, would not the members of the family have a right to appeal?

The Hon'ble Mr. Bell thought that no appeal should lie from the Chairman's decision. The best plan would be to allow the members of the joint family to nominate their own representative; and if they could not agree, the family should not be permitted to avail themselves of the privilege conceded by this section.

The HON'BLE SIR STUART HOGG remarked that in every case an inquiry would have to be held as to who were the members of a joint undivided family. It must be an arbitrary provision of law. The point had been very carefully considered in Committee, and they had found it very difficult to provide any satisfactory solution of the question. He would prefer giving an appeal to a Magistrate as the simplest way of deciding the question: it would enable the Magistrate to rectify any mistakes which the Chairman might make. That, he believed, was the intention of the Committee.

The HON'BLE MR. DAMPIER thought there would be so many cases in which there would be no doubt and no dispute as to which member of a firm or joint undivided family should be taken as the representative, that we should give the members of the family the privilege of nominating a member where they did agree. Then in the cases in which there was doubt or dispute as to which member should be nominated, he thought that the Chairman should have the power of selecting the person who should represent the firm or family. That would prevent litigation. There should, he thought, be no appeal from an executive inquiry such as this.

The HON'BLE MR. DAMPIER'S proposal was then put and negatived.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL'S amendment to insert the words "subject to an appeal under Section 12" was agreed to, and the section as amended was passed.

Sections 7, 8, and 9 were agreed to.

Section 10 having been read—

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL moved that this Section and the following be taken together. Section 10 required electors or persons qualified to be elected to apply to the Chairman of the Commissioners for registration of their names as voters or persons qualified to be elected, and then the Chairman would insert their names and publish the list. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL would move the omission of Sections 10 and 11 and the substitution of the following:—

"As soon as possible after the commencement of this Act, and subsequently on or before the first day of March in each year, a list of the persons qualified to vote at any election, and also a list of the persons qualified to be elected as Commissioners of the town, shall be prepared, printed, and affixed by the Chairman of the Commissioners in some conspicuous place in or near his office, and at the Police Station of each of the wards, or at some other conspicuous place in each of the said wards; and the Chairman shall forthwith give notice of such publication in one English and one vernacular newspaper published within the town; and the said list shall be open to public inspection at all reasonable times of the day for fifteen days after the date of the publication of such notice.

"The Chairman shall be at liberty at any time to revise the said lists for the purpose of removing therefrom the name of any person not duly qualified and erroneously entered therein, or of recording the name of any person duly qualified and erroneously omitted therefrom."

He might mention, for the information of the Council, that this was a section which had been originally agreed to by the Select Committee at the first stage of their deliberations; but the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill, who was also the Chairman of the Justices, informed the Committee that it would be practically impossible for him to prepare correct lists with the materials at his disposal, and he thought it therefore necessary that voters should be required to send in their names, and he should then prepare a list from the applications so registered. Now, BABOO KRISTODAS PAL submitted that if any one was in a position to prepare a correct list, or an approximately correct one, it was the Chairman of the Justices. He had the machinery at his command, which ought to enable him to know which of the rate-payers were eligible to act as electors or to be elected. The provision which BABOO KRISTODAS PAL recommended was taken from the Bombay Act; and if in Bombay such a section worked successfully, he did not see why it would not work equally well here. The Chairman said that many houses in the town stood in the names of persons who were dead, and that therefore it was impossible for him to obtain the names of those who were actually now the owners of property or actual rate-payers. Supposing that the procedure which the hon'ble mover recommended, and which was embodied in the Bill, was accepted, it would not obviate the trouble the Chairman would have to incur in any case. Suppose a person sent in his application to the effect that he was qualified to vote. The Chairman must satisfy himself that he was a rate-payer, and paid Rs. 25 annually; and if the Chairman could not find his name in the assessment books, he must institute independent enquiries, either from the Collector's rate books, or from the books, of the assessing or some other officer at his disposal. In either case enquiry must be made. But if an elector were required to send in his application for the registration of his name, practically the new machinery would be brought to a dead-lock. Considering the peculiar circumstances of native society, BABOO KRISTODAS PAL did not hesitate to say that there were many persons who would not trouble themselves to exercise the new privilege. If they, on the other hand, came to know that the published lists contained their names, and they were recorded as voters, they would doubtless exercise the franchise; but he did not know that there would be many persons who would take any trouble before they knew that their names were entered in the list. The Chairman would perhaps have to go over the same thing twice if he had to receive names from applicants. First, he must satisfy himself that the names borne on the assessment lists were not correct; and secondly, that the application made was correct. It would be much better, BABOO KRISTODAS PAL thought, if the Chairman took the initiative, prepared the lists and published them throughout the town, and invited persons to make any objections they might have, before the electors were furnished with voting papers. As the system had worked fairly, as he was informed, in Bombay, he thought it ought to be adopted in Calcutta.

The HON'BLE SIR STUART HOGG said that he regretted he could not accept the amendment which had just been moved, for the reason that it would be practically impossible for the executive to carry on the work proposed by the amendment. The hon'ble mover of the amendment knew better than any one that in the Northern part of the town most of the property, he might say, was registered in the names of persons who were not actual owners. It belonged mostly to Hindu families, who, to prevent dissension and to avoid disputes, allowed property to stand in the names of their ancestors; and the Justices never considered themselves justified in changing the names of the proprietors of houses, except upon the application of persons in whose possession the property was. The consequence was that the property remained registered in most cases in the names of deceased persons. They sent bills to the houses, and payment was made in the name of the person in whose name the property stood registered. Consequently it was absolutely impossible for the Chairman to prepare a list of persons in the town who had, during the year preceding, paid Rs. 25 in rates and taxes. The plan proposed to be adopted was that the persons who desired to avail themselves of the privilege of the franchise given to them in the Bill, should come forward and say that they were proprietors or occupiers of such and such a house, and that they had, during the preceding year, paid rates and taxes amounting in the aggregate to Rs. 25. They would then be called upon to prove their qualification, and the proof would be that they would have to produce receipts for the money they had paid during the year. These receipts would then be compared with the registers in the office, from which lists would be made. He would ask the Council not to impose upon the executive a duty which, he felt certain, it would not be possible for them to carry out in an efficient manner.

The HON'BLE MR. DAMPIER said, if he understood the matter rightly, there would be this objection to the adoption of the scheme proposed by the hon'ble member opposite (BABOO KRISTODAS PAL). If the Chairman had to prepare the list, we should have a list containing the name of the same individual often in different places. He himself for instance paid the water, police, and lighting rates in the name of a Mr Caridia, of whom he knew nothing. Under the procedure proposed, Mr. Caridia would probably be entered as a person qualified to vote in virtue of his paying those rates.

Then, again, MR. DAMPIER paid the tax on horses and carriages in his own name, and therefore his name would probably also appear in the Chairman's list as a person qualified to vote. So that in a list prepared by the Chairman as proposed there would be two entries to represent the one vote which Mr. Dampier would have the right of giving. There would be no such double entries in a list prepared on the application of persons who claimed votes. He thought, therefore, that the plan proposed in the draft sections was the better of the two.

The motion was then put and negatived, and Section 10 was agreed to.

Sections 11 to 16 were agreed to.

Section 17 specified the various objects to which municipal funds were declared liable.

The Hon'ble Baboo Kristodas Pal said he would take a preliminary objection to this section. He might remind the Council that the question of the application of the municipal funds was originally discussed in the Council and disposed of, he believed, in reference to section 5, in which it was proposed that the Justices should have power to apply municipal funds to other purposes than those specified in the Bill, provided the same were sanctioned by them in meeting. When that section was discussed in the Council, objection was raised by himself and an hon'ble member who was then absent (Mr. Schalch), and he believed by other members too, that such powers ought not to be given to the Justices, as the municipal funds were sufficiently burdened at present, and that they were not sufficient to meet the ordinary requirements of the town. The Council was divided, and that part of the section was thrown out. Such being the case, he doubted whether it was competent for the Select Committee to re-open the question, and extend the scope of the law for the application of municipal funds. He raised that objection in Committee, but he was in a minority. If the object of the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill was simply to summarize the specific purposes to which the municipal fund was held to be applicable under the law, Baboo Kristodas Pal would not object; but the hon'ble member had gone beyond that; he had considerably added to the objects to which municipal revenues were now declared to be applicable. In the joint dissent which he and his hon'ble friend opposite (Mr. Brookes) had recorded, they had specified some of those items, and he would take them one by one.

First of all, take the items under the heading "public health," which ran as follows:—"Defraying the cost of the construction and maintenance of hospitals and dispensaries, and of the charges of vaccination, the registration of births, deaths, and marriages, and taking a census." Now, under the existing law, which had been in force for the last twelve years, the Justices had no power whatever to make any grant for the construction of dispensaries and hospitals. He might remind the Council that about five years ago application was made by Government to the Justices for a grant towards the re-construction of the Medical College Hospital. Government also appealed to some other public bodies, but were not successful, or only partially so. Government wanted six lakhs or more for this purpose, and the application to the Justices was renewed more than once. The local Government applied to the imperial Government, but there too the appeal was not quite successful. They then thought proper to apply to the Municipality, but the Municipality replied that they had no power to make a grant for such a purpose. He should not be surprised, if this clause of the Bill became law, that the same application would be renewed once more, and the first item of additional expenditure would perhaps be the re-construction of the Medical College Hospital. He need hardly remind the Council that this hospital was an imperial institution, and was maintained out of imperial or provincial revenues. It would in fact be relieving the imperial or provisional revenues at the expense of the Municipality if such a provision as this were inserted in the Bill, and such a charge thrown upon the municipal fund.

The next case was the item of "dispensaries." The only hospital which the municipal funds were required to maintain was the Pauper Hospital, and that very properly, as the poor of the town went there, and the town bore the charge. But in this clause not only were hospitals included, but also dispensaries. Now, there were one or two dispensaries in the town which were maintained by Government, one of them being the Sookea's Street dispensary. He would not be surprised if these dispensaries were thrown upon the Municipality for support if this provision were passed. Then, under the colour of this provision, it was impossible to say how many other institutions might be thrown on the municipal funds. There was the Mayo Native Hospital. Hitherto the Justices were not called upon to support it, because the law did not permit them to apply their funds to that purpose. He did not say that the support and maintenance of hospitals and dispensaries was not a good object. But what he did maintain was this, that the municipal funds had now numerous claims of primary importance which they could not fairly meet, and an increase of burdens upon them would necessarily lead to an increase of taxation.

Next, there was the item of "registration of marriages." Here, again, they were called upon to anticipate legislation. There was no law which now provided for the registration of marriages.

He would next turn to paragraph 2; and there he found the words "and gardens," which he thought should be omitted. Now, the municipal funds maintained public squares in the town. This section gave power to the Commissioners to make gardens and supply funds for their maintenance. Perhaps hon'ble members of Council were not aware that some time ago a move was made to throw upon the municipal fund a portion of the charges for the maintenance of the Eden Gardens. At last it was decided that the Strand Bank revenue in charge of the Port Commissioners should, as heretofore, be applied to the maintenance of the Eden Gardens Who knew but that that question might again arise? Then, again, the Commissioners might think it desirable to open new gardens. Of course gardens were proper and desirable things, but it was a luxury which the town was not in a position to pay for. And as the Commissioners should have a discretion to apply their funds to such purposes, there would be nothing to stay that discretion.

Then he came to "public instruction." If there was any one subject more than another which commanded his sympathy it was this. For his own part he believed that they could not spend too much money upon public instruction. But Calcutta, he must admit, was peculiarly situated. The number of boys attending schools of all classes was about 23,000; and here they had educational institutions of all degrees, from colleges to patshalas, and the people were able and willing to provide for the education of their children. He found that the number of boys under 12, taken from the last census returns, was about 37,000—and a large portion of these he took to be infants—and a great number of them went to schools other than patshalas—and the patshala-going population, he found from Mr. Woodrow's annual report, came to 3,312. It would be thus seen that exclusive of colleges and special institutions for professional instruction and higher schools, both public and private, there were nearly 3,400 boys in patshalas receiving instruction. So the poorer classes of the community were not utterly destitute of educational means for the instruction of their children. If, then, it appeared that the people were able and willing to provide sufficient education for their children, it would be wantonly taxing them again for providing additional means of education. The result would be, as in the other cases, to relieve the imperial or provincial revenues at the expense of the Municipality.

Then he came to this clause—"erection and maintenance of public halls, police stations, lock-ups, and other needful buildings." He must confess that a more indefinite provision in law had scarcely been framed than this. In the first place it said "public halls and offices." He did not believe that the hon'ble member meant that he would vote away municipal funds for the construction of offices which belonged to Government, or for the construction of halls all over the town. Then, again, "police stations" It might be thought desirable to have good houses for the accommodation of the police, but it might be more economical to pay rents than construct new buildings. Then he came to "lock-ups." It was only this year, he believed, that the Justices had voted a portion of the Fire-brigade Fund to the construction of the lock-hospital. [His Honor the President.—That fund was at the disposal of the Government.] But if this section were passed, the construction of other lock-ups and lock-hospitals might be determined upon, and the expense would probably be thrown upon the municipal funds, and to that extent Government would again be relieved. Then, again, he would refer to the words "needful public buildings." He did not understand what those words meant. They were very vague, but at the same time they were very comprehensive. And lastly, he would come to the words "generally all objects connected with the public safety, health, and convenience." These words, again, were so comprehensive, and at the same time so vague and indefinite, that anything and everything might be included under them.

Thus a wide latitude would be given to the Commissioners to spend the public funds which would be entrusted to them. If he rightly understood the original object of the Bill, it was simply this, that it should be a purely consolidation measure. He did not know that the opportunity would also be taken to increase taxation; and there was sure to be additional taxation if these powers were conferred upon the Commissioners. It might be said that the Commissioners would be elected by the people, and they might therefore be trusted with these powers. But the Council to-day had decided that two-thirds were to be elected by the rate-payers and one-third by the Government. Besides, the power to spend money, whether by Government or representative men, ought to be, and could not but be, too jealously guarded in this country. The vast masses would be practically unrepresented in the Corporation, though the electoral franchise went down so low as Rs. 25 a year. The hon'ble member in charge of the Bill had pointed out that this would give an electoral body of only 13,000 persons, and it should be remembered that Calcutta had a population of over 450,000. To guard against the intrusion of the very poor into the electoral board, the Select Committee had provided that "land" for the purposes of this clause should not be land including huts; that was to say, the very poor were to be excluded from the privilege of voting. He therefore submitted to the Council that they could not be too jealous in conferring upon the Commissioners the power to spend money. The Municipality was already burdened with a heavy debt. The interest and the sinking fund alone amounted to more than ten lakhs per annum, or nearly equivalent to a ten per cent. house-rate. The drainage scheme had not been completed, and its completion would cost at least thirty lakhs more. Then the water-supply was notoriously deficient to meet the every-day requirements of the people, and to double it would require another thirty lakhs, and the doubling of it would some day or another come to pass. Then there were other numerous wants of the town which had yet to be provided for. The Northern division of the town was so much intersected with narrow streets and bye-lanes, that if the Municipality had funds at their disposal they could not be better applied than to the widening of some of these narrow and tortuous lanes. Then, again, while water was considered a blessing, he believed fourteen miles of bye-lanes were still unpiped for water; and while all these pressing wants of the town remained unprovided for, they were now called upon to give power to the Commissioners to fritter away their resources upon objects of secondary importance,—perhaps of no importance at all. In the name of the poor rate-payers of the town he did protest against this clause.

The HON'BLE SIR STUART HOGG said, as the Bill stood before, the Corporation was merely empowered to expend "money for the purposes of the Act." He had had the honor of holding his present position of Chairman of the Justices for the last ten years, and during that time there had always been a difficulty to know what were the purposes of the Act, and they had had more than once to seek for legal advice on that point, because the "purposes of the Act" were not sufficiently clearly defined. He had therefore suggested the insertion of words which would enable the Justices to declare, with the sanction of the Government, to what other purposes the municipal fund might be applied. A debate on that proposal took place in Council, and the objection taken was that the words were too vague; and he was told that if he wished to define the purposes of the Act, he must state distinctly what purposes he intended to include. Following the suggestion which had been thrown out, he had drafted the section before the Council; and he submitted that the purposes he had defined were purposes upon which the municipal funds of the town could be reasonably, properly, and beneficially expended. He did not say that there was any probability of expenditure for all these objects being required immediately. But this Act, he presumed, would be in force for many years to come, and it was necessary to look ahead, and to give an elective Municipality the power to expend money on such objects. It was true that the crying wants of the town were an increase of the water-supply, and also an extension of the drainage scheme. But he would submit that hand in hand with those improvements it might not be improbable that we should be called upon to expend money on other works of improvement. For instance, if great sickness prevailed in the town, it might be necessary to establish dispensaries, and dispense medicines to the poor throughout the town. In the case of the Orissa famine, the Justices had to overstep the powers given to them by the Act, and expend money in providing hospitals. We must look forward, then, to the possible requirements of the town, and also such exceptional contingencies, and give the Municipality power to expend money when the requirements of the town demanded that they should do so on legitimate purposes which fairly came within the terms "public safety, health, and convenience." Exception had been taken to the clause providing for the erection and maintenance of public halls, offices, police stations, lock-ups, and other needful buildings. The Justices had now to maintain the Town Hall, and they had spent large sums upon its repair; and they had to erect a Municipal Office: and it appeared desirable to empower them to construct police stations, lock-ups, and other needful buildings which they might consider necessary. Whether the expense of repairing and keeping the Town Hall in order was within the four corners of the Act was doubtful. In the same way, although the Justices had erected a Municipal Office, there was no provision in the Act to enable them to maintain it. It would be the object of the Municipality not to expend money unnecessarily, but it was necessary to state definitively and distinctly what purposes fell legitimately within the scope of municipal expenditure; and he submitted that he had not departed from the intention of the law in any way to which exception could be taken. For these reasons he objected to the amendments proposed.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL's amendments were then severally put and negatived, save that the clause relating to "public instruction" was, on his motion, omitted.

Section 18 was agreed to.

Section 19 empowered the Local Government "upon complaint" to direct the Commissioners to provide funds for carrying out the compulsory provisions of the Act, viz. the maintenance of the police, the cleansing, drainage, and conservancy arrangements of the town, and maintenance of a proper and efficient supply of water.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL said he should mention here that the section, as originally drafted, had undergone material alterations after the Bill was brought to the last stage of the deliberations of the Select Committee, and the provision then was that if the Municipal Commissioners should make default in carrying out the compulsory provisions of the law, the Government would be competent to appoint Special Commissioners to carry on the municipal administration of the town. But the section as it now stood provided that if complaint were made to Government, the Government might order the Commissioners to carry out certain duties which they might have failed to perform, and the order of the Government should have the force and effect of a resolution passed by the Commissioners. There was a material difference between the provision so drafted and the provision adopted by the Select Committee. [HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT observed that it was not proper or necessary to refer in Council to drafts prepared in Select Committee.] But the section as it now stood was open to objection in another form. It began by stating that "on complaint" made, the Local Government might do so and so. Who was to make the complaint? Was it intended that if the Chairman should make a complaint to the Government, the Government might pass such an order; or was it intended that the complaint should be made by the rate-payers? That was a most important point, and ought to be cleared up. If, as he understood, the hon'ble mover of the Bill intended that the complaint should be made by rate-payers, then BABOO KRISTODAS PAL would propose that the complaint should be made by a large body of rate-payers, say five hundred. If the section as worded were carried, and if it was intended that the Government might be moved to issue an order to the Commissioners on complaint made by the Chairman, then that would practically neutralize the spirit of the new constitution. It would be useless to give the rate-payers power to elect representatives for the administration of the town, if it would be in the power of the executive to counteract their action.

The HON'BLE SIR STUART HOGG said the intention of the section was clear. It contemplated that the Local Government might put the provision into motion on complaint of any rate-payer who chose to bring to the notice of the Government that the Commissioners had failed in carrying out any of the purposes mentioned in Section 18, that was to say, if they had failed in making adequate provision for police, conservancy, or water-supply, the Government might then order such enquiry as it thought necessary, and compel the Commissioners to perform the duties which the law declared must be performed. The power was similar to that which the Bombay Government had assumed to control the Municipal Commissioners of Bombay. And as that town had an elective system, he certainly thought the Government had properly reserved to itself such a power; for, however much the Local Government might desire to give free institutions to the Calcutta community, the Local Government would be held directly responsible for the administration of the affairs of this town, as well as of the whole province of Bengal.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said he was sure the Council would see, on consideration, that interference of the nature contemplated by Section 19 would be of rare occurrence, because it was a serious thing, when once a Municipality on a representative system had been constituted, to interfere directly with their action. Government might do so on necessity; but without some clear necessity, the Government was not likely to assume so invidious a duty. Complaints might be common enough, but he ventured to think that action on such complaints would be rare.

The HON'BLE MR. BELL considered that the Chairman should have the power, both in his public and private capacity, to make a complaint under this section; and he held that in certain cases, such as the stoppage of drainage works, it would be the absolute duty of the Chairman to make a representation to the Government, and get them to decide the point.

After some further conversation, the motion to make the complaint a complaint of not less than 500 rate-payers was negatived, and the section was passed as it stood.

The proposed Section 42 provided that if the Commissioners failed to provide sufficient funds to carry out the purposes of the Act, the Local Government might declare the rates and taxes to be imposed.

The HON'BLE BABOO KRISTODAS PAL said that this was the last straw which broke the camel's back. If this section passed, he would rather set his face against an elective system than vote for it in this form. The section gave power to the Local Government to modify or cancel rates which might be fixed by the Municipal Commissioners after full and mature deliberation. So long as this section should remain a part of the Statute Book, he did not know whether any independent gentlemen, with any feeling of self-respect, would care or would be willing to work for an object which would be likely to be set at nought at the pleasure of Government. The other day the Justices, after days of labor and discussion, came to the decision that a 7½ per cent. house-rate would be sufficient for the year. The Chairman was not, of course, satisfied with that decision; and as, under the present law, the Government had no power to alter the rates, the Chairman was bound to accept the decision of the Justices so long as they saw no reason to alter it. But if the Government had power, under the existing law, in the way proposed in this section, then the Chairman might have at once gone up to Government, and the rate passed might have been cancelled. It might be urged that Government would not unnecessarily exercise that power. But at the same time BABOO KRISTODAS PAL submitted, with due deference to the Government, that it would be chiefly inspired or guided by the Chairman in a matter like this. Government could not be expected to be master of those details which the Chairman, it was thought, ought to be; and in such a matter the Government would necessarily be guided by the Chairman. With every deference to his hon'ble friend who now so ably filled the office of Chairman to the Justices, he submitted that the tendency of the executive had always been to expend money, and that tendency it had been the business of the working Justices to control. That, he submitted, was a healthy policy. He thought such a state of things was good for the town—good because the Chairman, as the executive officer, might be anxious to undertake works of improvement which it might be desirable to carry out—and good because there was an independent working body of Justices to temper the excessive zeal of the Chairman,—and their conduct in this way helped to preserve the much needed equilibrium. But once that power was destroyed or lost, it would come to this, that the Chairman, however reasonably he might be overruled by the Commissioners, would have only to appeal to the Government; and as the representative of the Government, he would in nine cases out of ten be likely to be supported by it. Such being the tendency of this section, he was sorry he could not support it; and he was compelled to say that, if it were carried, it would defeat the very object for which His Honor so laudably sought.

The Hon'ble Sir Stuart Hogg said he regretted that the hon'ble member was unable to accept the proposed section. For it must be clear that, if Government considered it necessary to reserve to itself the right of general control, as provided for by Section 19, it logically followed that when Government required certain works to be performed, it should be in a position to place the Municipality in funds to carry out the orders it had received. If they omitted this section as proposed by the hon'ble member, the result would be this:—Government would issue an order on the Municipality to perform a special work. The reply from the Commissioners would be, "we have no funds." They would produce their books and show that their statement was correct. Government would then be unable to take any further action without placing the Municipality in funds to carry out its own order. That was a state of things which the legislature should contemplate and provide for. It was true that up to the present time the Calcutta Municipality had carried out, during the past ten years, very many important works at a very large expenditure of money. It was equally true that the energy of the executive had been checked by the wisdom and moderation of the working Justices. But while it was proposed to extend these powers to their successors, yet at present the Justices were supposed to be selected for qualifications which would enable the Government to place a large power of confidence in them, which it would be impossible to place in an elective body. Unless we knew who the rate-payers would elect, and were fully certain that they would exercise a wise discretion in their election, it would be impossible to concede to them the powers the present Justices had. Such being the nature of the case, he thought it was absolutely necessary that this section should be retained. He would also remark that it gave precisely the same power as the section which the Bombay Government retained in their Municipal Act, save that the latter was much broader in its terms.

The Hon'ble Mr. Bell said he thought the hon'ble member opposite (Baboo Kristodas Pal) had forgotten that, even in England, the law could compel public bodies to levy rates for carrying out objects imposed upon them by law; and the provision in this section merely gave to the Government the same power which the courts exercised over public bodies in England; and it seemed to him that, as the Municipality were heavily indebted to the Government, and the interest and sinking fund of that debt alone amounted to ten lakhs annually, there clearly must be some means by which the Government or some other body should compel the Municipal Commissioners to raise sufficient funds to meet their liabilities and carry out the purposes of their Act. Suppose, for instance, the Commissioners should reduce the house-rate to one per cent., and thus deprive themselves of funds to pay their debts, was not the Government to have some power of interference? There was no doubt that action under this section would not be unnecessarily resorted to, and that it was only intended to meet exceptional cases. He could not see any objection to the provision. Suppose the Commissioners failed to raise sufficient funds, there must be some means to compel them to do their duty. If the power was not to be lodged in the Government, the hon'ble member should suggest some other body who could better exercise that function.

The Hon'ble Baboo Kristodas Pal said the law provided that the interest on the debt should be the first charge on the municipal fund, and if that obligation was not discharged, the property of the Municipality was liable; so that not even the Chairman could receive his salary, or the lowest peon receive his pay, unless the interest on the debt was satisfied, and therefore there could be no apprehension on that score. He had not the slightest objection to the constitutional power exercised by the courts in England. He believed the hon'ble member would not contend that the courts and the executive authority were in the same position. Then, with regard to what had fallen from the hon'ble mover of the Bill, that the Government might not have that confidence in elected Commissioners which it now had in nominated members, he believed that the Government would not have consented to concede the privilege of election if it did not believe that the people were worthy of confidence.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said, that in reference to what had fallen from the hon'ble member (BABOO KRISTODAS PAL), to the effect that the Government would not have proposed an elective system unless it had much confidence in the people, it was perfectly true. When he proposed the elective system in this Council, he then had, and still had, much confidence in the rate-payers. The only question was whether one was to have that extreme degree of confidence in them, that you should entrust to them, absolutely and without control, such important interests; and he said that, considering that this was an experiment which had yet to be tried, it would be too much to ask the Government to repose in them that extreme degree of confidence. He for one had much confidence in them. Whether he had that extreme degree of confidence in them he could not say until experience had been gained. On the point of confidence, he begged to point out that these proposals, which were provisionally accepted by them that day, did in fact transfer a great deal of power, which had hitherto been possessed by the Government and the Justices, to an elective body and their representatives. Surely hon'ble members would perceive that at present the Government had no control by law over the Justices. Yet, nevertheless, the Justices appointed by Government were Government nominees, and it necessarily followed that there should be a community of sentiment and opinion between the Government and the Justices. The Justices were in a great degree part of the Government, and there was agreement between the Government and its nominees. Therefore, really the control which the Government now had was complete—the most perfect kind of control possible, inasmuch as the Justices were uncontrolled by law, but being Government nominees were in unison with the Government. Now, this Bill proposed to transfer the powers of the Justices to another body of gentlemen who were to be elected—of whom Government had no idea as to who they might be, and knew nothing of them at present. Therefore, he said, to transfer powers like that was a very great step in advance—was really a great concession—a substantial concession on the part of the Government and its officers towards the people of Calcutta. Hon'ble members would doubtless perceive that although the Government proposed to maintain a legitimate power over the Commissioners, it must be presumed that the power would not be exercised without clear cause shown, and under extreme necessity.

It was difficult for the Government to interfere authoritatively with the action of a body of elected Commissioners. It was still more difficult to alter the decision of such a body, especially in the matter of taxation. Besides, there were certain limits in the Act beyond which neither the Government nor the Municipality could go; but within those limits the Municipality should decide, subject to an appeal to Government. The Government was not likely lightly to exercise such a power in a matter affecting the pockets of the people. He believed that every member of the Council, who had experience of public affairs, would see that it would be very difficult for the Government to interfere under the powers given in this section. Now, by the present system, the power was indirectly complete. By the new plan, we proposed to pass from a complete system of indirect interference to a system of an almost exceptional interference directly, and that was a considerable transfer of power, which indicated a confidence in the rate-payers of Calcutta,—a confidence which he hoped their conduct would deserve.

The motion was then negatived, and the section passed as it stood.

On the motion of the HON'BLE SIR STUART HOGG, verbal amendments were made in sections 2, 3, 7, and 23 of the Bill, and the Secretary was instructed to make the necessary corrections throughout the Bill.

The Bill, as provisionally settled, was then ordered to be published in the Gazette, and brought up for further consideration after three weeks.

The Council was adjourned to a day of which notice would be given.

Dated Chowghoria, the 2nd November 1875.

From—SYED ABDOOL FUTTEH, Zemindar of Chowghoria,

To—BABOO PARANUNDA MUKERJEE, Deputy Inspector of Schools, Burdwan District.

I HAVE the honor to state that the Gazette of India announces that His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales will land in India on the 8th instant. As this is one of the happiest news, and we should do something in showing our respect and loyalty to His Royal Highness, I have thought it fit to send herewith the Hindu and Mahomedan law books as per margin, for distribution to the poor boys of the primary schools of this district, as I think the books may be of great use to the boys for their home studies; besides it is desirable that everybody should know the law of their land, especially the law of inheritance and marriage.

	14	Bogra, „ 5, „	Nil.	Weather—Fair. Amun rice crop is almost entirely cut.
	15	Pubna, „ 5, „	Nil.	Weather—Occasionally warm till the 4th instant, when the wind veered to the north-west and north, and the temperature is this day some 9° lower than on the 3rd instant. State and prospects of the crops are much the same as last week. The outturn of maskalie and moung pulses has been fair; that of sarsa, mustard, poor. The dal crops now on the ground will do fairly if we have rain soon. Cholera in the epidemic form has ceased, and the health of the district is at its normal state.
COOCH BEHAR DIVN.	16	Darjeeling, „ 4, „	·05	Weather—Cold and cloudy. Wheat, barley, and mustard are doing well. Ground is being prepared for rice and other crops.
	17	Julpigoree, „ 5, „	Nil.	Weather during the week has been very changeable. No change to report in the prospects of the crops. Rain is greatly needed. None during the week.
		Cooch Behar, „ 3, „	Nil.	Weather—Cloudy on some days of the week, and cold as usual. There were only a few drops of rain on Saturday night. Rain is still wanted for tobacco and other crops. The tobacco crop is generally promising, but if there be no rain the outturn will be unsatisfactory.

* Telegram of the 7th February, received on the same day, shows rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

		Eastern Districts.
DACCA DIVN.	18	Dacca, Feb. 7,* '76	Nil.	Weather—Cooler than last week. The state and prospects of the crops are fair.
	19	Fureedpore, „ 5, „	Nil.	Weather—Continues seasonable. During the last two days it has been unusually cold. The state of the rubbee crops is same as reported last week, i.e., they will suffer should no rainfall.
	20	Backergunge, „ 3, „	Nil.	Weather—Close for this season of the year. Rain wanted. Prospects of the crops are fair. Still a few deaths from cholera and fever.
	21	Mymensingh, „ 4, „	Nil.	Weather—Fine and dry, becoming prematurely warm. Prospects of the crops are favorable. The want of rain is seriously injuring the grazing lands.
	22	Tipperah, „ 4, „	Nil.	Weather—Still dry and somewhat warm. Crops are fair. The winter crops require rain.
CHITTAGONG DIVN.	23	Chittagong, „ 3, „	Nil.	Weather—Mornings foggy. Hot weather apparently coming on. A few drops of rain in parts of the district. Tea gardens are much in want of rain. Cholera and small-pox are still prevalent.
	24	Noakholly, „ 3, „	Nil.	Weather—Fair. Mornings were foggy and cloudy. Pulses, chillies, sessamum, melon, &c., are progressing fairly. A little rain would do much good. Cholera and small-pox still prevail in certain parts of the district.
	25	Chittagong Hill Tracts, „ 1, „	Nil.	Weather—Seasonable. Mustard is being gathered. A very poor outturn owing to want of rain in September and October. The tea gardens are suffering from drought.
		Hill Tipperah, „ 2, „	Nil.	Weather—Warmer than usual at this time of the year and occasionally cloudy. Mustard is being harvested, and tobacco and chillies on the ground are doing well. Public health is good.
BEHAR
PATNA DIVN.	26	Patna, Feb. 7,* '76	Nil.	Weather—Very cold, with strong westerly wind. The prospects of the rubbee crops are favorable. Health of the district is good.
	27	Gya, „ 5, „	Nil.	Weather—High west winds, with very little intermission. Warmer than usual, save the last two days. Thermometer reached 87°. No sign of rain. Public health is good. Rubbee crops are still better than might be expected after the long drought. Very fair in much the larger part of the district.
	28	Shahabad, „ 5, „	Nil.	Weather—Hot in the commencement, but now cold, with strong westerly wind. Prospects of the rubbee remain unchanged. Rain is much wanted.
	29	Durbhunga, „ 5, „	Nil.	Weather—Cold, with westerly wind. No report received from Madhoobany. Elsewhere there is no change in the prospects of crops, and prices shew a tendency to decline.
	30	Mozufferpore „ 5, „	Nil.	Weather is getting rather warmer. Strong west winds prevail. The prospects of the rubbee crops in Seetamarhee sub-division have been much improved by the last rain, but elsewhere they are unaltered. The present weather is very unfavourable for wheat and barley crops Continued importations from Nepaul and Chumparun, and abundant supplies of grain, which have lately come into the district from North-Western Provinces and Oudh, have kept the prices of maize and barley exceedingly low. The principal markets are glutted. Mozufferpore dealers apprehend heavy losses on local stores, and a year of unexampled cheapness (except of rice) is now anticipated by the people. At Hazeepore and Mozufferpore maize has fallen from 25 and 28 seers (in October) to 40 seers per rupee (in February); and in the latter town barley to-day is 45 seers against 30 seers in October. At Seetamarhee maize and barley have fallen from 34 and 25 seers (in October) to 40 and 35 seers (in January); but notwithstanding vast importations of food during the last three months, and stagnation of export rice trade, the price of common rice has remained stationary since 1st November, being 22½ seers against 35 seers in January 1875. The expansion and energy of private (import) trade have been marvellous, and anxiety on the score of future food supplies no longer exists. The latest accounts from Mr. Mosley, Sub-Divisional Officer at Seetamarhee, report—"Makai pouring down from Nepal," and "makai carts swarming,—coming from Nepal."
	31	Saran, „ 5, „	Nil.	Weather—Very cold; cloudless sky with westerly wind. No change in the state and prospects of the crops since last report. The rubbee crops are progressing favorably. Mustard and peas are being harvested. Wheat, barley, and ruhur pulse, are doing well, and fast reaching maturity. Poppy is everywhere forward. Indigo prospects are indifferent. The steady westerly wind is drying up the moisture in the fields. Prices (rice excepted) are favorable. General health is good.
	32	Chumparun, „ 4, „	Nil.	Weather—Rain is wanted. West wind is prevailing everywhere. There is no change in the state of the crops. If rain does not fall shortly, the rubbee crops in the south of the district will probably suffer considerably.

* Telegrams of the 7th February, received on the same day, show rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

	No.	District and date of return.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather, state and prospects of the crops, and state of health at date.
BEHAR.—(Contd.)
BHAGULPORE DIVN.	33	Monghyr, Feb. 4, '76	Nil.	Weather—High cold westerly winds. No change in the prospects of the crops since last week, i.e., the rubbee prospects continue fair. In the extensive low-lying dearas the crops are very good. Rubbee crop being cut. Outturn on high lands expected to be about an eight-anna crop. On the high lands the crops are scanty in consequence of no rain having fallen since they were sown in October. The crops on the low-lying inundated de ras continue good.
	34	Bhagulpore, " 7,* "	Nil.	Strong cold westerly winds, injurious to the rubbee, which, if no rain falls soon, will not be more than an eight-anna crop. In places it is still very good. Rice is cheaper in Soopool generally than in Banka or head-quarters sub-division. Murwa is about 30 to 35 seers the rupee in Soopool, but the sub-divisional officer reports he expects distress soon. The condition of the people is good, and general health is very good.
	35	Purneah, " 5, "	Nil.	Weather—Cold, with sharp westerly wind. No change in the state and prospects of the crops since last week. Rain is much wanted.
	36	Sonthal Perghs. " 5, "	Nil.	Weather in Dumka not so bad as last week. Occasional high wind. Little crop of any kind is on the ground. Country is extremely dry.
ORISSA.
ORISSA DIVN.	37	Cuttack, Jan. 29, "	Nil.	Weather—Cold and dry. Crops are doing well. A little rain would do good, but is not absolutely needed. Cattle disease in places. Human health is generally good.
	38	Pooree, Feb. 3, "	Nil.	Weather—Clear, and very little cold. Harvesting of the sarud, or the main rice crop is nigh completion. Sugarcane is being cut. Pulses are flowering, and some almost ripe. Castor plants are growing well, and some flowering. Tobacco plantations going on. Dalwa paddy crop is in progress.
	39	Balasore, " 4, "	Nil.	Weather continues fine. No rain has fallen in the district since the 24th October, and ploughing has accordingly not yet commenced. The cold-weather crops have been good, and are now off the land. Cholera and small-pox are prevalent.
CHOTA NAGPORE.
		South-Western Frontier Agency.
	40	Hazareebagh, Feb. 4, '76	Nil.	Weather—Cold, with high west winds. There is no change to report. The rubbee crops continue to suffer from want of rain, while the high west winds are drying up the whole country.
	41	Lohardugga, " 5, "	Nil.	Weather—Cool, but disagreeable, owing to the strong west winds. The absence of rain has affected the crops in some parts of the Sudder sub-division, but not to any great extent yet. From Palamow the Assistant Commissioner writes—The strong west winds are drying up the crop. No signs of rain. The strong west winds still continue to blow. Small-pox still exists in parts of Palamow, but the cases are not many.
	42	Singbhoom, " 4, "	Nil.	Weather—Seasonable. Such crops as remain are favorably reported, but some rain is now needed for preparation of land for the ensuing season. The district is healthy.
	43	Manbhoom, " 5, "	Nil.	Weather—Cold winds blowing. State and prospects of the crops same as last week. So far as the Deputy Commissioner has been able to judge, the few crops on the ground at present appear good, but he expresses an anxiety as regards the scarcity of water. Unless there be rain soon, he is afraid there will be an unhealthy season. Cholera is reported in one or two places.

* Telegram of the 7th February, received on the same day, shows rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

The mean barometer, as likewise the dry and wet bulb thermometer means, are derived from the twenty-four hourly observations made during the day.

The dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants. The figures in column 10 represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity. The receiver of the lower rain-gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the anemometer 70 feet 10 inches above the level of the ground. The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

[Amended.]

No. 2367, dated Fort William, the 16th November 1875.

From—R. B. CHAPMAN, Esq., Secy. to the Government of India, Financial Dept.,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department.

I AM directed by the Hon'ble the President in Council to invite the attention of the Government of Bengal to the subject of the expenditure incurred for the purchase of books published in India, and to suggest the expediency of some restrictions upon the discretion now exercised by heads of offices in this matter.

2. It appears to the Government of India that, as a rule, books should not be bought at the public expense without the previous sanction of the local Government, or, under its instructions, of certain responsible heads of departments; and further, that such sanction should not, except for special reasons, be given to the purchase of any books except law books.

3. Moreover, the Government, as a rule, should not undertake to supply, at the public cost, commentaries or annotations on Acts of the legislature: such works ordinarily form part of an officer's private library.

4. Directories and such like works should only be allowed under special circumstances, where there may be evident inconvenience to the public service if they are not at hand for reference. The local Government should decide to what offices books published by the Government should be supplied, such as the Postal Guide, the Civil Lists, the Codes of the Financial or Public Works Departments, the Army Lists, &c. In future, indents for such books should not be complied with unless received through the local Government, or authorised by some general or special order of the local Government. No payment should be required for books of this class.

5. The suggestions in this letter have reference only to books published in India. The purchase of newspapers and other periodicals, and of books published in Europe or America, is subject to separate regulations.

6. The Government of India will be glad to see in due course any instructions which may be issued in consequence of these orders.

Circular No. 19.

Unless such charge be paid, the soil will not be received.

16. Every Municipal mehter shall be numbered and registered, and shall be furnished with a badge bearing his number and depôt number.
